Extra billings are claimed by doctors who decline to accept as payment in full that portion of their bill to patients which is paid by provincial medical care insurance plans.

Premier Robarts has said Ontario will consider whether to permit its residents to buy insurance against extra billings, which is prohibited by provincial medical care insurance legislation.

The provincial plan starts Oct. 1 and will pay 90 per cent of doctor bills. It will qualify for payment by Ottawa of half the per-capita cost, provided the change mentioned by Mr. Robarts is not made.

Questioned about the effect of such a change by Ontario, Mr. Munro initially said nothing in federal legislation would prevent purchase of such extra billings insurance from a private carrier.

But he issued a statement later which said, in part:

This would not only defeat the prime object of the medical care program but should also directly encourage physicians to increase their charges and it would unquestionably have an escalating effect upon the cost of medical care."

Such a step would create differences between the citizen who could afford to buy such additional coverage and the citizen unable to afford it or considered by the insurance industry as an undesirable risk.

"The purpose of the (federal) act was to remove the patient's financial situation as a factor in his ability to obtain necessary medical care," Mr. Munro said.

A Small Conference

Chairman of the Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society Alvin Miller discusses with United Appeal representative Mrs. Arthur Clare project plans for the future. The society assists arthritic and rheumatic patients in the city through a weekly clinic—just one of their services.

Spell It C-A-R-S, It Means H-O-P-E

To the 285,000 Canadians disabled by arthritis, the Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society brings help and hope.

Finding the cause of arthritis and its cure, providing training for specialists and information for all health workers vitally concerns the society.

CARS is interested in expanding and improving patient treatment services and facilities, but particularly, it aims to help the general public recognize symptoms and the need for prompt medical attention.

The society was incorporated 21 years ago and on the local community level involves a weekly clinic session at the hospital for arthritic and rheumatic patients.

Chairman of the local society, Alvin Miller, explained that there are several women in the city involved in assisting patients at the clinic, saving time for the physiotherapist.

"A step further in our local services would be the hiring of a full-time physiotherapist, followed up by improved home care. Then we would be able to serve individuals outside the immediate area," Mr. Miller explained.

One of the unique services available to the society is the "loan cupboard" through which crutches and other necessary supports are supplied to patients. Other agencies use and assist in the maintenance of the cupboard, and as Mr. Miller noted, "with very little overlapping."

At the present time, the Quinte branch consists of the Hastings and Prince Edward counties area. Trenton is forming its own chapter within the near future, while areas such as Tweed have their own chapters, providing expanded services.

"On the local level, we are keeping things running through the help of volunteers, and of course, the United Community Services," emphasized Mr. Miller.

"We place the emphasis on research, and the participation in follow - up treatments. We must make the public aware of the services available — we cannot afford to waste any of them," he added.

One in five Canadians suffer from arthritis, so whatever money the society can put into research and treatment it feels is justified.

"For the two forms of arthritis that strike, progress is being made. We are looking forward to the future with hope — that is our reward, which gives our workers the impetus to continue their efforts to assist all they are able," remarked Mr. Miller.

The fact that so many people are willing to contribute their time and services free of charge indicates the wonderful response the society has received right here in the area, asserted the chairman.

This agency, as a member of the United Community Services is dependent on the United Appeal Campaign for its source of income.

"We do receive some small donations, but for the most part, we depend entirely on donations from the United Appeal — so be more successful the campaign is will equal the continuance and provision for more services," emphasized Mr. Miller.

Surgeons See Ring Technique

At the moment, doctors are using the Deloro Stellite implants as quickly asathey can be manufactured.

Mrs. George Carver of Belleville underwent the operation this morning and Mrs. J. E. Embury of Shannonville was operated on yesterday, with local doctors and nurses forming the medical team that assisted Mr. Ring.

Technicians from Loyalist College set up and operated the closed circuit television equipment that piped the pictures of the operation to visiting surgeons in an adjacent room.

Most of the equipment was supplied by Zentronics (Eastern) Ltd. William Prentice of the firm was on hand in the corridor of the OR suite this morning to assist the four-man Loyalist team monitoring the sets.

A photographer - reporter team from a McLean Hunter publications were permitted into the operating room to record the operation for their magazine.

When Mr. Ring performed an operation Friday, television equipment was tested to ensure its successful operation today.

Following yesterday's operation, Mr. and Mrs. Ring and a group of visiting doctors and city officials were conducted on a tour of the Deloro Stellite plant here. They observed production of the alloy, the same type used to make the implant prosthesis.

Assisting with the tour was C. R. Whittemore of Belleville, retired director of research with the local plant. He developed the alloy, first used for the hip implant device because it is inert in the human body and causes no tissue irritation or reaction.

16 Outdoor Rinks Slated for Winter

Belleville Recreation - Arena Committee, has approved the operation of 16 outdoor rinks with an additional two locations still under consideration.

Two of the sites approved—Belleville harbor and Zwick's Island cove — will offer dual rinks both with floodlighting, with the others being single rink locations.

The two-rink sites still under consideration by the committee are at West Park Village and either at the Maple Drive Ravine or the Vanier school site.

In submitting the list of rinks for the 1969-70 season, the committee attempted to provide equal distribution across the city and to utilize naturally flooded areas wherever possible.

Some of the smaller rinks used last year are being eliminated with others to be enlarged in an attempt to provide better ice surfaces and better lighting.

The list of rink sites approved is as follows: Exhibition Park, Harbor, Zwick's Cove, Quinte Tennis and Skating Club, Haig Road School site, Parkdale Park, Sanctuary Development, Avondale School, Harry J. Clarke School, Queen Elizabeth School, Queen Victoria School, Prince of Wales School, Bayview School and Hillcrest School-Community Centre.

Fire Record Sparks Optimism

By BARRY GRILLS
Staff Reporter

It is with a feeling of optimism that the Belleville Fire Department and all Canadian fire departments move towards Fire Prevention Week for 1969 to be celebrated from Oct. 5 to Oct. 11.

Nationally, fire departments can be proud of a 25 per cent reduction in fires in Canada and 21 percent reduction in household fires.

Locally, according to fire chief Leo Culhane, there have been this year more fire calls than last year, but fire loss is down substantially.

In 1968 fire loss in Belleville amounted to $437,473, but this year the figure is approximately $200,000 so far. Moira Furniture represents most of that total with $125,000 damage in that fire earlier this year.

The fact that fire calls are up, explained Chief Culhane, illustrates that firemen are getting to fires quickly and dousing them before much damage is done.

As of Sept. 25 this year Belleville Fire Department has had 290 fire calls, 15 more than last year at the same time.

But the threat and damage of fire is far from being removed and the caution of citizens is still being sought.

Last year 63,707 fires in Canada claimed 648 lives. The victims included 241 children. The estimated property loss was $158,420,000.

And Chief Culhane echoes the words of national fire prevention officials when he says no one escapes the responsibilities of fire in the home or on the job.

Belleville Fire Department has many activities lined up to exemplify caution to control loss of life and injury in fires.

However, it will not be anything new for the department. Fire prevention continues 24 hours a day, 365 days a year for the department.

The Belleville force will be conducting complete inspections of businesses on the basis of attacking a fire should one start.

This type of inspection involves the consideration of exits, building condition, location of alleys and fire-fighting routes and familiarization with different aspects of the building.

Other members of the department will be visiting schools and churches to show films and lecture on fire fighting apparati and fire prevention.

The school visitations by firemen will begin a week prior to the Oct. 5 commencement of Fire Prevention Week.

The fire halls will have an open house for adults on Wednesday Oct. 8 from 3 p.m. until 9 p.m. Children will have an opportunity to visit the fire station on Sat. Oct. 11 from 1 p.m. to 4.

The open houses will be held at both firehalls and citizens will have a chance to watch demonstrations of fire apparati. Among the equipment to be shown will be a new 100-foot aerial ladder which will arrive during Fire Prevention Week.

Snowmobiling Night Course

Anyone for snowmobiling?

If so, a night course is available this winter at two Hastings County secondary schools.

Both Moira in Belleville and Centre Hastings in Madoc are offering an outdoor education course for adults in connection with night school.

Moira's class in snowmobiling is described as a "general course in snowmobile maintenance safety precautions and orientation."

It is one of six new courses on Moira's night school program this year. Another is defensive driving for both men and women, a course on simple maintenance, accident prevention, and rules of the road.

Two new courses introduced this year into the regular school system will be offered also for adults at night school.

One is elementary psychology, a Grade 12 credit course. Another is contemporary problems, a current events seminar course that explores the backgrounds of such subjects as Canadian federalism, race relations and the communications revolution.

If 15 or more individuals make applications for instruction in any other subject, every effort will be made to open a class. No class can be offered, according to department of education regulations, unless at least 15 people register for the class.

Fees for most courses are $10 for the season. Only exceptions are English for new Canadians, with a $2 fee, and welding a $19 fee.

Registrations will be taken at Moira Sept. 29, BCI Sept. 30, Trenton High School Sept. 29 and Centre Hastings Sept. 30, from 7 to 9 p.m. at each location.

Classes will be held at BCI every Tuesday and Thursday night from October to March. At Moira the sessions are on Monday and Wednesday nights.

In Trenton, classes will be held Monday through Thursday nights, and at Madoc on Tuesday nights.

With seven people in the family, how do you keep everybody comfortable? The Rutherfords say "With electric heating!"

When Bob and Daphne Rutherford had their house built in Nepean, near Ottawa, they chose electric heating for the extra space it would give. Now, after six years of all-electric living, they'll tell you that electric heating means more to them than the extra space it gave. It means comfort for them and for their five growing children; it means an end to humidity problems; it means reliable warmth, without noise; and it means economy, too, when compared with neighbours' heating costs.

Here's what Mr. and Mrs. Rutherford have to say.

"Cost is considerably less than we anticipated," says Mr. Rutherford. "And look at all the extra benefits! There's no lost space in the house. We've got the ultimate in control. It's quiet, and there's no dirt. I've never experienced heating more steady."

"It's so clean," says Mrs. Rutherford. "I don't have to dust as often."

"With thermostats in each room, if someone wants more heat, they can have it, just in that one room. Electric heating keeps everyone happy!"

Whether you're looking for a new home, or planning to modernize an older one, choose the ultimate in comfort—safe, clean, economical electric heating. There's a system just right for every home. Call a qualified electric heating contractor, or ask your Hydro.

Mr. Holyoake's Visit

Prime Minister Keith Holyoake of New Zealand is one of the elder statesmen of the Commonwealth so Canadians should take all the more seriously his appraisal that relations between Canada and his country have slipped apart in recent years.

He attributed this to the pre-occupation of each country with its own special interests, especially in foreign affairs. Canada for example was interested in Europe and NATO, New Zealand with developments in Southeast Asia.

But renewed ties clearly are in the offing as a result not only of Mr. Holyoake's visit but the talks in Wellington, NZ, last spring between Trade Minister Jean-Luc Pepin and New Zealand officials. Mr. Pepin proposed then that the two countries hold regular discussions on matters of mutual interest.

This is now mere diplomatic platitude. Canada, Australia and New Zealand, with Britain, all along have been bastions of the Commonwealth. Even now, with the comity of nations more multi-racial in character than ever before, it is all the more important that these European - populated countries stick together. Any alienation of relations between them could prove disastrous for the entire Commonwealth.

One area of mutual interest at the moment is Canada's efforts to establish diplomatic relations with Communist China. And it was in this regard that Mr. Holyoake administered a gentle reproof at the prospect of Ottawa renouncing the Nationalist Chinese government in Taiwan.

The New Zealand prime minister noted that his country was a small one of fewer than three million people. Thus he had a feeling for such countries, and he would not relish Canada, for the sake of expediency, cutting its ties with Taiwan or even, for argument's sake, with New Zealand. Population totals he said were not by themselves a valid reason for giving membership to China.

The talks Mr. Holyoake has been having with Prime Minister Trudeau are obviously timely. They have ranged over both trade and diplomacy. One subject, however, that may have been mentioned without being publicized was that of air links between the two. CP Air for years ran a service from Vancouver to New Zealand via Hawaii and Fiji, but this has been discontinued pending negotiations between the two countries over landing rights. A renewal of such a service, to include flights by New Zealand's national airline, would go far to restoring closer ties between the two countries.

Extended Vacation

John W. Eleen, research director of the Ontario Federation of Labor thinks business and industry should give their employees six months off with pay after completing ten years of work with the same company.

He compared this with the practice of universities giving their professors sabbatical after seven years and with some industries receiving a depletion allowance from government.

It is a nice idea, but it gives rise to some questions. Would employers allow such a period of freedom with pay, or even half-pay? Ideally a man would like to travel, but how many family men would be able to afford such an extended luxury? And if he cannot, is there anything worthwhile like taking himself and his family abroad, then what would be the use?

He could always stay home and potter around the house, do all those odd jobs that have been waiting for so long. And he could always put in a bit of study.

Or he might just quietly lose his mind. To a work-oriented society, that could well be the case with many a citizen.

Perhaps work and a few weeks' holiday is not such a bad idea after all.

September Morning

So we have had the first rain of any consequence of the fall, and the inevitable cooler temperatures, although that is not to say we will not have some summery weather to come yet. This is also the season of morning mists, particularly in the rural parts where patches of white hover eerily across marsh and valley. The children, up with the birds, are like so many silhouettes in a photograph by Roloff Beny or an old print. All unknowing, these youngsters of the dawn appear like some imperishable piece of art. And then the bus comes and they are gone and there is only the road and the houses and the canopy of trees and the timeless countryside.

Fallout Shelters et al

Taxpayers Taken for A Ride on Carpet of Obsolescence

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — Prime Minister Trudeau and his high - powered special cabinet committee on Priorities and Planning supposedly are hot on the trail of what the head man himself has described as "government departmental programs no longer relevant."

What he means is that he and his five topmost-drawer cabinet ministers, Benson of finance, Macdonald of privy council, Drury of treasury board, Marchand of regional expansion and Sharp of external affairs, are looking for government services nobody needs or wants.

If the service is unnecessary, the prime minister has said, it is wasteful to spend tax money continuing it.

"The idea is to chop. In the name of economy and budget balancing, spending restraint, and the halting of inflation, a roll-back of increasing government costs and the anchoring of the ever-rising cost of living.

You hear talk of this or that branch of such and such a division of a department that vanished long ago being tucked away in various federal buildings here and there about town, and all but forgotten.

It can happen when a department is re-organized or re-named, amalgamated or liquidated.

Seldom if ever is anyone laid off — they are transferred.

How else could the government staff grow ever larger and costlier?

But how could federal government programs become irrelevant, as the prime minister has phrased it, you ask?

Easy.

Remember the fallout shelter program?

You should. It cost millions.

Some of it can be traced through the records.

The fallout shelter caper was the brainchild of the privy council office, and it took an initial $108,000 to give it birth.

There was $80,000 for the first printing of 1,500,000 promotional pamphlets called "Your Basement Fallout Shelter."

There was $18,000 to plug it on radio and TV.

There was $13,000 for mockups for display at fall fairs.

That was for starters, $108,000 down the drain.

But there was more.

An estimated 3,000 taxpayers went for a fallout shelter at a rock-bottom $500 per copy. The tab on that: an estimated $1,500,000. Plus the cost of food and drink to stock them for the "big siege."

That was not all, though.

For a few thousand more tax dollars, a fallout shelter for the prime minister was built at his official residence, No. 24 on ceremonial Sussex Drive.

It is still there — although goodness knows what Pierre Elliott Trudeau is using it for — in the basement, in all its pink-walled elegance.

Do not laugh. It was only eight years ago that the delicately - tinted bunker was stocked with canned food and bottled water, so the indispensable residents of 24 Sussex Drive could live while hiding from an invisible enemy whose arrival date over the national capital was completely uncertain.

But that was not all, either.

Twenty miles west of the city, in a pasture outside a little farming town called Carp, some hundreds of thousands of tax dollars were spent building a great underground shelter for the comfort, convenience and the creme de la creme of the mandarins.

The idea was that they would race madly out to Carp and go underground, literally, while the taxpayers dived into their $500 backyard and basement shelters.

But this federal frolic still was not finished.

Still to come was the "survey" of all federal buildings to locate dugouts for civil servants. Shelter was found for 200,000.

Seldom if ever did a federal fireball like the fallout shelter program fizzle so fast.

But wait.

It was all part — the big part — of the emergency measures organization that belonged to the privy council office. After its flame-out, it was quietly transferred to national defence where EMO still operated on a current budget of $4,999,500, down from last year's $5,885,800.

But would you believe there are still three on the once-considerable staff of the fallout section of the protection division of EMO?

They could be needed—but all those old fallout shelters, big and little, and all those wasted millions?

"I think we'll have to try a new approach — the only recruits we were able to get last week were two polar bears, a penguin and three musk-oxen!"

Helmet Issue Motorcycle Legislation

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

Last weekend approximately 200 motorcyclists protested in Toronto the helmet legislation passed by the Ontario government. I, too, share their displeasure.

My driving ability has been hampered by the compulsory use of helmets. My peripheral vision and hearing have been reduced to an unsafe degree. This was not of my choosing. The Ontario government decided I was to wear a helmet.

It is interesting to note that in the State of Illinois, the compulsory helmet law was ruled unconstitutional. At least one American state has realized the severe infringements upon personal liberty caused by this legislation. Other appeals are before the judiciaries of practically every state with a helmet law. I hope the Ontario government will realize the error they have made and correct it.

British Gen. William Howe occupied Philadelphia 182 years ago today—in 1777—instead of advancing northward to Gen. Burgoyne's army. As a result, the northern British column had to surrender at Saratoga. However, the rebel American army, deprived of Philadelphia, had to winter at Valley Forge, where hardships made easier a bid to remove Washington from command. Five months later France promised help and the starved rebel army began its drive for victory and independence.

1894—United States President Cleveland gave amnesty to people convicted of polygamy.

1940—Japan joined the Berlin-Rome Axis.

Twenty-five years ago today—in 1944—RCAF blasted the Ruhr Valley and attacked Calais; British and Belgium divisions reached the Meuse River at points along the 60-mile front fighting within three miles of Germany; first Canadian troops arrived in Australia as vanguard to Canadian Pacific Army.

Twenty-five years ago today—in 1944—it was announced that British submarines had recently sunk 32 enemy vessels in Far Eastern waters; the Red Army received permission to enter Yugoslavia in pursuit of German and Hungarian forces; British commandos landed unopposed on an island five miles off Greek Peloponnesus; Russian troops entered Lupkow Pass on the road to northern Hungary.

Painful Reading

Ottawa Journal

There's no more painful reading than the annual proclamation printed in the Canada Gazette calling for observation of Fire Prevention Week, this year Oct. 5 - 11. The purpose is to list fires and property destroyed and to encourage everyone to consider preventing loss. The pain is in the first two paragraphs of the proclamation:

"Whereas authoritative statistics received and published by the Dominion Fire Commissioner show that during the past 10 years, 760,000 fires in Canada have taken 5,500 lives, seriously injured at least 21,000 other persons and destroyed property valued at $1,450,000,000:

Youth Centre 'Walk' A Success

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

On behalf of the Belleville Minor Sports Association I would like to thank everyone in the community for their support in our walkathon.

The money raised will make a significant donation to the Quinte Arbor Committee in their effort to construct a multi-purpose youth arena.

Perhaps our greatest achievement was to unite so many people in a common, worthwhile cause.

We relied heavily on the young people in this area, as have all the walkathons in the past. It will therefore be the responsibility of the BMSA to see that the recreational requirements of these same young people be given top priority when the proposed centre becomes a reality.

In closing I would add, life is full of contradictions. Last fall a referendum on the construction of a $1 million, 5,000-seat arena was rejected by the voters of Belleville. Now, a year later almost the same people enthusiastically supported a project to build an arena designated for participants rather than spectators. I personally suggest that members of our present council and candidates in the upcoming civic elections consider these facts carefully

Speculators Eye West German Vote

Will Exchange on Mark Increase After Election?

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Speculators, with their massive injection of "hot money" in German banks, are betting on a fast profit with the expectancy that the exchange rate on the German mark will be increased soon after the election results.

Governments, such as the British and French, are hoping that as the German mark rises, pressures on their own currencies will be reduced.

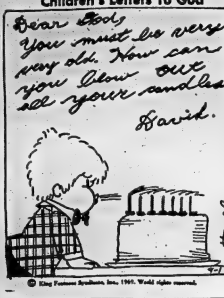
The election outcome could, of course, confound all sides, but it appears reasonable on the basis of poll-taking to conclude that some changes are afoot in West Germany's political life.

If Willy Brandt's Socialists win, it seems almost certain that he either would boost the exchange rate on the mark or take other measures such as heavier taxes on exports or lower rates on imports, that could lead to the same result over a longer period.

Dr. Kurt Kiesinger's Christian Democrats may be more reluctant to embark on measures which might reduce German prosperity, but pressures are so heavy that experts question whether he would continue to defend the status quo.

A great deal will depend on how the major parties emerge. The polls suggest that Brandt's Social Democrats have a good chance of forming the next government, but Kiesinger's party maintains formidable strength and the outcome may well require a continuation of the uneasy coalition between the two major groups.

An upward revision of the mark, providing it is of substantial size, might lead to an immediate exodus of all foreign currencies that have been rushed in on the prospect of a quick exchange profit. If these currencies are sent back home, they would help stabilize the exchange rates on the home front.



And if, in fact, a high exchange rate on the mark makes German exports more expensive, it eventually could lead to a situation where Germany may buy more than it sells, producing a deficit in her trade and payments instead of the big surpluses which have made the mark one of the world's strongest currencies.

But it does not necessarily follow that a higher exchange rate will lead to trade deficits. German exporters may find that through internal concessions they could offer their goods at slightly lower prices, thereby retaining their competitive position in world markets.

Much will depend on the fiscal and economic policies of the new German government. One factor relatively new in German life is worker unrest and the growing demand for higher earnings and other amenities. Meeting workers' demands could lead to higher prices on German exports and an increased German consumer market for domestic and foreign goods.

These are factors bearing on the future value of the mark. It would appear that even with a possible revaluation, the German mark is likely to remain an attractive product on world exchanges because of its heavy backing by strong reserves.

U.S. Catholic Bishops Back Sex Education

NEW YORK (AP) — Roman Catholic bishops in the United States have begun a strong push for sex education in both parochial and public schools despite angry opposition to such teaching from many Catholic laity.

Separate developments in various parts of the country show a deepening conviction among the 200 prelates that harmful sexual attitudes in American life must be fought by positive teaching instead of by just ignoring sex altogether.

—The family life division of the U.S. Catholic Conference, the operational agency of the bishops, endorsed sex education programs at its national meeting in Denver earlier this year.

—Two cardinals and a bishop issued a joint statement Tuesday supporting sex education programs in the public schools of Maryland, Delaware, and the District of Columbia.

—Bishop Alexander Zaleski of Lansing, Mich., in backing formal instruction on sex in his state two weeks ago, criticized "the unwillingness or inability of many parents to fulfill their responsibilities" and said it made public programs outside the home necessary.

Dozens of cities across the country have been the scene of angry meetings, picketing, demonstrations and public outcries by citizens of many faiths against whether and how to teach pupils what sex is.

Some right-wing groups have charged that classroom treatment of sex is pornographic, subversive and Communist-inspired.

The family life division found in a survey this summer that one-third of all U.S. Catholic dioceses—31 out of 155—already had or would have sex education programs in the 1969-70 school years.

Another 22 planned to start a program within two years, 42 have no plans of any kind, and 20 dioceses sent no reply. There are 13,000 Catholic schools with 5,000,000 elementary and high school students.

The division's director, Rev. James T. McHugh, said the thinking of Catholic authorities on sex education contains three essentials: Prime responsibility for a child's sexual knowledge and attitudes rests with parents, teachers must go beyond biological sex facts to deal with moral values and the family's role in society, and parents must be kept in constant touch with what is being taught.

Points for Parents

By MARY BRYSON

Mother: "I don't like Timmy to eat candy between meals nor to accept it from strangers, but everybody seems to want to give him a treat — the clerks in the stores, the neighbors, sometimes even strangers we meet on the street. It really is a problem."

Small children have to learn they may not accept things from strangers without your permission. Emphasize this rule often until the child follows it automatically.

Mother: "Timmy, you should always say 'I have to ask my mother first,' before you take candy or treats from anyone. If it's almost mealtime, we'll save the candy and you can have it later, but be sure to ask me before you take it."

'Meet the IODE' Scheduled for Monday Night

Monday night is "Meet the IODE" night at the Kwanis Centre with a variety of displays to explain the worthwhile work this organization has been doing in the Quinte area since 1915.

Sponsoring Monday night's open house will be the St. Julien Chapter of the IODE, which has played a vital role in the life of the community.

Honorary regent, Mrs. George Hume explained that the displays will help the visiting public understand what the organization does, and how funds are raised to help support it.

"The chapter provides many services at home and abroad — several of which the general public is unaware of," emphasized Mrs. Hume.

IODE members assist at local blood and cancer clinics, as well as making more than 150 articles a year for distribution among the poor in Canada and overseas.

The chapter also entertains new citizens after every citizenship court, welcoming them in a very personal way to their new homeland.

St. Julien's Chapter has offered bursaries to deserving students of each high school in the city for the past several years — indicating their keen interest in the education of youth.

The IODE has more than 960 chapters across Canada, with a membership of approximately 35,000 women.

"The aim of our organization which is non-secretarian and non-partisian is to help contribute to the unity of Canada, and the betterment of mankind," said Mrs. Hume.

In addition all of its other projects, the IODE sponsors the Eastern Ontario Concert Orchestra, and is an associate member of the Quinte Arts Centre.

"We especially would like to see the ladies out to see us on Monday night and former IODE members, and newcomers to the community," added Mrs. Hume.

Gibson Girl Plate Made by Royal Doulton

Picture Credit: Dundurn Castle Restoration)

The cartoon on the plate illustrated was done by an American, Charles Dana Gibson, and copywritten by Life Publishing Co. in 1902. The plate is pottery and was made by Royal Doulton about two years after the copyright date. It is a combination of two unrelated styles printed in blue and black.

Charles Dana Gibson was a popular illustrator of social themes. He drew an ideal type of woman who was much imitated. She was healthy, vigorous, beautiful, refined and in most instances, wealthy.

Gibson's great successful were: The Adventures of Mr. Pipp which eventually became successful play, the illustrations for The Prisoner of Zenda, by Sir Anthony Hope Hawkins and Soldiers of Fortune by Richard Harding Davis.

Gibson received $50,000 commission for illustration of 50 issues of Colliers, the largest commission for illustration up to that date. After countless printings of his illustrations including The Social Ladder in 1902 and Our Neighbors in 1905, Gibson retired from illustration and took up portraiture. He died in 1944.

When Gibson's illustrations were printed on pottery by Royal Doulton, he was at the height of his fame.

Sir Henry Doulton had achieved acclaim by his use of artists and designers. The first, employed after 1867, was George Tinworth who made terra cotta panels for the firm. His work was much admired by John Ruskin, and hence every other Victoria aesthete.

De Morgan was the most outstanding of the Doulton artists. He had studied with William Morris and under Morris' influence began work on tiles, pottery, vases and dishes, in a persian manner, decorated with greens and blues.

De Morgan left Doulton in 1888 although the background in the 1902 Doulton plate is a watered-down version of a de Morgan design in persian style, incongruously wed to a Gibson cartoon.

Sir Henry Doulton was granted a Royal Warrant in 1901 by Edward VII and pieces made from 1902 to 1922 bear the words "Royal Doulton England" in a circle surmounted by a crown and a lion impressed into the pottery.

Royal Doulton prices have not advanced appreciably. The plate illustrated, probably intended for a plate rail, rather than daily use, is worth about $10 in perfect condition.

A List of Some Common Fallacies About First Aid

By DORIS CLARK

If you saw someone who had accidentally jabbed himself with a nail — or who was doubled up with the pain of poisoning — or who had suffered a nasty burn on his arm — would you know what to do? Far too many people wouldn't.

Here are some common fallacies:

1. Mistake: If someone has suffered a nasty fall, rush over and help him to his feet.

Fact: If a fall victim has broken a bone, trying to help him up only increases the injury or even kill him. If he tries to get up by himself but shows severe pain, suggest that he remain where he is until a doctor arrives.

2. Mistake: If you burn yourself in the kitchen, apply butter.

Fact: You'd be better off putting the butter on bread and eating it. Butter may turn rancid and increase the possibility of infection. There are ointments to have handy for a burn.

3. Mistake: Bandage a wound as soon as possible.

Fact: Bandaging is actually the third step in first aid. First you should stop the bleeding and second, cleanse the wound with soap and running water.

4. Mistake: An emetic must always be given in cases of poisoning.

Fact: A corrosive poison, forced through a person's system by an emetic, could kill him. If he swallowed an acid poison such as cleaning fluid, give him milk of magnesia. Call the doctor.

5. Mistake: When first aid is necessary, ask yourself what a doctor would do, then do it.

Fact: Excessive first aid may be far worse than none at all. The important thing, when someone is injured seriously, is to get the help of a doctor as soon as possible.

Confidential to In Love: Can't you tell when you are playing second fiddle? It's poor comfort to tell yourself that Ted doesn't really like Cathie and that if he ever breaks up with her he'll go out with you again.

Better get with it. Your real comfort is in the fact that what you have is only a crush;

A FAMILY RECIPE

"A picnic lunch will be held . . . please bring necessary items — food, beverages, dishes." — From our family reunion notice.

Dear Relatives:

It is time again for our family gathering.
We have deceased members for which there will be only memories . . .

Each reunion, we thought as we read this, endearingly strengthens family ties. Where else is one surrounded by such warmth, loving interest, tender reminiscences, and laughter not to omit the heavenly food of culinary family dishes from treasured recipes. Recipes passed down from generation to generation — such as one right now, here in the kitchen of a dear, elderly relative with whom we are visiting until the picnic, at noon in the park.

"Yes, I've brought everything to the potato salad. All that's to be done is put it together," we say as our relative replies:

"Well — in that case, I'll just leave you to prepare it. If there's anything you need, just call," and she disappears as we begin chopping the thin slices of onion on the thick wooden block she put out for us, thinking as we do so, (most modestly!) though we claim no culinary bonors, our potato salad, so simple and easy, always seemed to taste good . . . when our relative suddenly appears, saying:

"I just remembered. I have some cucumber sliced in vinegar which I have in a jar in the refrigerator. How would you like to put it in, just as it is; only cut the cucumber up very small?"

"An excellent idea!" we exclaim. This we would never have thought of. Intrigues, we say so. "This will give it that something, a certain seasoning it lacks . . ." (this woman in her eighties is highly noted for her artistry in baking and cooking.) How often we've enjoyed and envied her appetizing casserole dishes, her salads (fruit and vegetable) and her pies, her cakes! And we hear her say,

"Now I happen to have some whipped cream. Would you like to add that with your mayonnaise, which should always be mid with potatoes", and she places a bowl beside us, its contents fluffy-white.

This — truly a happy suggestion. As the creamy mixture disappears in the diced potato depths, she stands beside us with another bowl — of sugar.

"Try adding a teaspoon as mother taught me, maybe a bit more, " and so saying, sprinkles some and we stir.

"If only we could have you with us more often, what a marvellous cook I'd be!" I tell her, honored, pampered, grateful that she should take pains, interest and time to share her secrets of the trade so as to be passing lovingly along an old family recipe.

A recipe to treasure, for we may as well confess to you, her potato salad at the family picnic vanished from its bowl like magic. It was so-o-o delicious!

A phenomenon not too uncommon with mid-teens like you.

Once you take a second look at some of the other fellows who want to date you, you'll be glad you are free to go.

Ideal Meringue for Lemon Pie

By MARY MOORE

LETTER: . . . You had a request from Mrs. B. D. for a meringue that didn't weep. I have a recipe that will keep for two days without weeping. It has become a favorite with our church group as we do lot of catering. Try it and I think you will like it . . . Mrs. Duncan McL.

Thank you.

For the benefit of other readers I will recount each step I took as I tested your recipe and put it on a cream pie.

FOOLPROOF MERINGUE
(Courtesy Mrs. Duncan McL.)

1 tbsp. corn starch
2 tbsps. cold water
½ cup boiling water
1 tsp. fresh lemon juice
3 egg whites
6 tbsps. sugar
¼ tsp. cream of tartar
¼ tsp. salt

In small saucepan mix corn starch and cold water to a smooth paste. Stir in boiling water and cook, stirring constantly until thick and 2 min. longer. Cool to room temperature and add lemon juice.

Meanwhile beat egg whites with cream of tartar and salt until foamy. Add sugar, 1 tbsp. at a time, while beating on high speed until meringue is very stiff. Do not underbeat. Add corn starch mixture all at once and beat until blended. Spread meringue over cooled pie filling, sealing to edge of pastry. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. 8-12 min. or until lightly browned. Remove from oven and cool away from drafts 2 or 3 hrs. before cutting.

Mrs. McL said that if this pie is left over the meringue keeps well in refrigerator for two days. It does too because I tested it.

Shuns Medical Help But Wants Bikini

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I've had a rotten, miserable summer. Please tell me now what to do to make sure that next summer isn't the same.

ANN LANDERS

About 75 per cent of all girls under 30 wear bikinis. (I am 17.) Most of these girls have nice hips, smooth legs and good figures. They have a great time because they know they look good. But what about the other 25 per cent of which I am one? I'm not fat but a little heavyon the hips. I could live with the extra pounds, but I'm terribly self-conscious about the broken veins on my hips and legs. These are net varicose veins according to the school nurse. She called them spider veins. Don't tell me to go to a doctor. I am too bashful. — PURPLE NETWORK.

DEAR PURPLE: I'm not going to tell you anything. It would be useless. You girls who think nothing of appearing 9:30 naked on a beach before strangers but are too bashful to go to a doctor with a medical problem are too much for me.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a career girl who lives alone. At various times during the past several months I have received obscene phone calls, so I obtained an unlisted number.

Certain sales clerks have become downright rude when I refuse to write my phone number on the back of a cheque to be cashed. I've offered to produce any number of credit cards and other legal identification but this does not satisfy them.

My credit is excellent. I have never had a cheque bounce. My references are the best. Does a clerk have the legal right to insist that I write down my unlisted phone number? — ANNOYED.

* * *

DEAR ANN: No.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a girl 15. Last Friday night I went to a dance which started at 8 p.m. and was over at 11. My father was supposed to come and get me at 10:45. I have an understanding with my parents that I am to be driven to and from these dances by my father or I can't go.

At 10:15 I saw my father walking around the dance floor, tapping kids on the shoulder, asking if they knew Eddie Brown. I was so embarrassed I wanted to die right then and there.

Finally one of the boys came over to me said, "You'd better start doing the Minuet in G. Your old man is here checking on you!"

When I left I felt like everyone in the place was laughing at me. I practically crawled out on my hands and knees. How will I ever be able to hold up my head again? What do you think of a father who would humiliate his daughter like that? Please answer in the paper. He is always handing me your column went he wants to get a point across. Now it's my turn. — L.A.

DEAR L.A.: I'm sure your father didn't mean to humiliate you. Now that you got your point across, I'll be he'll wait in the car.

Wants 1970 Peace, Opposes Setting Troop Withdrawal Deadline

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon said Friday he wants to end the Vietnam war in 1970 and that any move now by Congress to impose a final United States troop-withdrawal deadline would defeat the search for peace.

Holding his first news conference in more than three months, Nixon acknowledged that the Paris peace talks have achieved no significant progress.

However he cited what he called some hopeful signs—plans for withdrawing at least 60,000 U.S. fighting men from South Vietnam by Dec. 15 cancellation of November and December military draft calls that would have affected 50,000 young Americans; a one-third drop in U.S. battlefield casualties since last year, and a two-thirds decrease in infiltration of North Vietnamese soldiers into South Vietnam.

Surveying the North Vietnamese government in the wake of President Ho Chi Minh's death, Nixon said U.S. policymakers expect a period of uncertainty and rigidity in the North because of a power contest for Ho's mantle.

Emphasizing that he does not want to raise false hopes, Nixon said he foresees a chance of policy changes in Hanoi as new leaders emerge and past policies are reviewed—"and as long as the United States holds to its course."

Nixon's most strongly-worded statement came when he was asked about a Thursday proposal by Senator Charles E. Goodell (Rep.-N.Y.) for legislation requiring withdrawal of all American troops from South Vietnam by the end of 1970.

Army Names Suspected Killer in Berets' Case

SAIGON (AP) — The United States Army said today Green Beret Capt. Robert F. Marasco, 27, of Bloomfield, N.J., fired the pistol that killed an alleged Vietnamese double agent. The killing resulted in murder charges against six Green Beret officers.

The army broke a relatively strict silence on the case and released the charges and specifications against the six officers despite defence objections, which were overruled Friday.

The charge sheets accused Col. Robert B. Rheault, 43, of Vineyard Haven, Mass., former commander of the 3,000 Green Berets in Vietnam, of premeditated murder, although they said he did not participate in the actual slaying.

The army charged that Rheault, in the June 15-20 period, conspired with seven other Green Berets in the slaying of Thai Khac Chuyen.

The specifications said Capt. Leland J. Brumley, 27, of Duncan, Okla., obtained a boat to carry the victim from the 5th Special Forces headquarters at Nha Trang and "did administer an injection of morphine to Thai Khac Chuyen to render the said Thai Khac Chuyen unconscious."

"Capt. Roberto F. Marasco, a co-conspirator herein, did request Capt. Robert A. Wolf to obtain a heavy chain to be used in disposing of Thai Khac Chuyen, and the said Capt. F. Marasco did shoot Thai Khac Chuyen with a pistol," the specification said.

It gave no further identification of Wolf, bu military defence lawyers identified him as a supply officer. He has not been charged in the case.

The six officers have been charged with murder and conspiracy to murder in the death of Chuyen, a Vietnamese claimed by the Green Berets to have been a double agent for the Americans and the North Vietnamese. Defence accounts said he was ordered executed by the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency. The CIA has denied any involvement.

Cheaper by Mail State Dept. Finds

OTTAWA (CP) — The state secretary's department, which last year reported that it put out 15 separate news releases at a cost of about $40 each, put out a single one Friday that apparently cost 10 times that much.

An announcement of five appointments to the Company of Young Canadians permanent council was sent directly to 94 English-language newspapers and 10 French-language papers over teletype circuits.

Peter Donnen, director of media relations with the department, told reporters he had no idea what the distribution cost was for the announcement.

"I could find out for you," he said. "But it would take about two days to search through the invoices and I would hate to put myself out of action for that long."

But an official at CN-CP Telecommunications, which carried the bulk of Friday's transmissions, said the cost would be about $4 for each receiving point—a total of more than $400.

In a written reply to a question in the Commons last year, the department said it had cost $600 to put out 15 news releases.

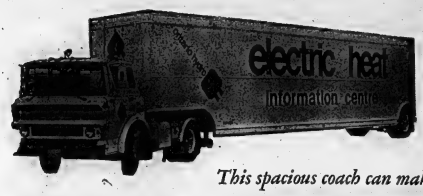
Expo Pavilion Designer Faces Robbery Charge

MONTREAL (CP) — George Ben Edmondson, former escaped convict and self-taught chief engineer of Germany's Expo 67 pavilion, returned to the U.S. Friday to face a new trial for a 1961 armed robbery in Missouri.

Edmondson made the trip following an order from the Missouri state court to appear in Joplin, Mo., by Monday.

U.S. immigration officials at Montreal International Airport were unsure if he could enter the United States because, in the words of one official, "your citizenship is being questioned," but decided to let him travel to Joplin "on parole."

Edmondson is currently appealing a Canadian immigration department deportation order and also has a charge of making a false declaration to obtain a passport before the courts.



Edmondson, who used the name Alex Peter Bormann in Canada, was sentenced to 20 years in Missouri State Penitentiary for an armed holdup in 1961 but his sentence was later reduced to 10 years.

After escaping from penitentiary in 1965, he came to Canada where he assumed his new name and found work as chief engineer at the German Expo 67 pavilion.

In 1967, the RCMP discovered Bormann's true identity while he was working at Shawville, Que., and turned over to the FBI which had him on its list of most wanted men.

Following his return to the U.S., Edmondson's 10-year sentence was set aside on the grounds that he had not been properly informed of his constitutional rights at the time of his first trial, and last March he returned to Montreal where his wife and child live.

BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 27, 1969

by Maurice Switzer

Let Garibaldi and Montreal brawl over which will be host to the 1976 Olympics. Let the mayor of Moose Jaw blow the city hall stamp budget on letter-lobbying for next summer's Canada Games.

Belleville has landed the Frog Pentathlon. Not since the tortoise beat the rabbit by a hare has an athletic event reeked of such animal magnetism.

To date, competitors have been entered from Illinois, Michigan and New Jersey. Because of the prestige surrounding the first-ever Eastern Ontario Invitational Hopathon, the three out-of-town frogs will be personally coached by the mayors of their respective communities which coincidentally, all bear the same name as this Quinte hamlet.

The Pentathlon will be staged at 5 p.m. Monday. Prospective spectators are advised to turn left at the first water lily past City Hall on Market St.

Local hopeful for top frog laurels is Alphonse de Lavallee, owned and trained by Dr. Russell J. Scott of the Bancroft Swamp Raiding and Bicycle Club.

Trainer Scott serves as this city's chief magistrate when not side-de-camping for Alphonse.

First prize will earn the top hopper honorary membership in the hall-of-the-month club.

The three runners-up will have their names engraved in a place of honor on Mark's Fish House menu.

Alphonse and Friend

Since he was transported to Belleville earlier this month, De Lavallee has been undergoing an intensive training program at Bob Blaind's Amphibians' Gym on South Front Street.

The three visiting entries arrived in the city yesterday, and enjoyed a welcoming banquet of minnow fillets and worm casseroles a la Blaind.

"We're trying to keep Alphonse off the heavy calorie stuff," Coach Scott told newsmen Friday. "No hotdogs or pastries."

"He's doing about 7,000 knee-bends a day, and yesterday he covered the 100-centimetres in two seconds flat.

"The discus may be a problem — Alphy took a bad bass bite on the shoulder Wednesday night when he went out for a few laps of harbor."

"Can I help it if they've acquired a taste for Number 4 Shot," he shrugged.

De Lavallee's most serious challenger for the gold medal is expected to be "Leap" Lagoon, known as the Willie Mays of Illinois fly-catching circles.

The two favorites will probably decide the title in the fifth and final event, the obstacle jump, which will be held over a hot skillet of melting butter.

At press time, all entrants were in perfect health, although De Lavallee complained of a slight human in his throat.

Corvette Class Races Sunday

A class race for Corvettes manufactured at Belleville Marine Yards will be held this Sunday in the Bay of Quinte between the Bay Bridge and Nigger Narrows.

Six of the 31 foot fibreglass sloops, designed by Cuthbertson and Cassian of Port Hope, will compete for the prize — a half - hull model of a Corvette put up by Belleville Marine Yards owner, Ian Morch.

All Corvettes competing in the race sail under the Bay of Quinte Yacht Club burgee. The favorite is Varuna, skippered by Grant Rathbun of Trenton, winner of the yacht club championship this year.

The first Corvette hull turned out at the Belleville yards, and the 90th, will both be in the running.

A unique course has been chartered for the event. The start will be off Zwick's Island, to the black buoy at Nigger Narrows, from there to the spar buoy off Anderson Shoal and back to the finish line at Redneersville. Starting gun is at 2 p.m. Sunday.

Crewing in the event on Treasure will be Ed Boterall of Tom Hood Sails in Kingston, who made the sails for Canada's Cup winner, Manitou.

Senior Saints Defeat COSSA Champs

The Senior Saints of Quinte Secondary School were most unsaintly in taming the Tigers of Trenton High School 33-18 Friday afternoon in a game which marked Quinte as the team to beat in the Bay of Quinte Senior Football League.

Quinte's return to their familiar favored role comes after the 1968 season in which Trenton defeated the Senior Saints 7-0 and went on to capture the COSSA crown while the Saints had to be content with a 4-2 record and a tie for third place with Moira's Trojans.

But Moira's Trojans aren't faring as well this season. Friday they lost their second game in as many starts when they took it on the chin from Madoc by a 13-0 count. The Junior Trojans earned Moira a split by swamping Madoc 70-6.

Quinte Juniors ran their record to 2-0 with a narrow 13-12 win on a 25-yard single by Rodney Hienze in the last minute of play to give the Saints a sweep over Trenton. Meanwhile the Centennial Chargers — last year's Bay of Quinte titlists who dropped a 12-8 decision to Quinte last week — rebounded with a 20-12 win over Napanee.

The Senior Chargers — who lost 48-0 to Quinte last week — gave Centennial a sweep over Napanee with a 12-0 win, their first of the 1969 season.

Quinte Seniors gained a 13-12 half-time lead when halfback Jim Sled tallied on a 30-yard run and back Barry Burnette scored a touchdown on a 60-yard canter up the middle. The convert was good on Burnette's touchdown.

Trenton's first-half scores came on Jim Steevie's end zone recovery of a blocked kick and Grant Patterson's 15-yard reception on a pass from quarterback Ken Danlychuck.

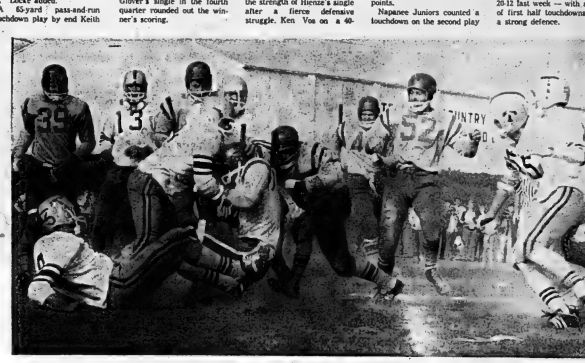
Sled tormented Trenton again early in the third quarter with a 65-yard touchdown run on a punt return. The convert was good and Quinte led 20-12. Barry Burnette gave Quinte a 26-12 margin later in the third quarter with a three yard touchdown plunge after his 30 yard canter with a fake punt.

Trackster Jim Sled tallied his third touchdown of the day in the fourth quarter on a 65-yard end sweep. The convert was good and Quinte took a commanding 33-12 lead.

Trenton got that touchdown back late in the fourth quarter. Halfback Danny Dow went over from three yards out to round out the scoring with the final count being 33-18.

"We had a lot of support from our students and coaches and that really helped," said Quinte Seniors' defensive coach Rick Locke.

"It was just plain guts out there today — some of the boys were hurt but they still kept going and boys we thought would be hurt by inexperience came through for us," Locke added.



A 65-yard pass-and-run touchdown play by end Keith Fenton on the second offensive series of the game started Madoc Seniors en route to their 13-0 win over Moira in a game dominated by Madoc's stout defence. Jerry Jackson's 15-yard return and Gord Glover's single in the fourth quarter rounded out the winner's scoring.

A shifting defence and a series of effective sweeps enabled the Junior Trojans to overwhelm Madoc. Moira led 24-0 at the quarter and 46-0 at the half.

Quinte's Junior win came on the strength of Hienze's single after a fierce defensive struggle. Ken Vos on a 40-yard pass reception and Bob Forder on a five-yard run up the middle scored for Quinte while Brian Weston's nine-yard end run and Gord Kelly's 65-yard touchdown pass accounted for Trenton's points.

Napanee Juniors counted a touchdown on the second play of the game and led 6-0 at the half, but Centennial Chargers dominated the second half, outscoring Napanee 20-6 to pick up the win.

Centennial Seniors downed Napanee — who beat Moira 20-12 last week — with a pair of first half touchdowns, and a strong defence.

Traffic Comes to A Halt

Jim Sled, Quinte halfback finds the traffic too heavy during this first quarter punt return and is smothered by a pair of Trenton Tiger defenders as help comes from all sides. However, Sled found plenty of running room later and scored three touchdowns — one on a 65 yard punt return and another on a 65 yard end run — as the Saints defeated the defending COSSA champion Trenton club 33-18 in Trenton Friday afternoon to run their record to 2-0.

Quality Not Quantity At Junior "B" Practice

The Belleville Junior "B" training camp opened at the Memorial Arena Friday night and tough quantity was lacking, quality wasn't.

"We only had 15 kids out Friday night but it looks pretty good to me," said Junior "B" coach Floyd Crawford. "They were a lot of kids working and I expect a much bigger turnout tonight."

Among those out for the initial practice session were holdovers Brian Coughlin, Al Jones, Ted Waite, Jerry Candler, Greg Burkitt and Dalton Lambert.

Crawford cited individual improvement as the reason for his optimism and said that defencemen Dalton Lambert and Ted Waite looked very good and much improved.

Prominent among the players last night were a trio of graduates from the 1968 Belleville Kinsmen Bantams — the All-Ontario Bantam "AA" titlists.

Defenceman John Mulvihill and centre Danny Lupenette — who both made brief Junior "B" appearances last season — were stickouts in coach Crawford's opinion and the third Bantam grad — Dave Smith also impressed the mentor.

The Juniors will practise again tonight from 8.15 p.m. - 10.15 p.m. and Sunday from 1 - 3 p.m. Monday's practice is scheduled for 6 - 8 p.m.

Coach Crawford said the club would practise almost nightly next week and that he hoped to obtain an exhibition game for next weekend to get a look at his charges in combat.

Mo-Hawks Sign Defenceman Greg Marchen

Whoever play goal for the Belleville Mo-Hawks this year will welcome the club's most recent signing.

Marchen collected 54 minutes in penalties — third highest on the club — last year, but he also counted 17 points (two goals and 15 assists) in his 35 games.

The Mo-Hawks had a stiff workout Friday night under the direction of playing-coach Davey Jones and will practise again tonight and Sunday from 6-8 p.m.

41-year-old Gordie Howe Still Can't Be Slowed by Age or Injuries

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Gordie Howe, 41 years old and going into his 24th National Hockey League season with Detroit Red Wings, indicated Friday that age and injuries still can't slow him down.

The veteran right winger, who scored 44 goals and 59 assists in last season's regular schedule, came back from an injury suffered three days ago to score the winning goal and an assist in the Wings 4-2 exhibition victory over Boston Bruins.

Howe sat out the last two periods of Detroit's exhibition match Tuesday night against Montreal Canadiens after he suffered a pulled groin muscle.

In other exhibition games Friday night, New York Rangers extended their exhibition winless record to 5-0 with a 4-2 victory over Toronto Maple Leafs, Oakland Seals downed St. Louis Blues 5-4, Pittsburgh Penguins and Minnesota North Stars played to a 3-3 tie and Philadelphia Flyers defeated Quebec Aces of the American League 8-4.

Defenceman Carl Brewer opened the scoring for Detroit and Alex Delvecchio scored once before Howe's winner and added an insurance goal later. Phil Esposito scored both Boston goals.

New York, the only unbeaten club after the first week of the exhibition schedule, got goals from Real Lemieux, Dave Balon, Vic Hadfield and Ron Stewart.

Brit Selby and Ron Ellis scored for the Leafs who are still looking for their first exhibition victory when they meet the Rangers again tonight in Toronto.

Oakland gained only its second victory over St. Louis since the two Western Division clubs joined the NHL in 1967. Gerry Ehman, Ted Hampson, Gary Jarrett, Norm Ferguson and Bob Dillabough were the Seals' scorers.

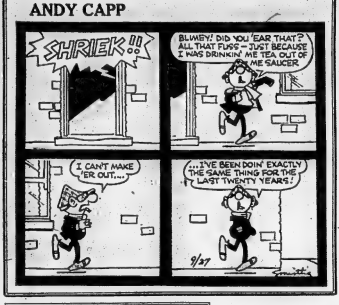
Bob Clark, Bill Sutherland, Lou Morrison and Gary Dornhoefer also scored for the Flyers while Simon Nolet got two for the Aces and Rene Drolet and Claude Laforge one each.



The Flyers were without goalie Doug Favell who quit practice sessions Friday complaining of severe headaches. He was struck on the temple from Sutherland and knocked unconscious about 15 minutes. He recovered and continued practice Thursday, but the club doctor Friday said the goalie will be kept out of action two or three days for further examinations.

Leon Rochefort scored in the final minute to give Los Angeles the tie with Pittsburgh. Skip Krake scored a pair of goals for the Kings before Ken Schinkel, Keith McCreary and Don Schock built a 3-2 lead for the Penguins.

The Penguins meet St. Louis at Brantford tonight, while Detroit and Boston play at Port Huron, Mich., and Chicago Black Hawks battle the Canadiens at Montreal.

In Sunday's schedule, the Canadiens are in Chicago, Detroit meets Minnesota North Stars at Bloomington, Minn., New York encounters St. Louis at Ottawa, the Leafs visit the Bruins at London, Ont., and Philadelphia takes on Providence of the AHL at Providence.

Braves Maintain Lead

Phil and Joe Niekro All Square Now

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Phil Niekro pitched eight innings for his 22nd National League season victory Friday night but the win was "not as pleasing as it should have been" because he defeated his brother Joe.

Orlando Cepeda hit a grand slam homer to spark the 10-4 victory for Atlanta Braves over Joe Niekro and San Diego Padres.

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Phil wasn't entirely innocent as he started the Braves' big six-run third with a single, one of his three hits.

Elsewhere, San Francisco Giants, 1½ games behind leading Atlanta in the West Division race, kept pace with a 2-1 triumph over Los Angeles Dodgers. Cincinnati Reds took two from Houston Astros 3-0 and 4-3, the East Division champion New York Mets blanked Philadelphia Phillies 5-0, Pittsburgh Pirates tripped Chicago Cubs 3-0 and St. Louis Cardinals shelled Montreal Expos 12-1.

Singles by Phil Niekro, Felix Millan and Tony Gonzalez loaded the bases for the Braves in the third and a one-out walk to Rico Carty forced in the first run. Cepeda then smacked his big blow, the fifth grand slam of his career and 22nd homer of the season, finishing Joe Niekro. Clete Boyer homered off Frank Reberger for the final run of the inning.

Phil said he doesn't like to pitch against Joe, although this was the fourth time the brothers have faced each other.

"That's far enough," said Phil. "I've won two games and he's won two. That's enough."

Hank Aaron drilled his 44th homer in the fourth and the Braves added two in the fifth and one in the seventh.

Bobby Bonds singled home two runs in the first inning and Gaylord Perry made them stand up as the Giants edged the Dodgers.

But Hodges Secure

NL Managers Under Gun

Three National League baseball clubs took action Friday regarding their managerial staff and, as a result, Larry Shepard got canned, Frank Lucchesi faces a problem with Richie Allen and Gil Hodges has a new three-year contract.

Shepard was fired as manager of Pittsburgh Pirates because "things didn't work out as we thought they would," according to general manager Joe L. Brown.

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Lucchesi was hired as manager of Philadelphia Phillies, replacing interim manager George Myatt, who took over when Bob Skinner quit Aug. 7 in a dispute with the front office concerning the controversial Allen.

Asked how he intended to handle the outfielder whom he managed in the minors at Little Rock, Ark., Luchesai said: "I will cross that bridge when I come to it."

Hodges, who guided the surprising New York Mets to the National League East Division championship, was given a new three-year contract at a reported $150,000-a-year pay increase to $75,000 annually. The contract runs through 1972.

"I asked for nothing and I got three years," said Hodges. "It's the best contract I've ever had."

Alex Grammas will handle Pittsburgh for the remainder of the season, but Brown said this did not mean he would be chosen manager for next year. Grammas and Bill Virdon must be considered, but there is a strong feeling that the next Pirates manager will be Don Hoak, a former Pittsburgh player now managing at Columbus, Ohio.

Shepard is the fifth major league manager to be fired this season. The others were Bill Rigney, replaced by Letty Phillips at California; Hank Bauer, replaced by John McNamara at Oakland; Al Lopez, replaced by Don Gutteridge at Chicago White Sox, and Dick Williams, replaced by Ed Popowski at Boston.

Lucchesi, 42, has been a minor league manager the last 19 years and has a thorough knowledge of the Phillies' farm system, which the club is expected to draw on heavily if it goes through with an expected housecleaning operation. Such an operation could include the unhappy Allen.

CALGARY (CP) — Five Canadians Friday night wrapped up the second annual North American men's team badminton competition in just six matches.

There were still three matches to be played tonight but they didn't matter. With an insurmountable 5-1 lead in the nine-match series, Canada had already tucked away its first victory over the United States in 20 years.

Undaunted by a 15-7 setback in the opening set, the Canadian pair defeated Tom Carmichael of Detroit and Jim Lynch of Americus, Ga., American citizen who now lives in Hamilton, Ont., 15-10, 15-10.

Rollick, Canada's 1968 singles champion, bounced back from a 7-2 first-game deficit in shade Carmichael 15-11, 18-15 in the night's singles clash.

Sandwiched between was a 15-9, 11-13 doubles triumph by Jamie Paulson of Calgary and Yves Pare of Montreal over the best double combination in the United States, Jim Poole of New Orleans and Don Paup of San Diego.

It all pointed to a bright future next spring in the Thomas Cup draw, the world series of men's badminton pulling Canada in the favorite's position to sweep past the U.S., Mexico, Jamaica and Peru in the North American zone.

Poole and Paup collected the only U.S. victory — a 15-12, 15-11 decision over Rollick and Charron in the doubles.

In singles action Thursday night, Paulson crushed Paup 15-3, 15-2 and Wayne MacDonell of Vancouver disposed of Rod Starkey of Los Angeles 15-2, 15-4.

Sox' Interim Manager Could Leave Unbeaten

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

If things keep going the way they have been, Eddie Popowski could become the first manager in the history of baseball to leave his job without ever having lost a game.

Popowski was named to lead Boston Red Sox over the final week of the season after Dick Williams was fired last Tuesday. He was the Red Sox unit, strictly an interim manager with a new permanent man to be named after the American League season.

It has been a most interesting interim for Popowski.

The Red Sox have won four straight games since the changes, the most recent a 6-5 decision over Detroit Friday night which moved Boston into a second place deadlock with the Tigers in the East Division.

Elsewhere Friday night, Washington Senators dropped Cleveland Indians 4-1, New York Yankees trimmed Baltimore Orioles 4-2, Kansas City Royals defeated Chicago White Sox 5-3, Oakland Athletics topped California Angels 3-1 and Seattle Pilots took Minnesota Twins 4-3 in 11 innings.

Rico Petrocelli, one of Popowski's star pupils when the Red Sox' interim boss was a fulltime minor league manager, did most of the damage against the Tigers.

He tagged a pair of doubles, driving in three runs including the tie-breaker in the seventh inning. That gave the heavy hitting shortstop 96 runs batted in for the season.

Lee Maye's fifth inning grand slam homer accounted for all of Washington's runs as the Senators beat the Indians.

Mike Kekich pitched his first complete game of the season, hurling the Yankees past Baltimore on a five-hitter. The victory ended a six-game Yankee losing streak.

Mike Fiore tagged a two-run homer in the ninth inning, carrying Kansas City past Chicago. Jerry Adair had tied the game an inning earlier with a three-run blast for the Royals. Bill Melton connected for Chicago.

Employment News

By W. J. H. Fraser,
Manpower Consultant

Many Canadian workers, due to economic and automation changes in their local areas, are unable to find employment in their chosen fields.

For this reason the Federal manpower mobility program at the beginning of-1966. A revision was made on April 1, 1967, to make more help available to more workers and a further amendment effective Sept. 1, 1969, gives even further financial assistance.

There are three kinds of workers who may qualify for this assistance: unemployed worker, the worker who has received written notice that he or she will be laid-off at some specific date and the underemployed worker.

In order to establish eligibility, workers should contact Canada Manpower Centres counselors and if they qualify the following help is available:

1. An exploratory grant which enables workers to cover the cost of return fare to nearest area where suitable jobs are available and, - away from home for two or more days in a week's outlook. ing Saturday and Sunday, a living allowance of $20 per

2. A relocation grant may be authorized when a definite job has been found. This grant is to cover the cost of moving household effects and travel costs.

In addition to these moving costs, there is a resettlement allowance which is designed to help meet costs in relocating. This provides $100 for the worker, $100 for the first dependent, $200 for each of the next two dependents and $100 for each subsequent dependent.

Further assistance in the form of a home owner's allowance is available if the worker owns his own home and if within 12 months of the date of starting work in the new locality, the worker makes an offer to purchase a home.

In the first instance the work er may be entitled to $1,000 on selling his own home within the 12 month period and, on an offer to purchase in the new locality, $300 worth of assistance.

The recommendation for approval of all of this assistance must come from a Canada Manpower Centre counsellor. Each counsellor has complete information on the manpower mobility program.

Slowdown Already Started?

Recession Talk Could Start Stocks Sliding

By NICK FERRIS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

If Canadian stock markets could, they'd probably yell "Conspiracy!"

In the last two months, whenever a rally was attempted, something always came along and partially cancelled it.

For the markets, it was like taking two steps forward and one step back, and as a result a cautious but steady advance developed.

The last two weeks were no different.' A small seven-day rally was slowly terminated near the end of this week by murmurs of a recession.

Hogwash!, instead of just one step back, the next move markets make could be the long-long slide back to 1966.

Some observers have been saying in the last two months that markets could certainly tumble to their 1966 index levels.

Something as depressing as talk of a recession could begin the avalanche.

Argus Research Corp., a business advisory service in the United States, said this week a recession in the U.S. probably has already started.

Its weekly staff report on the economic outlook for the U.S. contained this comment: "The odds are better than 50-50 that a business recession began (in the U.S.) in August. . . The only question is how serious it will be."

Among the indications of a slowdown, Argus said, are a recent dip in industrial production, sluggish consumer buying of retail goods and a recent decline in new orders for durable goods, an indicator closely watched by business analysts for advance hints of the general economic trend.

The important thing for Canadians to remember is that trends in Canada generally traditionally have followed trends in American economy. In the U.S., it's a safe bet that a recession is shaping up in Canada.

Burns Bros. and Denison, a Toronto investment dealer, said this week there were indications that a recession was evolving in Canada.

"Fiscal and monetary restraints continue to be exceedingly touch, even though the pace of economic activity has already slowed down significantly, and a consensus view has developed that after a mini-recession, or at least a very sharp slowdown, is almost upon us."

Burns Bros. said Canada and the U.S. now have moved into a period of maximum pressure of fiscal and monetary restraint.

The investment house suggested the key to the decision by the policy-makers lies in the buoyant outlook for the North American economies in the medium term.

The Economic Council of Canada recently published an optimistic assessment of Canada's prospects to 1975 and similar forecasts have been made in the U.S.

In view of the huge latent demands in the economy, therefore, the policy-makers, according to Burns Bros., are willing to risk a recession in the belief that a modest easing of restraint would produce a quick economic upturn.

Statistically, on the Toronto Stock Exchange, industrials were down .80 to 180.05, western oils 10.76 to 200.31, and base metals 1.06 to 110.57. Golds gained 4.66 to 194.52. Volume was 10,040,000 shares compared with 8,757,000 last week. Losses outnumbered gains 516 to 272.

On the Canadian and Montreal exchanges, the composite index was down .97 to 179.68. Combined volume was 4,648,000 compared with 3,753,000 last week. Losses outnumbered gains 206 to 147.

Basford Wants to Obtain Information About Extent of Lobbying in Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP) — Lobbying in Ottawa is generally assumed to be a bustling business, but beyond that no one seems sure just where it begins or ends.

Consumer Affairs Minister Ron Basford is expressing some determination to find out. His department is understood to be preparing legislation that would require all lobbyists to be registered and to reveal their clients and their financial interests.

If the legislation is effective, some sources say, it could drastically change the lobbying activities now used in the capital. There have been repeated suggestions that lobbying is carried on, not only by consultants and public relations men, but by Senators, MPs and some members of the Parliamentary Press Gallery.

A department source said the proposed legislation will not attempt to inhibit lobbying, but merely bring it out in the open so everyone will know who is representing outside interests. At the moment, no one seems to know.

While there is nothing illegal about lobbying, there is a noticeable reluctance for anyone to admit being involved in it. Others have frequently taken objection to suggestions that their association with outside corporations render them suspect so far as lobbying is concerned. Public relations men and lawyers who deal with government officials on behalf of corporate clients have never been known to refer to themselves as lobbyists.

No details are available on the proposed legislation, and it is not yet known how it proposes to cover all persons making submissions to the government on behalf of clients.

But the legislation would make it an offence for any lobbyist to fail to register and disclose his financial transactions. The risk of prosecution say these sources, could affect part-time lobbyists who hold other sensitive jobs and could not risk being named.

The important thing, a department official said, is that government officials know to whom they are talking.

"If a lawyer talks to a senior civil servant about a fine point of corporation law, surely the civil servant has a right to know what corporation that lawyer represents, so he can determine the difference between a legal submission and a lobby."

Basford's department recently referred to "the apparent fact that some Ottawa-based journalists accept retainers from companies that want to be kept informed directly of fast-breaking events.

"Innocent enough on the surface, it becomes more difficult at particular times such as budget night or the presentation of the tax white paper."

And recently Max Saltzman (NDP—Waterloo) focused attention on some Senators who hold a variety of corporate directorships and also sit on Senate committees dealing in areas that could affect these corporations. Some Senators have political ties that MPs are often involved in firms that could be affected by legislation they approve.

The whole question of outside interests, the department source said, "has many grey areas."

Planning for Superport Far Advanced

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP) — Planning for a superport at Canaport Lancevale is in final stages, but there is no indication when or whether the provincial government will make it a reality.

Economic Growth Minister Robert J. Higgins says the decision depends on obtaining enough firm contracts.

Lorneville, a fishing community six miles southwest of Saint John harbor, would be the first deep water port for general bulk carriers on the eastern seaboard, and officials have termed it more suitable than any other along the Atlantic Coast.

If the harbor materializes it will be known as Canpot, similar to the name Canaport chosen for a deep water terminal built for handling oil, to be piped ashore at Mispec, five miles east of the harbor here.

The latter, a $14,500,000 project opening next month, is a private development by Irving Oil Co. Ltd. A pipeline will connect the super-tanker terminal with the Irving refinery in east Saint John.

The New Brunswick Development Corp. was authorized in June of last year to proceed with final planning for the Lorneville site at a cost of $250,000. In event of a go-ahead decision on actual construction, about 20 months will be required for the harbor and equipment to be ready for accommodating the first big freighter.

Cost of the first stage, not including mechanical handling equipment, has been estimated at $38,000,000. Berths for two-way traffic of both liquid and dry bulk commodities are designed for vessels ranging from 500,000 dead-weight tons down to 40,000. Dead-weight tonnage is the total number of long tons a ship can carry.

Lorneville has a water depth of 100 feet only 1,200 feet off shore and the whole Bay of Fundy is an easy maneuvering of gigantic ships. In comparison, depths at Atlantic ports range down from 50 feet at Halifax and tonnage accommodations range down from 110,000. Lorneville also has a large area of flat backup land.

The report of the royal commission on pilotage, released in Ottawa Tuesday, asserted that development of a superport outside the harbor is needed for the port of Saint John to survive. New Brunswick officials consider the report would be an extension of and complementary to this port, handling bulk material not now moved through the harbor because of services of a regular port would still be required.

CBC Won't Fill 250 Vacant Jobs

OTTAWA (CP) — Some 250 jobs vacant in the CBC will not be filled because of a government-ordered budget freeze, CBC President George Davidson announced Friday.

Reports have circulated there could be staff cuts or layoffs affecting up to 300 persons but a CBC spokesman said Thursday this figure is "grossly exaggerated." The corporation employes some 9,000 persons.

The CBC received about $166,000,000 from the public treasury for the 1969-70 fiscal year, In line with an anti-inflation program announced by Prime Minister Trudeau this summer, it is under orders to hold spending at the same level for the 1970-71 fiscal year starting next April 1.

Mr. Davidson said he has asked senior management in the corporation to find ways to hold down spending in the coming year while making efforts to maintain programming at an effective level.

Departure of staff through retirements, and leaving of such positions vacant where possible, would help reduce payroll costs, the statement said.

"It is hoped in this way to avoid a major disruption involving staff while, at the same time, achieving the necessary economies."

Canadian Government Eagerly Awaits Data Gathered by Manhattan in Arctic

OTTAWA (CP) — Eagerly awaited here is the data picked up by scientists aboard the SS Manhattan as the big United States oil tanker made its historic voyage this summer through the Northwest Passage.

Humble Oil Ltd., sponsors of the $29,000,000-plus voyage, agreed to give Canada access to all of the data being compiled by the small army of scientists accompanying the first commercial ship through the Arctic waters.

Along the route of the 115,000-deadweight ton tanker were the Canadian Arctic islands which oil experts here say have a potential of 43,000,000,000 barrels of oil and 250 trillion cubic feet of gas.

What makes prospects particularly bright is the fact that Manhattan experienced no difficulty in steaming through Baffin Bay, Lancaster Sound, Barrow Strait and Viscount Melville Sound, the waters off the Canadian islands.

Northern Development Minister Jean Chretien, whose department gets first crack at the Manhattan's findings, said one disappointment was that the tanker didn't follow its original plan and go into the harbor off Pond Inlet, a small settlement on Baffin Island adjoining Greenland, about 400 miles north of the Arctic Circle.

Nearby is the huge iron ore find reported to be the richest in the world. It has been untapped mainly because of the short shipping season known to date. It was hoped that Manhattan would add to the gradually-building hopes that ships can navigate off Baffin much longer than previously thought.

Because Manhattan was roughly a month late in leaving port, Pond Inlet was cut out.

Mr. Chretien also was firm in his bi-operated stand that the Manhattan's exploration in Canadian Arctic waters had no relations at all to the continuing argument over Canadian sovereignty in the area.

Like Prime Minister Trudeau, Mr. Chretien views the Manhattan trip as purely a scientific one. It could well benefit Canada more than the U.S., says Mr. Chretien.

Mr. Trudeau is to make a statement of Canadian claims to Arctic waters soon after Parliament resumes next month. In the meantime, opposition parties and newspaper editorials are calling on the government to assert Canadian ownership of the waters in positive terms.

Transport Minister Don Jamieson has said that if commercial shipping starts in the Arctic, Canada would face a bill of $1,000,000,000 for navigation aids and an increased ice-breaking fleet.

He said Canada would not oppose the opening of Arctic navigation. But it would be under Canadian control and Canada would recover its expenditures from ships using the waters.

Mr. Jamieson, like a number of MPs, said he was concerned about pollution in the Arctic in the event of tankers breaking up in the heavy ice. In asserting its claims to Arctic waters, Canada could make regulations calling for minimum standards for the strength of ships using the passage.

Presumably, these standards would have to be based on the extensive data now being compiled by Manhattan.

While the Manhattan still is on the return trip from the passage, Humble Offing has announced in New York that the cost of transporting oil by that route is going to be more than it first estimated.

W. T. Slick, manager of Humble's supply department, said this week that costs of moving oil from Alaska via the passage to eastern U.S. markets probably would be 90 cents to $1 a barrel. An earlier estimate was 60 cents a barrel.

Humble is to estimate costs of tankers moving oil as against a pipeline and make a decision early in 1970.

One possible route for a pipeline from Alaska would be through the Mackenzie region of the Northwest territories and ending at Edmonton. For obvious reasons, the Canadian government and the industry here strongly favors such a route.

The Canadian industry also is anxiously awaiting findings of two studies now under way on oil—one in the U.S. dealing with import quotas and one in Ottawa.

A Humble official aboard Manhattan said two weeks ago that he didn't believe that the Alaska finds would mark a reduction in Canadian crude flowing to the U.S. He forecast instead a sizable increase in Canadian imports to the U.S.

Gordon Connell, chairman of the reserve committee of the Canadian Petroleum Association, told a Commons committee in June that the U.S. demand for oil could increase by 6,000,000 barrels a day by 1980.

While the Alaska oil could mean a reduction of 100,000 barrels daily in some areas of the U.S., "it may be possible to develop larger amounts into the Great Lakes area," he said.

Asked whether the projected flow of 100,000 barrels resulted from the Alaska find could be made up in a reasonably short period of time, Mr. Connell replied:

"We would certainly expect to."

Chicago Riot Conspiracy Trial On, Jail Defence Lawyers for Contempt

CHICAGO (AP) — Two defence lawyers were jailed for contempt and the first witness was called Friday in the trial of eight men charged with conspiring to riot during the 1968 Democratic national convention.

Michael E. Tigar of Los Angeles and Gerald B. Lefcourt of New York City were ordered held without bond. Judge Julius J. Hoffman said he would sentence them Monday.

Tigar and Lefcourt were ordered arrested Wednesday after they did not appear for the trial. They were listed as defence lawyers but William M. Kunstler, head of the defence team, insisted it was understood they would be used in pre-trial proceedings only.

The first witness called by the government was Raymond Simon, a city lawyer, who testified about meeting with Rennard C. Davis, 29, a defendant, a week prior to the convention last year.

Simon said he and other officials met with Davis concerning an anti-war organization plans to march in Chicago and sleep in Lincoln Park.

Court adjourned before defence lawyers were able to cross-examine Simon.

The prosecution said in its opening statement that David T. Dellinger, 53, of New York City, was the "principal architect of the riots," in Chicago.

Thomas A. Schultz, assistant U.S. attorney, said in his statement that Dellinger and his co-defendants, charged with violating the federal anti-riot law, used the Vietnam war to urge people to come to Chicago.

Schultz said that the government will introduce testimony persons who were present at meetings when the defendants allegedly conspired to promote rioting and that it will specifically prove that the defendants told large crowds to arm themselves and to resist police, city officials and national guardsmen.

William E. Kunstler, defence lawyer, in his opening statement said: "The evidence in this case will show that police embarked on a conspiracy of berserk, brutal action . . . that the real conspiracy in this case was a conspiracy to curtail and prevent the protest against the war in Vietnam."

Defendants are Bobby G. Searle, 32, of Oakland, Calif., chairman of the Black Panther party; Jerry Rubin, 31, and Abbie Hoffman, 31, both of New York and leaders of the Youth International party—Yippies; Dellinger, 53, New York, editor of Liberation magazine; Davis, 29, Chicago, an anti-war organizer; John Froines, 30, Eugene, Ore., a University of Oregon Chemistry professor; Tom Hayden, 30 a founder of the Students for a Democratic Society and Lee Weiner, 29, of Chicago, a Northwestern University research assistant in sociology.

Nuclear Test Blast

'Won't Ruffle Eagle's Feathers'

WASHINGTON (CP) — The blast from a scheduled United States nuclear explosion on Amchitka Island early next month will, hopefully, be an anti-climax to the fireworks building up on Capitol Hill from nuclear-shy and earthquake-jittery public

Depending on whom you listen to, the explosion will create disastrous earthquakes and tidal waves or will hardly ruffle the feathers of the bald eagles on the cold, wet and desolate island in the Aleutian chain off Alaska.

While underground nuclear tests have become commonplace in Nevada and other areas, there are special features involved in the Amchitka blast that have drawn protests from Canada and Japan and from U.S. conservationists and congressmen from Alaska to Hawaii.

It is the first test of a planned series of them, all of progressively greater magnitude, and speculation is that it is connected with efforts to produce warheads for the Safeguard anti missile system.

And the test will be conducted in one of the world's most earthquake-prone areas. Amchitka Island is at the crux of the San Andreas fault which stretches down the Pacific coast to California.

Canada, fearing the release of radioactivity as well as earthquakes and tidal waves, last week told the U.S. it would be held responsible for any damages resulting from the detonation.

The Japanese also served notice they would ask for compensation for any damages to their fishing operations and air or sea traffic in the Amchitka area.

Representative Patsy Mink (Dem., Hawaii) has asked for suspension of the test pending a complete study of its possible effects. Senator Mike Gravel of Alaska also asked for suspension, pending a full study of foreign policy implications.

Such protests have led to what observers here feel will be a full-scale firecracker — bearing before the Senate foreign relations committee headed by Democrat J. William Fulbright of Arkansas.

The hearing starts Monday and coincides conveniently with the proposed release of a report by the Atomic Energy Commission on the safety aspects of underground nuclear testing. The report was to have been released Friday, but an AEC spokesman said there were some complications and it now should be released early next week.

Some congressional observers see the coming hearing as an opportunity for oblique attacks on the Nixon administration's controversial anti-ballistic missile system.

The AEC says only that the test will be an exploratory device detonation to determine whether weapons devices of such greater force could be tested on the 42-mile-long island, which is 200 miles from the nearest settlement and 700 miles from Russia.

The test, scheduled for Oct. 2 and code-named Milrow would be the smallest of three planned shots, about one megaton or the equivalent of 1,000,000 tons of TNT. If all goes well, two later tests would each involve about three megatons.

While geologists outside the AEC warn the test could start earthquakes and tidal waves throughout the North Pacific, AEC officials insist that chances of such effects are slim.

AEC scientists say that in previous tests in other areas, the aftershocks were "considerably smaller" than the explosion. They also point out that an earthquake near Amchitka last May registered 6.7 on the Richter scale, but caused no damage outside the Rat Islands group of which Amchitka is a part.

They say the October blast will produce a seismic disturbance roughly equal to an earthquake showing 6.5.

The AEC does concede, however, there will be some casualties from the blast. They expect some deaths among the sea otters which populate the island along with the bald eagles and emperor geese.

Union Gas, Consumers May Merge

TORONTO (CP) — Consumers Gas Co. Ltd. of Toronto Friday offered to acquire control of Union Gas Co. of Canada Ltd. of Chatham.

The two companies, with combined assets of about $597,000,000 serve 871,000 customers in central and southern Ontario.

Merger talks between the two companies began in November, 1967, but were broken off last February when Union Gas said it was not in the interest of its shareholders, customers or employees to join the larger company.

Oakah L. Jones, Consumers chairman and president, said Friday his company will offer one 3¼ preferred share, one-half of a share purchase warrant and $4 cash for each Union share in hopes of acquiring 67 per cent of Union's outstanding stock.

At last reports Consumers' already had a five-per-cent interest in Union.

Consumers 'announcement did not say when the formal offer will be made, but said a special meeting of shareholders will be called shortly. It also said it reserves the right to take more or less than 67 per cent of Union's shares. At their closing market price of $14.50 a share, the $-300,000 Union shares for which Consumers is bidding would be worth about $134,300,000.

Union had a net profit of $2-,797,000 last year. Consumers, whose assets are nearly twice those of Union, had net profit of $17,643,000.

Protection Act Tested
5 Men Fined $1,100

TORONTO (CP) — Four house repairmen and a food-freezer salesman were fined a total of $1,100 Friday after they were believed the first prosecutions under Ontario's Consumer Protection Act, passed two years ago.

The repairmen were convicted of carrying on business as itinerant sellers while not registered with the province and posting a $5,000 bond.

The freezer salesman was convicted on charges of failing to provide a housewife with a written description of the goods she bought, an itemized account of the price and terms of the deal.

Ontario Liberals to Seek Abolition of Police Commissions

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario Liberals will demand next week that Attorney-General Arthur Wishart abolish both the Ontario Police Commission and the Metropolitan Toronto Police Commission, making all police forces in the province responsible to elected bodies.

Deputy Liberal Leader Vernon Singer says he will also ask the government to improve condition in provincial jails and courts, put the bail system on a 24-hour basis and lower the legal age of majority to 18 from 21.

The Liberal attack, to be led by Mr. Singer, member of the legislature for Toronto Downview, and James Bullbrook, member for Sarnia, will come during debate on the estimates of the attorney-general's department—one of the first orders of business when the Ontario legislature resumes sitting Tuesday.

The 28 Liberals say that the appointed police commissions too often serve as a buffer between people and their elected representatives and that investigations by the OPC in particular sometimes end without any action being taken.

Mr. Singer will point out that the provincial police are directly responsible to the attorney-general and do not report to a commission.

He will ask that the Metropolitan Toronto Police Commission be abolished, making the Metro police responsible to Metro council, and that other municipal forces now under the OPC be made answerable to the attorney-general.

Debate on estimates will dominate the fall session of the legislature. Since the 1963-70 estimates of at least 15 of the 22 government departments still remain to be approved, Premier Roberts has told house leader Robert Welch little new legislation is planned until the estimates are pushed through.

Still, here is plenty of controversial new business that will come before the 117-member house in the next few weeks:

—The report of Mr. Justice S. H. S. Hughes' royal commission inquiry into the 1965 collapse of Atlantic Acceptance Corp. Is at the printers and is expected to be tabled in the legislature by the premier during the first two weeks of October.

—Chief Justice James McRuer says he expects to hand in the second report of his royal commission inquiry into civil rights, dealing with the possibility of an ombudsman and a bill of rights for Ontario, before November.

—The election-law committees will make its second report, and Informants say it will recommend a lowering of the voting age to 18 from 21.

The first order of business after the house resumes Tuesday is the estimates of Finance Minister Leslie Rowntree, who can expect a combined Liberal-NDP attack on the recent withdrawal of Security Frauds charges against officers of the bankrupt Prudential Finance Corp.

NDP Leader Donald MacDonald, whose party's standings rose to 21 this month with the byelection victory of Archdeacon Kenneth Bolton in Middlesex South, says he plans to use the daily question period to "shout from the rooftops" at new Health Minister Thomas Wells about high premiums Ontario residents will pay when the province enters the federal medical care insurance plan Wednesday.

Mr. MacDonald will attack the new Ontario Health Services Insurance Plan as "a costly and inefficient bureaucratic monstrosity" whose administrative costs could rise as high as 12 per cent, "pouring an estimated $24,000,000 needlessly down the drain."

The Liberals will concentrate their criticism on Mr. Wishart's estimates, second on the order of business, with Mr. Singer also asking the attorney-general to establish a standing committee on justice to hear the views of judges, lawyers and policemen about the condition of Ontario's justice system.

Mr. Singer and Mr. Bullbrook will deplore the conditions in many provincial jails—particularly the Don Jail in Toronto—calling for central lockups where arrested persons could be held prior to their first court appearance instead of being sent to jail.

They will ask for round-the-clock bail services for persons arrested, replacing the present system of travelling bail judges.

And they will suggest that Mr. Wishart [illegible] provincial judges that bail should be required only in cases where there is a possible danger to the public or fear an accused person will not appear in court without bail.

THE LITTLE WOMAN

"I guess I should have waited until later to tell him about the speeding ticket and wrecking the car."

Trudeau Still for Participatory Democracy

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau is reported to be holding firm in his determination to develop "participatory democracy," but it's apparently more difficult than he thought.

For instance, when several members of his cabinet were publicly disagreeing with him this year on Canada's role in NATO —all in the name of encouraging public participation—it created the impression of a wide cabinet split. Sources say a decision has been made that this particular form of participatory democracy "won't be tried again."

And now, it seems, increased participation for backbench Liberals has created some potential difficulties.

Since Mr. Trudeau assumed office he has been advocating a bigger role for backbenchers in the decision-making process, and there have been equally enthusiastic cries from the backbenchers themselves.

In future, he said, after a cabinet committee has agreed upon a policy, it will report to the corresponding caucus committee before taking its recommendations to full cabinet. And if the caucus committee is not entirely satisfied, it can take the policy before a full meeting of the caucus.

This would replace the existing "bikini" briefings—which covered only essential areas—that the caucus used to get on forthcoming legislation.

There were some objections to Mr. Macdonald's proposal but, oddly, they didn't come from cabinet ministers. They came from some backbenchers.

While full participation in the decision-making process might be ideal in theory, there is a strong feeling among some backbenchers that it's not entirely practical in a diverse country like Canada.

For instance, a highly-desirable piece of legislation might be objectionable to one certain constituency, and the MP from that area doesn't want to state his objections behind the closed doors of the caucus. He wants to do so publicly in the Commons—otherwise, the constituents will be unaware of his contribution.

While the new system of greater caucus participation won't prevent an MP from stating his reservations in the Commons, there are some members who feel it will have an inhibiting effect.

In theory, the legislation will be coming before Parliament with the blessing of the caucus, and some of these members feel it will be a bit more difficult to reopen arguments that already were threshed out in caucus.

"Personally," said one Liberal MP, "I am not convinced the government will be very happy if we hold up policies in caucus with long arguments and then do an encore in the Commons.

"They (the cabinet) might very well say, 'Why bother.'"

"Yet if we don't stand up in the Commons and state our objections," said another MP, "how will our constituents know that we already fought like the devil?"

"We'll see how it works," said another. "But right now I am not convinced that this is the best form of participation."

Civil Servants Annoyed

Size of Staff Cuts Was Kept Secret

OTTAWA (CP) — The government report revealed the full scope of staff cuts during three weeks of consultations with union representatives, the Public Service alliance of Canada charged Friday.

Trevor Gough, alliance executive vice-president, was commenting on manpower adjustments directive sent to deputy heads of departments and Crown agencies earlier this week.

The directive was made public earlier Friday, setting out procedures on the elimination, reassignment, relocation and retraining of personnel and positions in all branches of public service employment.

Prime Minister Trudeau announced during the summer a reduction in the size of the public service would be carried out as part of a belt-tightening drive to curb inflation. The manpower cuts are to trim 25,000 jobs from the 1968 level, a 10 per cent reduction.

The directive said there should be at least a three-month notice for employees to be let go and suggested these other steps:

—Reassignment of employees whose jobs are no longer required to vacancies in other parts of the public service.

—Relocation and training of employees should be undertaken where feasible.

—Departments and agencies should first review their use of casual employees and those 60 years and over.

—Seniority should be followed in deciding which employees are surplus.

Hirings and promotions should be restricted or suspended in affected occupational classes and levels through the service.

Mr. Gough said the alliance had "three short weeks of consultation" with treasury board without ever being told "the scope and size of the redundancies in each government department."

"One can hardly call three weeks enough time when we are dealing with careers of a lifetime."

"We still have not been provided with these statistics."

Huge Manic 5 Dam Is Opened

MANICOUAGAN, Que. (CP) — Years of work on the massive Manic 5 dam-building project, 300 miles northeast of Quebec City, were capped off Friday in a three-minute dedication ceremony atop the dam.

Hydro-Quebec's multiple-arch, $374,000,000 construction was officially named the Daniel Johnson Dam, after the Quebec premier who died of a heart attack here Sept. 26, 1968.

He was on a visit to celebrate completion of the dam's construction on the Manicouagan River.

The dedication ceremony Friday began with a minute of silence in respect to Mr. Johnson. Then Premier Jean-Jacques Bertrand, Mr. Johnson's successor, invited Mrs. Johnson to unveil the plaque marking the dedication of the 700-foot-high dam.

It was a function Mr. Johnson was to have carried out himself.

During the minute of silence, Mrs. Johnson, sobbing, gazed around at the cloudy skies and the misty hills, while most others had bowed heads.

PM Says His Kind of Politician May Not Be Needed in Few Years

GERALDTON, Ont. (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau said Friday night that the kind of person will no longer be politically necessary in five or 10 years when such Canadian problems as national unity are solved.

Telling a town meeting here how he got to be prime minister, Mr. Trudeau said he was "lucky enough to be around" and to appear to have answers "to some of the questions bothering the people in the last year."

"And it's probable—I hope it is—that in five years or 10 years there won't be the problems that Canada has now," he said.

"The problem of national unity will have been solved and therefore the kind of person I am with the kind of solution I had will no longer be necessary."

Earlier Friday the prime minister visited Hearst, Kapuskasing and other Northern Ontario Communities on a plane and Polycopter tour. His schedule also includes visits to Blind River, Gore Bay and the Lakehead cities of Port Arthur and Fort William.

Mr. Trudeau, speaking to an audience of about 4,000 at a school in this community north of Lake Superior, was obviously tired from a gruelling day of travelling and speaking. He stumbled on some words during his address.

His discourse on the country's No. 1 political job was prompted by a floor request for a "free" pee on how to win the job.

Mr. Trudeau said that when the teen-agers currently in the school are in university or business and become active in politics, "it is completely conceivable that this country will need a very different kind of prime minister than I am.

"And perhaps that will be much sooner than even I think or much longer than perhaps much of you wish," he added, drawing a laugh.

Each period of a country's history requires a particular kind of answer, he said.

"And I happened to run for this job at a time when there was a problem between French and English Canada and when there was a problem of a generation gap which was being developed.

"There was a problem of a society which feared for its future because it didn't appear to be changing fast enough.

And it happened that he was around with answers to some of these questions, he said. Other problems will develop. They will be much more complicated.

Future problems "will have to do with technology."

"They will have to do with the post-industrial society and the new people, the young people those in the audience and those in your schools—hopefully will have the answers to these.

"If they are there at the right time and if somebody gives them the right kind of push they will be prime minister."

He said the basic recipe for a prime minister "is to put the respect of people above the respect for institutions, and to put the love of humanity above chauvinistic impulses or drives."

Strike Will Not Delay Shipments Of Any Grains

VANCOUVER (CP) — Striking longshoremen agreed Friday to handle all types of grain in the port of Vancouver and federal Labor Minister Bryce Mackasey said he has been assured employers will co-operate.

Mr. Mackasey made it clear Ottawa expects grain shipments to continue during the strike. He said [illegible] he has to, he'll ask that Parliament be recalled to pass legislation so that grain moves.

The International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union said first it would handle only wheat during its strike of 3,000 men at British Columbia ports, which started Thursday morning.

However, the union said Friday that because of difficulty in handling wheat without also loading other grains, it will handle all types of grain which come through Vancouver.

The B.C. Maritime Employers Association declined to give a firm commitment that it would permit ships, other than the handful now in port, to be loaded with grain.

It made no statement to change that position Friday but Mr. Mackasey said in a telephone interview from Montreal that he has received assurances employers will co-operate in grain shipments.

Loading was expected to start today. It was to have started with one ship Friday but was postponed when the vessel had to be fumigated before it could take on a cargo.

Hours after the wage strike started, the federal government announced a $135,000,000 wheat sale to China, almost all of which would be shipped from the Pacific ports through Vancouver.

Mr. Mackasey said: "When Canada's reputation for the future depends on its ability to deliver, I have but one interest—to see that wheat gets out of Vancouver."

TO THE FUN-SEEKERS OF THE WOLD!

RE: EXPO 70, OSAKA, JAPAN

Irene and I just returned from a Travel Agents' Familiarization Tour of Japan and Hong Kong.

We travelled from Tokyo to Osaka on the magnificent Japanese National Railways — the 'Bullet Train' — would you believe we left on time, arrived on time and the train actually stopped at the station!

While in Osaka, we had the opportunity of personally visiting the Expo 70 site which will be open to the public from March 15 to September 13th.

Of course, Japan is only the 'gateway' to the whole Orient, where Irene took a complete tour of Cambodia, Thailand and Malaysia before meeting me at Tokyo where we attended the 39th World Travel Congress.

Incidentally, our staff are "WORLD TRAVELLERS" in that they are continually informed and up-to-date on all phases of the travel world — anywhere you may wish to go, someone on our staff has probably been there. For Example; this year the following members of our staff have visited: Helen: Barbados; Marg: Tampa; Puerto Rico; Gesina: Hawaii and going to Jamaica next week; Irene: Trinidad; Hawaii; California; Orient; June: Miami and next month to Germany.

Perhaps you may be anticipating a trip to the Pacific for Expo 70 or anywhere else for that matter — if so, contact one of our reliable "World Travellers".

Yours truly,

Carl Rolut

Quinte Buoyancy At New Levels

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

Belleville always has held options on a vibrant future.

Now, suddenly the city is swiftly drawing a new lease on tomorrow.

Significantly, its terms are being written by the golden arm of economic expansion.

And sufficient details have been documented to date to clarify causes for the current lustre on the community's public image.

For Belleville, tomorrow already is here.

Commercial enterprise is obviously thriving. Key testimony to its brimming health is a matter of record in the competition to establish a new regional shopping centre.

Value of housing starts has soared — yet accommodation is at a premium.

Employment is steady, obvious labor unrest absent.

The city is enroute to the future, with at least the initial stage of passage guaranteed by prestige sponsorship.

Belleville has been rediscovered by big business—the core fact in the new community confidence.

Blue chips have been flying through 1969 as major industry hews out enlarged foundations for the city's economic base.

Since the year began, six new, big employers have joined the city scene.

Their initial capital investment alone has been estimated by Industrial Commissioner Ray Brown at a total $8,000,000 — representing a future job potential of close to 800.

Such sudden interest has been activated from diverse sources.

A key stimulant for some of the biggest employers undoubtedly has been the Ontario Development Corporation's forgivable loans scheme.

Rising costs in metropolitan areas, the U.S. desire to tap Canadian market potential from a home base, have been other imperatives.

But, significantly for Belleville more — and local — factors have been at work.

They are both natural and cultivated. They are cited by the big-business organizers.

Is that correct, there's support for the claim that tomorrow already is here for Belleville.

What has encouraged today's new investment wave will also be tomorrow's community attractions.

First, there is the city's geographic situation — almost midway between Eastern Canada's major metropolitan markets, Toronto and Montreal.

It lies astride interprovincial communication arteries — Macdonald - Cartier Freeway, Highway 2, CN, CP main lines. Future navigation techniques may some day partially restore the Bay of Quinte to a once-dominant transportation role, linked to Lake Ontario and the St. Lawrence.

Secondly, there's the human element — the community's representative, public leaders, in local government, civic committees, established business.

The growing interest in Belleville's potential has been a consistent process in recent years. Its steady spread creates vanity — no one person or group can take supreme kudos.

But city government has displayed imaginativeness, pushing development of available industrial and commercial sites. Those charged with the front-running task of boosting Belleville have had more than promises to present investing businessmen.

Taken together, all these Belleville-based factors have been a crucial condition of current expansion.

As evidence, there's the statement of an industrialist the stature of J. T. Connor, board chairman of Allied Chemical, one-time U.S. secretary of commerce in the Johnson cabinet. Officially opening his corporation's $2,000,000 plant in Belleville last May, he noted:

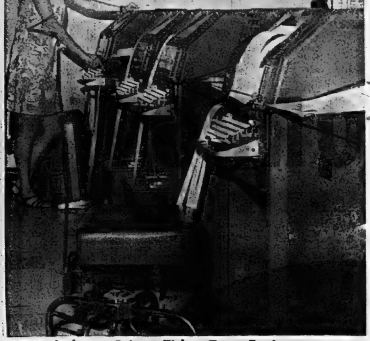
"Belleville is an excellent example of the kind of smaller community that attracts us. . . . I think smaller communities have to organize their (industrial promotion) efforts and that's the way Belleville has done.

The city, he believed, has a "forward - looking approach."

"This requires a degree of civic co-operation that's not found in many communities at this time."

And Robert Aitken, Allied's Belleville general manager:

"Of all the locations we saw the concessions and business approach of Belleville was by far the best. People here have gone out of their way and I can't emphasize it enough. The whole approach of Belleville is exhilarating to people like ourselves."



Dr. again, F. L. Patterson, president of Brooke Bond Canada Ltd., launching a $2,000,000 plant operation:

"You have one of the finest industrial locations in Canada . . . We focussed on Belleville for reasons which other firms planning to expand cannot help but notice as well."

"Personal visits to Canada were made independently by several of our management staff. The recommendations of all these people were that we should locate in Ontario. Belle-

Chromalloy Plant to Be in Production Soon

Chromalloy in Operation in 8 Months

Constellation Canada Company, a division of Constellation Finishing Company in Dalton, Georgia, is Belleville's second newest industry.

The new company is part of Chromalloy Canada Ltd. which is a subsidiary of Chromalloy American Corp. Ltd.; and it is the 52nd company owned by the Chromalloy Corporation.

In Belleville its function will be to commission print and dye carpets for the carpet trade.

According to W. J. Pettigrew vice - president and general manager of the plant, it was in February that Constellation started looking in earnest for a site on which to locate.

A decision that a location between Toronto and Montreal was ideal posed another issue. It then became a question of on - site natural resources which the company needed. Water is a main one.

Belleville had that resource coupled with "a helpful industrial commission." On top of that there was government assistance with the project.

"We have to be in operation soon," said Mr. Pettigrew, and target date for operation in the new plant is mid-October.

Initially 80 people will be employed at Constellation Canada Co. but within the next 18 months that population will probably grow to 200 people.

There will be a few technicians on staff, but the majority of the workers will be practical employees. There will be pattern makers, but initially there will be no designing staff as such.

The technicians will include dyers and printers, "all of whom we hope to recruit in Canada."

"We hope to build and train a large work force from Canadian people," Mr. Pettigrew added.

Some company employees here will be taken to Dalton, Georgia, for training with the head office, but others will be trained by Dalton employees in Belleville.

The workers will occupy 45,000 square feet of plant on a 10-acre piece of land adjacent to Union Carbide on the east side of the city.

Constellation hopes to follow up with 35-40,000 square feet of extra space a little later on.

A latex foaming oven and finishing equipment will be put into the supplementary section of the plant.

But construction of the building is slightly behind schedule. At press time the foundations and steel structures of the building were completed. It is the intention of construction workers to put the roof and the concrete in the building at the same time.

The plant's equipment is ready for installation but the equipment suppliers have been asked to hold it until the building is completed.

Office equipment will be purchased from local Belleville sources, when it is needed.

Constellation will not be looking for customers when the plant is opened for arrangements have been made with Canadian carpet companies through Dalton.

And so, in effect, the experimental work is done. The preliminaries of production will have all been done when Belleville's plant opens to production.

The building is being constructed for expansion. It will be so structured as to make expansion simpler.

Constellation Canada Company will not be manufacturing carpets, it will be offering a service to carpet manufacturers in Canada.

ville was selected because of its geographic location."

And, Fred Eisen, Four Seasons Hotels director whose chain will build a resort hotel training centre for Bell Telephone on the city's waterfront:

"It's rare, truely rare, to be able to come into a city and find the warmth, hospitality and co-operation that you've shown me."

The momentum of future expansion also will receive contributions from today's new employers.

James D. Miller Chromalloy Canada Ltd. executive vice-president indicated its initial carpet - dye operation would grow from about 60 initial workers to 150-200 in two or three years.

Brooke Bond's F. L. Patterson ventures even further:

"I don't think it would be too daring to predict . . . that this area will some day become the nucleus of an important food-processing industry.

The pattern for tomorrow thus already has been indicated by some of the continent's best businessmen.

Already it is possible to see today in retrospect.

Admittedly, there has been no single, dramatic development. The citys' industrial acquisitiveness has been highly diversified — its progress the result of much initiative, ground work.

Belleville apparently is being chaperoned into a new economic environment by orderly consistency, although the pace may be unprecedented for the Quinte community.

Tomorrow's community climate may, or may not be exactly exotic.

But it's designed for growth — and it's already arrived.

For Belleville, tomorrow is here.

Milling Machine At Deloro Stellite

Mining Important to Deloro For Production of Alloys

Belleville In no sense of the word could consider itself a mining town, but at least one local industry is dependent upon minerals for its existence.

It is Deloro Stellite in the city's east end where high temperature abrasion and corrosion resistant alloys are smelted for various modern industrial applications.

The plant is a combination foundry — with sophisticated electric furnaces — and machine shop with a wide range of costly milling and lathe equipment.

At one time the plant's production of stellite — an alloy of superstrong resistance — was primarily geared to national defence demands. Rotor parts for the all-Canadian interceptor Orenda jet engines, and similar contracts, accounted for nearly 75 per cent of production.

Now, says plant manager J. C. "Pat" Houston, that ratio has been reduced to about 40 per cent with the balance absorbed by commercial demand.

Meeting designs for industrial machinery has spread Deloro markets across North America with export destinations as far away as Australia and New Zealand.

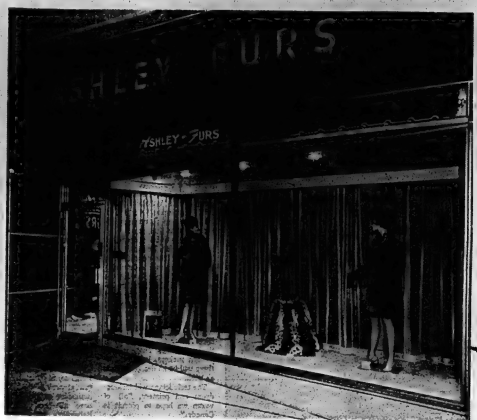
The Deloro work force has remained constant since the company moved here from Deloro in North Hastings in 1955. It currently numbers 240 people including salaried employees.

Plant manager Houston is proud of the fact that Deloro-Stellite is a 100 per cent Canadian company. The firm has a branch plant in England.

Originally known as the Deloro Smelting and Refining Company, the firm located at Deloro in the early 1900's to process silver ore. A by-product of the operation was cobalt which in turn led to the development of stellite.

The firm moved to Belleville after a survey of the entire St. Lawrence Valley and Lake Ontario shoreline showed the Quinte community the best plant site.

The original Belleville plant covered 60,000 square feet and two years ago a million-dollar addition almost doubled capacity to a floor area of 100,000 square feet.



Mr. Houston came to Deloro-Stellite with the transfer of the plant to Belleville. He had formerly been associated with the mining industry.

In Belleville Mr. Houston has taken an active interest in the industrial development of the area, serving both as member and chairman of the Belleville Industrial Commission.

Belleville Bank Started 24 Years Before Union

Belleville had its own banking facilities 24 years before Canada officially came into being, for it was in 1843 that the Bank of Montreal established here.

George Benjamin, who later became the county registrar and first publisher of The Intelligencer, served as first manager. It was one of the bank's earliest branches in Upper Canada.

Today, the B of M's main Belleville branch is well into its 126th year of banking business, while the bank as a whole approached its 150th anniversary as Canada celebrated a century of nationhood.

Belleville was an agricultural and lumbering town with a population of 3,000 when the B of M opened its doors for business in January, 1843. The first office was located in a one - storey red brick building on the north side of Victoria Street. Several years later, the bank acquired new quarters in a two - storey, cut-stone building on Front street, which was then regarded as the business centre of the fast-growing town. This office housed the branch until 1857, when a building at the corner of Pinnacle street and Victoria avenue was occupied.

With the arrival of the Grand Trunk Railway, the community became a main junction for the various lines and, as a result, a number of factories were established to initiate industrial development.

By 1922, the Merchants Bank of Canada had merged with the Bank of Montreal. The more modern Merchants Bank building at Front and Bridge streets was acquired. A new building was constructed on the same site in 1951 to meet the increasing banking needs of Canada's look manufacturing centre.

The Front and Bridge street branch has remained the Bank of Montreal's principal Belleville office, where A. D. (Al) Cameron has been the manager since 1964. However, the development of the district since the war has required the expansion of B of M banking facilities to three offices.

Corby's Has Oldest Firm Distinction

Possibly the oldest continuously operated business in the entire Bay of Quinte district, H. Corby Distillery Ltd. has come a long way in the past century.

Popularly known as the "home of good spirits" what is now Corby's saw its modest beginning as a combination gristmill and distillery 10 years before Confederation — back in 1857.

Today the Corby name is known throughout America and the world, with the plant at Corbyville having a peak employment of about 400 persons.

Now owned by the Canadian Industrial Alcohol Company, the plant is continually modernizing production facilities and is currently installing equipment worth a half million dollars for the control of plant wastes.

One of the waste control phases is the cooling of river water used in plant operation before it is returned to the Moira River.

Actually Corby's multi-million dollar plant grew out of a small grist mill operation established on the banks of the Moira back in 1812 at what was then known as Hayden's Corners.

Originally owned by Samuel Reed, the grist mill was purchased in 1857 by Henry Corby Sr., a Belleville baker and importer who two years later was to add the distillery operation.

A combination grist mill and distillery apparently was a popular combination back in the days prior to Confederation.

The distillery operation was to provide an outlet for, inter-for grain. But there was nothing inferior about Mr. Corby's whiskey and its popular acceptance soon saw many area farmers bringing all their grain for sale at the distillery.

As early as 1859 Mr. Corby was advertising choice brands of flour in bags or barrels and "celebrated" whiskey in 30 or 50 gallon casks to suit the customer.

One of the by-products of the distillery operation was the "slops" which was sold back to farmers as livestock feed. To provide an additional outlet for the slops Mr. Corby soon had a large herd of cattle and hogs for feeding.

Sale of the "slops" to farmers continued into the 1920s.

But in addition to his "celebrated" whisky Mr. Corby was to be popular as well in community and political circles. He served as reeve of Thurlow township and both as reeve and mayor of Belleville and later was to be elected as MLA for East Hastings.

Mr. Corby died in 1881 and the business was carried on by his son Henry Corby Jr., who was later to become a member of parliament and finally a senator.

As an adjunct to the distillery operation, hops were once grown on a large scale on the Corby farms with hops picking alone employing up to 400 persons in season.

Soon after the turn of the century the distillery was sold to Mortimer Davis, a member of the Davis Tobacco family of Montreal. Mr. Davis introduced tobacco growing but the distillery operation continued to flourish.

The present owners, Canadian Industrial Alcohol Company purchased the Corbyville plant in the 1920s, and since then there has been an almost continuous modernization of production equipment.

Possibly the biggest construction boom at Corby's was about 40 years ago with the erection of the numerous multi-storey rack houses for use in aging whiskey.

But regardless of possible future developments in distillery operations it is a safe bet that the Corby's name will remain.

Re-wiring electric motors — all the way up to 300 horsepower — is only one phase of operations carried on by Electric Motor Sales and Service in Belleville. Here, shop workers work on 25-hp motor as company president L. J. Belanger looks on.

Electric Motors

ACME in Business 14 Years And Has Had 5 Expansions

An almost continuous expansion program has been the success story of Belleville Acme Electric Ltd. and Electric Motor Sales and Service.

The family-owned firm has seen no less than five additions in the past 14 years and is shortly to open a branch office in Cobourg.

The company operates in an area ranging from Kingston to Port Hope and from Lake Ontario to Bancroft, but also does jobs for customers as far away as Nova Scotia and British Columbia.

Sophisticated electrical installations are the company's stock in trade, while the parent, electric motor sales and service department repairs motors all the way up to 300 horsepower.

President of the firm is L. J. Belanger, who has been in the electric business for more than four decades.

A son Roland, is vice president and service manager for the shop and equipment manufacturing end of the business. A second son, Carl, is secretary and sales manager.

The present operation, employing more than 60 persons, grew out of a garage and electric motor repair stock set up at Foxboro back in 1945. Five years later Mr. Belanger moved to Belleville to set up an electric motor repair shop near the Upper Bridge.

But inspite of the success of the family business the Belangers still find time for outside interests many of them in the community service.

Mr. Belanger and Roland are chartered members of the Belleville Development Assistance Association; the father is past president of the Quinte Construction Association and this year's president of the Bay of Quinte Country Club.

Roland is past president of the Belleville Kinsmen Club, and district Kinsmen executive officer; vice-president of the chamber of commerce, treasurer of the March of Dimes and co-founder of the Kin-20 club.

Both have full confidence in the future economic growth of the area.

Recently the firm purchased two adjacent residential properties — to provide for still further business expansion.

Quinte Construction 'Largest Industry'

You don't have to make noise to get attention.

But then, no matter how much noise, smoke and dust you raise, you still may not attract appreciation.

Take the construction industry. Most people have been taking it for granted for years. Yet it plays a fundamental role in any community's economic setting.

Belleville is no different. Its current economic upsurge only emphasizes the universal truth that the most basic tasks are also the least glamorous.

The location of each new industry in the sudden spiral of business settlement in the past two years has been publicly hailed. The community clings to shifts and movements of every long-established plant and major employer.

Meantime the construction industry goes on its unheralded way, despite the fact it makes more noise, raises more dust and smoke than any other contributor to community economy.

And the extent of that contribution is noted by W. C. Tatham, spokesman for the industry in Belleville as president of the Quinte Construction Association.

Mr. Tatham makes no bashful bones about the true dimensions of construction in the perspective.

"We're the largest industry in Belleville," he states bluntly.

Big and small local contractors have grossed maybe $10,000,000 a year, he estimates on various projects in and outside the Quinte district.

In turn local sub-trades and suppliers probably gross up to $15,000,000 he estimates."

This means some $25,000,000 being generated by Belleville area contractors and their industry auxiliaries.

Much of the total however is created outside the Quinte region.

Member contractors in the local construction association have work projects spanning East and Central Ontario — from Oshawa to Cornwall.

Up to 70 percent of the money generated comes from projects beyond Quinte borders, he estimates.

There's cause to be optimistic about the Belleville market in the future. The industrial boomlet has seen a number of outside contractors engaged for plant construction.

Mr. Tatham agrees, however, that what's stirring the present-day economic pot will mean a richer diet of contracts for the Quinte industry.

The obvious increase in population alone holds out fair prospects in urban expansion.

Then there are the service industries — bakeries, garages, laundries.

Mr. Tatham estimates that one industrial employee needs three and one-half employees — statistically speaking — in supporting community services.

Regardless of what course the national economy may take in the near future, the results of the current Belleville upswing will be satisfactorily felt for some time to come.

"What flows from this will ensure a minor boom in the general and construction industries in the area," he predicts optimistically.

Automated Plant Required to Compete In Competitive Potato Chip Business

Cheezies By The Box Car

The manufacture of Cheezies, potato chips and popcorn is a local food processing operation which keeps an average of 25 full-time workers busy at W. T. Hawkins Ltd.

During peak production periods the work crew can be augmented by up to an additional 25 temporary workers.

That has been the picture at Hawkins since the company moved to Belleville from Tweed back in 1956. The move followed a serious fire at its plant in that village. Company officials plan no immediate expansion to their present operation.

"We are just going along," states plant manager James E. Marker. "Good new products are hard to come by. We do need additional space but don't plan any other expansion."

Originaly in the grain-milling business, in Dayton, Ohio, Mr. Marker helped his company develop its Cheezies corn sticks and then saw the company bought out by W. T. Hawkins Ltd. of Chicago.

A few months later he was on his way to Canada to set up a Canadian plant operation.

Studies had shown that the Quinte area was central to the two main Canadian markets — Toronto and Montreal — and Tweed was chosen as the plant location. This area was also considered central for supplies.

In the main, American-grown corn is used for Cheezies because its physical structure lends to the "puffing" required in manufacture.

Potatoes for chipping come from as far away as California but Ontario and Quebec potatoes are also used. A few Quinte area growers act as suppliers.

The manufacture of potato chips and similar snack food lines is a highly competitive business demanding close checks on cost factors. As a result, the Hawkings plant is highly automated with resulting low comparative labor requirements.

When Mr. Marker came to Canada 20 years ago he expected to stay only long enough to organize the Canadian operation and then return to Chicago. But it didn't work out quite that way.

"When I got to Canada I liked the place and told them I was staying."

Chamber Start Dates to 1865

Formed in 1865, it is two years older than the country itself.

Organized at first as a Board of Trade, the chamber was the result of a meeting called by the mayor of Belleville at that time, Rufus Holden, in the city hall.

The population of Belleville then was 6,000 people.

And so on July 4, 1865, a group of citizens gathered in the city hall to organize the Belleville Board of Trade.

Among those present were Sir Mackenzie Bowell, then editor of The Intelligencer, Senator Billa Flint and Senator Robert Reid, two leading industrialists and Henry Corby the founder of Corby's Distillery.

E. W. Holton, a Belleville citizen, was picked as the board's first president and, although the name has been changed to the Chamber of Commerce, the organization has been in operation ever since that warm July evening.

Since that date the organization has grown to include an

Vitamins and Baby Food

Mead Johnson Has Global Reputation

Mead Johnson of Canada Ltd., is part of a growing organization with a global reputation as a developer and marketer of nutritional and pharmaceutical products.

Since 1925, when manufacturing facilities were moved to Belleville, the number of products and employees has steadily increased.

The company's name from the start has been linked with vitamin products and baby food.

In 1931, co-operating with the Hospital for Sick Children in Toronto, the company developed the first vitamin and mineral fortified cereal for infants.

It was soon superceded in 1933 by Pablum, the first precooked, fortified infant's cereal, which has since nourished two generations of Canadians. The product continues to be manufactured in Belleville.

In 1952, emphasis was placed on pharmaceutical research. By 1955, Oracon, the world's first sequential oral contraceptive was developed and marketed.

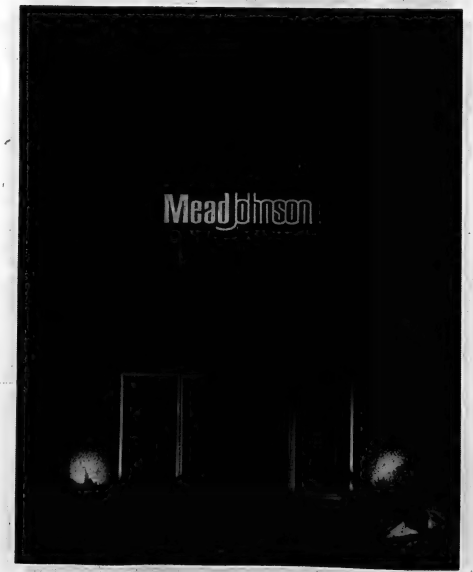
In recognition of the growing importance of the Canadian market, a modern product development laboratory was constructed in Belleville in 1966.



A milk plant was installed recently to manufacture Benilex, a new infant feeding system for hospitals, in use in Belleville General Hospital as well as many others across Canada.

The expansion of the plant and addition of the milk processing department necessitated the construction of a $1,600,000 addition to the Belleville plant in 1968.

Mead Johnson, which started with two vitamin products in 1922, now manufactures 38 products in Canada. It employs 280 people in Canada, 60 per cent of whom work in Belleville.

Electronic Controls Only Canadian Firm Building Equipment For Schools

Only One of Its Kind

Electronic Controls has made its name in supplying electronic equipment for schools all across Canada. The Belleville-based firm is now in the process of completing plans for a move into larger quarters.

It is the only firm in the city that employs a professor of engineering as a full time member of its staff.

For that matter, the company is unique in Canada. It produces equipment used for teaching in the vocational and technical departments of high schools and community colleges, and is the only firm in Canada to do so.

A privately - owned, all Canadian company, its 200 products for school use are all developed and designed in the Belleville plant and marked in Canada, the United States, and through the government's foreign aid program in South America, Africa and Asia.

The teaching equipment made by Electronic Controls is intended mainly for use in electrical and refrigeration courses.

"About 25 per cent of our products are semi-custom jobs made to order for the schools they will be used in," says W. H. McPherson, production manager. "The remaining 75 per cent are standard products."

The company was founded in Toronto by A. D. Revill, president, and moved to Belleville 11 years ago. It employs 45 people, both male and female, including three engineers in addition to the engineers on the managerial staff. Now occupying factory space adjacent to Belleville Marine Yards on the harbor, the company will move to new larger, premises within the year.

"Because schools want to buy a complete package for their shops, we have been led into providing furniture with our equipment," says Mr. McPherson.

"Our firm not only designs equipment, but also must develop a course of instruction for its use, which becomes the curriculum for the course where our product is installed," says the production manager.

This is where Sek Ma, a former professor of electrical engineering at a British Columbia university, comes into the operation. He writes the instructional books and plans the course of study to be used with the company's products.

"At the present time, 40 per cent of our total market is in the United Sates," says Mr. McPherson. "This will increase eventually, until the American market will absorb the major proportion of our products.

"Because our competitors are all American-owned, we are at a disadvantage. All their equipment comes into Canada duty free, but we have to pay duty up to 13 per cent on all we ship to the United States."

Packaging Plant Plans on Growing

It goes out to various terminal points courtesy of one of the city's newest light industries — International Cooperage.

Not that International is in the air-shipping business. It just happens that way.

The company manufactures packaging for other people's products — fibre drums of all sizes as the customers require.

Those customers include chemical and food industrialists, all utilizing International Cooperage products for a wide spread of needs.

The drums leave the plant empty of everything but air for various mid-eastern Ontario points.

The plant, sited on eight acres of the city's northeast Industrial park, first got under construction in late 1967. International Cooperage, with head offices at Niagara Falls, planned it as a production centre serving a 100-mile market radius.

The 22,000 square footage of plant represented a $500,000 capital investment.

At present, it employs 10, with possible plans for more workers on shift in the near future, says Mr. Watson.

Tomorrow is always here in business — future trends must be appreciated in advance.

Demand is the pace-setter for commerce and internation-al Cooperage is no different, indicates its Belleville manager. Expansion will be geared to market — but the company intends growing.

"We bought a little better than eight acres — and we don't intend just to pay taxes on it," says Mr. Watson. "We intend to expand as business warrants."

Prince Bypassed Stopover

The Prince of Wales, later King Edward VII, arrived in Belleville harbor on the steamer Kingston, August, 1860. The town was decorated; the church bells were ringing; and people thronged the streets in excited expectancy.

The next morning flags were hung from arches that had been erected. The Orangemen paraded in full regalia demonstrating their loyalty to the crown. The Prince, however, not wanting to be associated with any religious item in the case it might start a feud among Queen Victoria's subjects, decided not to land and the steamer went on to Cobourg leaving behind a very disappointed Belleville.

Chamber of Commerce
Directors Elected for Two Year Terms

executive of a president, two vice-presidents, a treasurer, and eight directors.

Permanent staff includes a manager, O. F. Bradley, and a secretary, Mrs. Ray Worrell.

Present president is J. A. Ireland. Vice-presidents are H. F. Fast and J. R. Belanger. F. E. Heisz is the treasurer.

Members of the chamber of commerce are representatives of industry, commerce, the professions, or any person interested in the social and economic growth of their community.

The Belleville chamber is affiliated with the Canadian and Provincial Chambers of Commerce. The Ontario chamber has representatives from the various districts allotted in the province.

Belleville, for example, is a part of District 18 in the Ontario scheme of things and is represented by a director, H. H. Murray, a former president of the Belleville chamber.

There are 49 directors in the Ontario Chamber of Commerce — representatives of their districts and additional members appointed by the Ontario Board of Directors.

The Canadian Chamber of Commerce is organized and divided in representation on a provincial basis.

There are 850 individual chambers of commerce and boards of trade in Canada.

Monthly in Belleville there is a directors meeting for formulation of policy, establishment of a budget and the controlling of expenditures.

The directors are also responsible for committees on tourism, civic - provincial - federal affairs, finance, membership, education and consumer retail. Ad hoc committees are formed as needed.

General meetings of the total membership are held in the spring and fall and in January.

Once a year new directors are elected to two year terms. After two consecutive terms they are ineligible for election again until one year's absence is up. The treasurer can be elected or appointed.

Free competitive enterprise and the democratic form of government are the basic principles of the chamber of commerce. The chamber is opposed to any form of government that is opposed to basic freedom.

It operates a tourist information bureau providing visitors and local citizens with tourist material about Belleville, Canada and northeastern United States.

It also operates a Business Consumer Protective Bureau to encourage sound business ethics and to assist local citizens in consumer-retail disputes.

There is a coming events register through which the chamber lists coming events of local clubs and associations in eliminating conflicting social and cultural events.

It assists the department of national health and welfare with people applying for old age pensions.

In this cause it holds city directories for all cities in Ontario and also a federal and provincial government directory.

At present its main project is the study, preparation and presentation of a "project of rejuvenation" of the Belleville downtown business section.

And in the near future it will be assisting in presenting a training and education conference with representatives of education, labor, industry and commerce.

Belleville Conveyors in Use Around World

Manufacture of equipment handling bulk materials is the stock-in-trade for Stephens-Adamson Mfg. Co. — one of Belleville's "heavy" industries on the city's waterfront.

As a result "Made in Belleville" belt conveyor systems are known throughout many parts of the world.

They are in use in East Coast mines, in at least one Japanese-built ocean - going bulk carrier, as well as in Africa, South America and Jamaica.

And a Stephens-Adamson - made moving sidewalk also moves people at the International Airport at Montreal.

In addition to the belt conveyors for transport of raw ores and other bulk materials, equipment built at Stephens-Adamson includes screw conveyors and bucket elevators.

Stephens-Adamson Mfg. Co. of Canada Ltd. was incorporated in Belleville in May, 1927, in the plant formerly occupied by Marsh and Henthorne Ltd., manufacturers of boilers and winches.

At that time the company employed 25 people while today with its branch sales offices in Montreal, Toronto and Vancouver, more than 300 are on the payroll.

This includes approximately 40 workers employed at the company - owned Saco foundry on St. Paul Street.)

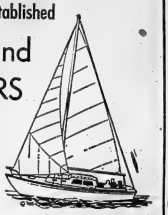
The Belleville firm is a subsidiary of the parent firm, Stephens-Adamson of Aurora, Ill., which earlier this year was sold to the huge Borg-Warner Corporation.

But, according to local president V. L. Lewis, the merger is expected to result in little change in the Belleville operation.

"We are largely autonomous and self-sustaining," says Mr. Lewis, "we do our own designs and manufacture our own components." ....

The only exception is the importation of bearings for conveyor rollers. The company no longer builds moving sidewalks.

Mr. Lewis said that Borg-Warner is highly diversified, with interests in many fields. It is possibly best known for its association with the automotive industry.



Since coming to Belleville, Stephens Adamson has seen two expansions — one in 1959 and the other in 1967 — and now has a floor area of approximately 120,000 feet.

Until recently the president and general manager of the Belleville operation has been G. A. Freeman who had been company head since 1927. Mr. Freeman is now chairman of the board while Mr. Lewis is the new president.

Northern Electric Employs 1,100

Northern Electric Company Ltd. has been in Belleville — as one of its major industries since 1947 and is approaching its 25th anniversary of location here.

Northern, with head offices in Montreal, is the largest telecommunications manufacturer in Canada and is growing in Europe and other areas of the world.

There are Northern Electric Plants in such countries as Turkey, Greece and Jamaica.

In Canada the company employs 25,000 people and in Belleville, at present, 1,100 people earn their livings at the plant.

Northern began its operation by renting space where Morch Manufacturing now stands and then moved into its new building in 1948.

There were three additions to the plant, in 1950, 1954 and 1961 and right now this space is being used by a peak staff total. At its lowest ebb, Northern Electric employs 750 people.

And there is more than the manufacturing in 14 centres across Canada, for there is the research end of it as well.

In the Belleville plant, the research arm is located in approximately 7,500 square feet of space connected with the manufacturing works.

The lab performs a vital function, developing new products and improving existing telephone and other products which are now or may be allocated to the works.

The present Belleville research staff of 54 includes senior scientific staff, engineers, technician specialists, engineering technicians and support staff.

Laboratory facilities include testing equipment, technical library and large drafting facilities.

"We take output from exploratory work and do detailed development right up to the point of manufacture," said D. A. Carruthers, in charge of the lab at Northern.

Outside plant products made by the works which are affected by the laboratory group include the many types of hardware required to terminate, interconnect and protect telephone cable facilities.

Also, the laboratory initiates design innovation in miniature fuses, voice frequency repeaters and coin-operated telephones manufactured in Belleville.

Additional development work is carried out on printed wiring circuit boards, manufactured here for the remainder of the company, and technical assistance is provided to the works on complex projects such as communications devices used in earth-orbiting satellites.

Then the company produced dictating machine equipment, audio equipment of all kinds, broadcast transmitters, fire alarm equipment, traffic control equipment, and, in 1948, radar equipment.

But, just recently the company has gone into the satellite business. Northern Electric is at present taking part in the building of Intelsat LV, "the world's largest commercial communications satellite."

The project by Northern is being shared by nine other world companies all on a sub-contract basis for Hughes Aircraft Company in the United States.

As well as being able to transmit 12 color television programs or 5,000 two-way telephone calls, the electronics of the satellite will enable any combination of communications traffic.

But, Intelsat LV is an example of how Northern's products have changed until the future possibilities will only include (as it stands at present) the sale of types of apparati in telecommunications systems.

Although the plant is at present working almost at ultimate capacity there will be no manufacturing expansion.

However, there are other things to consider when one talks of growth of an industry — growth into the community.

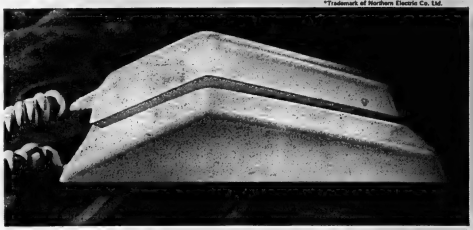
Northern's employees are more than just employees. They are people who get involved in the community.

They deal directly with educational people to help with education in certain areas. Some employees are night school teachers.

Northern is advocating closer ties with education on a provincial level. For example students are brought into the plant for one week once a year.

In some cases the plant helps its own employees to go to school by paying for their tuitions.

It's a company that looks ahead.



At Northern, we shape the things to come.

Our new CONTEMPRA* phone, for instance. The sculptured lines of this shapely dial-in-hand set are already giving Canadians a feel for the future. There's no end to the things to come from Northern. Like our cables. They're forming the superhighways of Canada's vast communications networks. We're also very big in micro-miniaturization. And very up in satellite communications. The future is taking shape this minute. And it's being shaped by forward-looking Canadians. At Northern.

New Suit of Sails Covers Loft Floor

Keeble Sails in Many Lands Cresting Wave of Diversity

One of Belleville's biggest tourist attractions is a quiet-spoken man with a knack for sewing.

Although he refuses to give an estimate, Charles Keeble, sailmaker and only ships' chandler between Toronto and Montreal, knows that his business is responsible for drawing hundreds of yachtsmen to the city every summer.

His C. Keeble 4 Sails insignia has been carried by Quinte sailors into foreign waters until now, 13 years after he started his business, he receives orders from across Canada, the United States, Czechoslovakia, Thailand, Jamaica and the Bahamas.

In addition, Mr. Keeble operates a boat rigging service and an industrial equipment and maintenance department in his loft on Belleville harbor.

Among the local plants that Mr. Keeble supplies with canvas products are Black Diamond Cheese, Stephens-Adamson, Allied Chemicals, Northern Electric, Wilson Concrete, and the Cheese Marketing Board.

"Every new industry moving to Belleville is another customer for me," says the sailmaker, "If I weren't here they would have to go outside the city for canvas work."

Charles Keeble Sails also turns out baby carriage covers and a new convertible winter storage cover for boats, which can be put on in 15 minutes time instead of the full day required for former models.

A good portion of his work is devoted to convertible tops, covers and canvas products for use on power boats.

Mr. Keeble is one of only nine sail makers in Canada, and one of the few who can still do the traditional hand-sewn rope work once required in sailmaking. He has made sails for the two brigantines now sailing Lake Ontario — St. Lawrence II and Pathfinder and for the Toronto schooner Trident. Varuna, the Bay of Quinte Corvette setting local records this year, carries his sails.

His career began at the age of 16, when he started a seven-year apprenticeship with a Toronto sailmaker. After seven years in the Air Force he retired to a job in a Belleville industrial plant and bought a sail boat. He made his own sails, of course, and other Belleville yachtsmen began asking him to make sails for them.

In 1956, he took a three-month leave of absence from his job to expand the part-time business he had been carrying on in the upstairs of his house.

"I'm still on that leave of absence, and my business is expanding at the rate of 15 per cent every year," says Mr. Keeble.

He employs four women on sailmaking and sometimes increases the number to six during peak summer periods.

"I have no trouble finding excellent female help, who are capable of cutting and other aspects of sailmaking as well as sewing," he says. "A New York sailmaker has told me he envies me the calibre of help I am able to hire in Belleville."

In addition Keeble Sails employs an office girl and seven men for heavy canvas work and rigging. "Although one of my girls is pretty good at rigging too."

With the increase in boating and the advent of new synthetic materials that are used for many purposes besides sails, the almost forgotten sailmaker's art is enjoying a revival.

"I started my loft at just the right time," says Mr. Keeble. "I see no end to the expansion of my business in the years ahead."

Morch Name Boat Byword

Belleville Marine Yards has carried the reputation of this community far beyond the shores of the Bay of Quinte where its operation is based.

Ninety per cent of its production of yachts is marketed in the United States through 11 agencies from Detroit to Miami.

It started in 1965 with two employees working on a 43-foot sloop for owner Ian Morch. At the same time they worked on the wood and fibre glass North Star, they began tooling up for production of the first Corvette class sloop.

In June, 1966 Corvette number one was launched. The Marine Yards hoped to turn out 18 of the 31-foot boats, designed by the famous Canadian firm of Cuthbertson and Cassian. By mid-September of 1969 Corvette number 104 left the factory, the 29th to be built this year.

Four class boats are in production at Belleville Marine Yards. In addition to the Corvettes, 13 Crusader class sloops were launched this year. The largest boat turned out by the company, it is 40 feet long and has also made a respectable showing on the Southern Ocean Racing Circuit.

Seven Frigate class sloops and two Invaders were produced this year. These are 36 foot sloops, similar in design.

At present, Belleville Marine Yard employs 53 production workers. It is the only company in the eastern Ontario region in the production of fibre glass yachts, and "the market is fantastic" according to president Ian Morch.

For the year 1970, which marine circles begin this fall, Belleville Marine Yard plans a 50 percent expansion of its plant and production.

Bi-Temp Relocation from Toronto Rated 'Good Move' by President

Company Grows with Area

George E. Parry is president of the year-old Bi-Temp Co., which is centered in Belleville. Mr. Parry views the area as one synonymous with progress, and maintains that his company, involved in the installation and maintenance of air conditioning and refrigeration units for industry, will grow right along with Belleville.

The year-old Bi-temp Co. sees its re-location in Belleville as a good move — because, according to the company president, the Quinte area is synonymous with progress.

The fledgling company headed by president George E. Parry, is co-engaged in the design, sales, installation and service of refrigeration, air-conditioning and heating systems.

"Originally, the company was based in Toronto," but as Mr. Parry explained, the competition in that city is tough — there are 175 other companies involved in the same business we are."

A talk with officials in the department of trade and industry told Mr. Parry on Belleville for his company's new home.

"This particular department is one that helps establish where the provincial tax dollar will do the most good," he explained.

"They told me to concentrate between the area of Cobourg and Morrisburg, particularly here, because of the close proximity to the 401.

"They were right when they said a great deal of industry is moving into the area," said Mr. Parry.

Currently the company's work is centred in the Whitby — Brockville area.

Mr. Parry has been involved directly in the refrigeration business for more than 25 years, bringing both experience and a practical working knowledge to his company.

"We have only three basic employees. Usually, we simply employ people as we need them."

Bi-temp specializes in service to industry, rarely supplying homes with air conditioning or heat ventilation units.

There is a certain degree of pride and craftsmanship that goes with the trade.

"When you stop to consider that most office workers don't want to go home in the summertime, that is a true credit to our work," remarked Mr. Parry.

The work the company does is "on the job" with only a small amount of overhaul work done in the shop on East Dundas St.

"Our main work centres in new buildings, so you can kind of term us sub sub-contractors," commented Mr. Parry.

"Every month that passes, more and more work is being made available to the company," he continued.

Mr. Parry feels business will improve with the passing of time, because it takes a while until the community adjusts to the company and vise versa.

"It is this way no matter what you do. People will always rely on what they are familiar with, and are reluctant to try anything new."

"However, with all this new industry moving into the Quinte area, novelty becomes the order of the day. After a year or two, companies become completely absorbed in the community," said Mr. Parry.

What happens then he maintains is that the degree of success is completely dependent on the company's ability to produce, and the kind of service they provide.

50,000 by 1976 Predicted Population

At the current rate of industrial growth Belleville's population will exceed that of Peterborough or Kingston within seven years.

That is the prediction of Belleville Mayor J. Russell Scott as he commented on the city's recent success in attracting industry.

"Belleville has proven to the industrial community of Canada and the continent that we in this area deserve industrial expansion and growth," said Mayor Scott.

"The response has been tremendous and the influx of industry unprecedented."

He said if all segments of the community were co-ordinated so that expansion could be in an orderly fashion then the population of Belleville would exceed 50,000 people by 1976.

The city's current population is about 34,000.

Referring to the city's "unprecedented" industrial growth the mayor said this had been achieved only through the co-ordinated effort and teamwork of the city's many boards and commissions.

Hats... and More Hats

Moved From Toronto

Hats? Lanning Produces 1¾ Million of Them

Hats, hats, and still more hats!

That's the story at G. T. Lanning Ltd. 227 Coleman Street, where more hats are turned out in a 12-month period than in any place in Canada.

"We make about 1¾ million hats a year in up to 400 different styles," states firm member Robert Lanning. "We make nothing but hats."

The Lanning family hat-making business was originated in Toronto back in 1915 by the father, G. T. Lanning, who is still a member of the firm.

The company moved to Belleville in 1949, taking over the former American Optical plant. Since then the company has enjoyed steady growth with the result that two storage additions have been built in the past five years.

Company owners are G. T. Lanning and sons Alfred and Robert.

Originally the company manufactured leather goods, including purses, as well as hats, but this line was discontinued in 1957.

Since then production has been confined almost exclusively to summer time "play" hats. Included are beach hats, Mexicana and westerns made from a wide range of material like felt, cotton, Canadian wheat straw, to Japanese synthetic straws.

But just as summer hats are a seasonal thing, so also is their production. In the peak period up to 60 persons are employed with production for next year's hats just now getting into full swing.

Lanning's market is exclusively Canadian, but they are known from coast to coast. Among the big sellers are westerns, popular among all horse lovers.

Summertime play hats are light and airy, so with the high bulk - to - weight ratio, storage and shipping amount to something of a problem.

The hats are stacked and packed into paper cartons, but even so there is a bulk problem.

Locks Local Product

Does urbanization breed something more than sophistication?

Like big-city, materialist tension, for instance?

A long - established Belleville company has been helping for years ease the tension of metropolitanites. It's achieved by a method which has been easing materialist migraines for years — locks.

Belleville's International Hardware plant — with traditions reaching back more than a century — probably has held the key to comfort for more Canadians than any other undertaking since public education.

For instance the lock company has manufactured the hardware for such projects as: Place Ville Marie, Simpsons Towers, Toronto, Toronto City Hall, CPR's Chateau Champlain, and these but to name a few.

Also to be added to the list is a complete line of residential hardware distributed coast to coast, including locks, latches, pivots, fire exit bolts, door closers. All of which is properly better known under the trade names of Corbin and Russwin. Both names are now emblems on the banner of International Hardware.

In Belleville the International insignia also means a major city employer, a plant with some 325 workers with facilities that include an iron and brass foundry, machine and press departments and a modern plating and finishing unit.

But the present complex has a long history dating back to simpler days.

Bell Shirts Has Adapted To Market

Today there's neither flood nor fire. Competition — in an industry perpetually prone to contest — now sets the challenge to keeping the factory humming.

Bell Shirt is doing as well as ever. And to prove it's just as successful as in the days of flood and fire is the job record of its employees.

The plant maintains a staff of 40-50 workers — and most of them, says general manager and vice-president, Jack Kuntze, have been in Bell employ "for 20 years and more."

Bell makes no bid for the glamor market — yet, its diversification to meet competition has touched glamorous horizons.

It's a specialist — of muscular make.

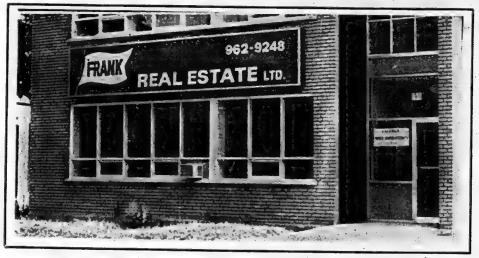
Yet, its products reach spectacular markets.

Among the items being turned out at its plant are colorful bush shirts and jackets. Tough, durable they also sell cross-country, to sportsmen, bushworkers, lumberjacks.

The market stretches towards the Northern Lights into the Yukon.



The company has travelled a straight road of growth since its foundation in August, 1928.

Allied Liked Quinte's Assets

The prospects are as sunny as the potential is sound.

That's the prediction indicated by the captain of a major world industry which came in on an early wave in the city's current expansion boom.

This year Belleville's name was added to the global map charting world production centres of the giant Allied Chemical Corporation.

Siting a new industrial unit is a complicated procedure, with many elements dovetailing to a final decision.

The hard facts of business take priority.

Last May, J. T. Connor, Allied's board chairman and former U.S. secretary of commerce in Johnson Administration, officially opened the new plant — and gave reasons for its location.

With the outline went some reassuring forecasts for the city's future.

Meantime, Belleville is working hard to promote itself as a choice location for new business and industry.

"The small communities have a great deal to offer," said Mr. Connor, "and I think that, in our company, we are looking more and more for the development of new plants and business in smaller communities.

"Belleville is an excellent example of the kind of smaller community that does attract us."

He credited the city with a "forward looking approach" with a "very sound" plan of diversified industrialization.

Diversification relieves both community and industry of pressure from overblown mutual reliance.

"I think smaller communities have to organize their (industrial) promotion efforts — and that's the way Belleville has done," said Mr. Connor.

Allied held land options in several Ontario communities before it announced its choice of Belleville early in 1968.

At that time, Robert Aitken, the Allied staffer appointed general manager in Belleville, also gave reasons for the decision.

"Of all the locations we saw, the concessions and business approach of Belleville was by far the best," he noted. "People have gone out of their way — and I can't emphasize it enough."

"The whole approach of Belleville to business is exhilarating to people like ourselves."

Allied started rolling production at its Belleville unit well within the year, reeling off the first reams of Capran 8 brand film for the markets.

Only 1,000th of an inch thick, the film can be adapted for almost any purpose because of its versatility and strength.

It is not limited to food packaging and can be diversified for other needs — in carpets, tire cords, dress fabrics.

A metalized version of Capran 8 already is in use in the United States.

The range of products will increase in variety as markets are developed, Mr. Aitken indicated early in the company's settlement.

The list could grow to include materials for such lines as nylon gas tanks, Christmas decorations, women's throwaway dresses.

Among the final public words on the future so far came at the May opening ceremonials from Allied Chairman F. L. Reisinger.

"We look upon the Belleville plant as a nucleus for future growth," he said. "We are confident that our Canadian team (of company officials) will be able to bring this about."

Finkle Machine Ready for Expansion

MACHINE SHOP OPERATION

In 1971 Finkle Machine Company will be celebrating the 25th anniversary of its organization in Belleville.

With the celebration in the near future is the possibility of relocation and expansion.

There has already been much change since the company began in 1946 in a small building at its present site at 68 Dundas Street West.

But the history of Finkle Machine Company is the history of William Finkle, its creator and operator.

Mr. Finkle was employed as a machine shop leacher during World War II and it was then that the idea of owning his own business came into being.

After resigning from his teaching position, Mr. Finkle became a machine shop worker in a number of Belleville industries. In 1946 his dream of his own business became a reality.

"I started off with custom machine work," he said.

From there the business branched out to sub-contracting on machine parts on many Belleville area projects.

And to this day there is still a market for parts contract work, a market that is met in this area by Finkle Machine Co.

In 1960 the company began another specialized machine shop business — welding and fabricating steel. This now is the major part of the Finkle enterprise.

And to keep up with the weldihg and fabricating of steel special machines and processing equipment now fill the building.

Finkle Crane Rentals became an associate company, a business within a business. Mr. Finkle has four cranes within this network and they are often not enough, again proof of a growing market.

But, it is structural steel for which Finkle Machine Company is known. It recently completed a job containing 27 tons of structural steel needed in the construction of the Campbellford High School.

Another construction and contracting chore has been work on structures at CFB Trenton.

"We have a fine operation for the size of the shop," Mr. Finkle says. "We have a very good fabrication concern."

It is one of the few machine shops in the province with extremely large machinery needed for heavy steel work. An example of the sophisticated equipment at Finkle's is the large press breach which bends steel.

"It makes all sorts of work that couldn't be done before easy now," he said.

But growth is the main concern of Mr. Finkle now and of the future of his industry.

"We can't help but get bigger," he said, and he is actually considering relocating his company.

"Any future expansion will mean relocation. We need better facilities to do the work we've got."

"In the days of modern technology the work has to be done faster," he added.

And this is what could prompt a move by Mr. Finkle and his company. His aim is a machine shop, prompt and efficient, on the job to keep pace with modern growth speed.

There also has been a steady growth in the market for fabricated steel, another reason for the possibility of expansion.

"It's a good market, basically, although we have competition from concrete products," he said.

We are pleased to be part of this progressive, growing community.

"Belleville Week" is an opportunity for us all to enjoy our good fortune and at the same time confirm our intentions of furthering our community's progress.

Quality Sportswear Deacon's Trade

Many people groan at the thought of more leisure time — but for Deacon Brothers Sportswear Ltd. — it means bigger business.

The origins of the business go back to 1887 and to William Deacon, who dealt in made-to-measure shirts at the back of his shop.

"His main concern was the white shirt, since that was the market at that time. Dress was formal, even during so-called leisure hours," explained company president Fred Deacon.

Today the company manufactures clothing geared to spare time activities — everything from ski parkas to hunting shirts.

"The leisure market is what we cater to, and that is where two-thirds of our business is, and that is where our business future is," asserted Mr. Deacon.

Time is on the side of the company, because as man progresses during this space age, there will be more and more leisure time.

"The future in our business is exciting, because men are now interested, and wear clothes with color, with an eye to fashion — not only on the golf course, but for the majority of their activities," said Mr. Deacon.

More at this time than ever before, Mr. Deacon noted, have men developed a "sense of color," and care more about what they wear.

There has been a continual change in the market, from camping outfits to snowmobile gear. "We feel we are meeting and are ready to meet more of the changes that will be forthcoming," he added.

The company is run by the third generation Deacons. Don Deacon heads the production department, while Eric takes care of design.

"We are a very young company. In the past three years we have added more than 5,000 square feet to our plant," remarked Mr. Deacon.

There is no physical expansion in the foreseeable future, according to the company president, simply an attempt to satisfy the age-old problem of demand and supply.

The company opened a permanent sales office in Toronto, which will provide for an increase potential factor of 25 per cent.

"Deacon Brothers got their start in Belleville simply because my grandfather began here. We like the location, the proximity of the area and read progress in its future," said Mr. Deacon.

Black Diamond in Forefront

Cheese Has Given Belleville an International Reputation

Tomorrow was here years ago in the Quinte cheese business.

It was ushered in by a trade name — Black Diamond.

Years ago the Belleville company, with its up-to-date business outlook, fell heir to the aging Quinte cheese tradition, giving it a spruce, new look.

Now, as a newcomer to the International Brooke Bond food industry group, Black Diamond keeps a century-old local industry contemporary with the sophisticated perspective of modern business.

For Belleville it means continued enjoyment of an international reputation for enjoyable cheddar cheese.

The cheesemaking craft came with the early pioneers. But it was in the immediate pre-Confederation that it first developed into an industry of importance to the public economy.

By 1866 the fledgling industry was spreading through the Quinte district, with the first factories going up around Belleville.

Because of a small home population exports — particularly to Britain — became paramount. Distinguished by unique flavor and high quality, Canadian cheddar won consumer cheers in Britain.

The boom was on and more and more factories were opened around the Quinte district to meet a flourishing demand. So much so, the industry reached its peak with 2,300 plants producing nothing but cheese.

The early - 20th century saw the golden years of the industry. Still the British market was a prime source when Robert F. Hart — a native Englishman who came to Canada via the U.S. cheese business — launched Belleville Cheddar Cheese Ltd. in 1933.

Hart was testing a new marketing idea.

To that time, most cheese exported was shipped unaged, the British importer usually completing the maturing process. Hart argued that a standard home-matured product could find a ready export market.

Cheese was shipped into Belleville from the countryside matured on Hart's premises.

The cheese was unwaxed and during the aging process, a surface mould formed on the rind. When waxed later for export it was found the moulded rind turned black.

Hart had ready-made inspiration for a trade name — a diamond among cheese for flavor, its packaging black in appearance.

Early in the company's career Hart had his attention drawn to the domestic market. Cheese was exported in 90-pound wheels. Domestic demand from connoisseurs and catering establishments necessitated a new departure. Hart began ordering 10-pound wheels from the nearby Footboro Cheese Factory.

Today, Black Diamond cheese circles are mailed by tens of thousands, around the world. The Footboro producer still manufactures for the company.

The post-World War II era was a difficult time for cheese exporters and Black Diamond turned to developing Canadian markets.

A series of company purchases ensued in following years, climaxed by amalgamation with an historic firm — W. S. Cook and Son, of Belleville, in the cheese business since 1874.

In 1959 also came a complete reversal of a traditional role, Black Diamond was named North American representative for Milk Marketing Board of England and Wales, marketing English varieties of cheese across the Macdonald-Cartier Freeway from the new Brooke Bond factory, one of Belleville's newest industrial acquisitions.

However, Black Diamond still plays a familiar and traditional role in the Quinte economy.

Most of its cheese is still obtained from local factories — which also maintained a proud tradition of their own.

Black Diamond itself points to such suppliers as the Selby Cheese Factory — several times winner of the British cheese. The company had moved from exporting to importing.

Meantime, up-to-date techniques in marketing, packaging, maintenance of standards kept Black Diamond a leader in the Canadian cheese business.

It continued to widen its range of products — marketing the traditional cheddar along with wine-cured, beer-aged, hickory-smoked cheese among varieties under its label.

Marketing process cheese it was the first to introduce a consumer table jar for its gourmet Cheez Pleez.

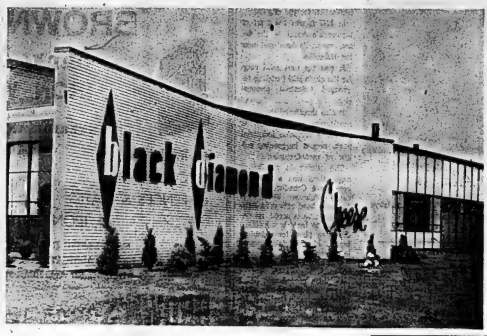
In 1965 Black Diamond International sold its European business to a London corporation. Tregrouse and Nathan strengthen world organization of Black Diamond.



The final change came in 1968 when the company joined the Brooke Bond group, big international producer of food products — Red Rose and Blue Ribbon teas and coffees. Our meat extracts are among its popularly-known labels.

Some time soon, Brooke Bond and Black Diamond also will be neighbors. The cheese company headquarters is just

Local suppliers have had the highest cheese grade averages in Central Ontario.

Premiere Cheese House

Black Diamond Cheese has capitalized on the Quinte area's ability to produce cheese to develop a product known and marketed around the world.

Electric Motors Started It All

When Belleville was picked as the home of Superior Electric in 1967 the community realized it was on the march. In two years the growth pattern has proven that the industrialists who have located here made the right decision.

Tip Off in 1967

Superior Started the Boom Which Put City on the Map

Breakthrough may be nothing new for an organization whose business is precision engineering

But for Belleville, the decision of American Superior Electric Co Ltd. to locate in the Quinte city was the biggest break in years

In retrospect, the move marked a new era of industrialization for the city

In 1967 it was the start of tomorrow's boom — the tomorrow that's here and now for Belleville.

It was the first solid coup for the city's still fledgling regrouped industrial commission

It also shouldered the initial momentum to settlement of the city's northeast industrial park, now a burgeoning colony of manufacturing

The climax to months of negotiations was a warming note for a Canadian winter's day In February 1967 Superior, with head offices in Bristol, Conn. announced its intentions to build a subsidiary Canadian plant for manufacture of high precision motors in Belleville

Cost of the plant was $500,000

By June ground was being broken on a 96-acre site south of the Macdonald Cartier Freeway. By late 1968 34,000 square feet of plant area had been constructed and was ready for business.

That was two years ago. Now, Superior is an integral part of the city's industrial community.

Its product sells across Canada, is under export to Commonwealth and Europe an countries.

And application of that product is as varied as its shipment rendezvous.

Some Slo-Syns are small enough to be carried in a human palm — weighing one pound and measuring two inches long, two inches in diameter.

As for business?

"We're doing very well," says Al Summerville, general manager who organized Superior's Canadian subsidiary. business has increased to warrant it."

Custom Work Major Output Of SACO Casting Foundry

Iron founding is more than 250 years old in America but the basics of molding have changed little over the years.

New fast setting molding compounds have been developed, but molds are still a one-shot operation with new ones required for each casting.

That's the story down at the SACO Foundry on St. Paul Street where approximately 40 persons are employed in turning out castings of every description.

Approximately one-third of the castings are for the parent firm Stephens-Adamson, with the custom work taking the balance of production.

Currently the big custom production job is turning out fork-lift trucks. The contract is for 350 counterweights of 3,000 pounds each which are produced at the rate of three per day.

The largest casting poured in recent years was a 7,000 pound unit for use in rubber extrusion in a western Ontario plant.

Although owned by Stephens-Adamson only for the past 11 years, the history of the foundry goes back for many years.

The present building was constructed in 1956 with foundry operations at Stephens-Adamson being transferred to the new building on a contract basis.

In 1958 Stephens-Adamson purchased the foundry operation, added an addition and operated the shop as a separate division.

Wilson Plans Golf Club Plant Here

Belleville's name soon will be in the hands of sportsmen across Canada.

The city's name will be the origin point accompanying one of the sporting world's best-known trademarks — Wilson Sporting Goods.

Capital investment in the new project — Wilson's first manufacturing move in Canada — has been estimated by the city's industrial commission at $1,800,000.

When it goes into production — projected 12 months hence — Belleville will join an industrial complex counting 49 factories and sales divisions around the world.

But the manufacturer has been "keenly interested" in the Canadian market for years, says George Fisher, Wilson vice-president.

"Personal visits to Canada were made independently by several of our management personnel," he adds. "The recommendations of all these people were that we should locate in Ontario.

"Belleville was selected because of its geographic location."

Initial operations will primarily involve manufacture of golf clubs.

"We have future growth plans — but prefer not to elaborate at this time," says Mr. Fisher.

Plans call for a work force of about 65 after 12 months operation — headed by seven or eight skilled craftsmen brought in by Wilson on temporary assignment.

Company policy is to develop local personnel in countries where Wilson locates.

The Belleville plant is the latest in a growth pattern that has boosted Wilson to a dominant position in its own manufacturing field.

The range of its operations — with headquarters in Chicago — is a long shot from its origins in a little red school house in 1914. Before the decade was out the company had realized a million-dollar volume in sporting goods.

Today, Wilson is a major producer of team equipment for baseball, basketball, football, soccer and hockey. Golf, tennis and badminton make up the market for individual equipment.

Outside the U.S., however, the company is probably best known for the golf clubs and golf balls it makes at its plant in Scotland — products that won the Queen's Award to Industry.

The Belleville plant will be housed in a 52,800-square-foot area.

Canada's future growth potential has stimulated Wilson to construct what Mr. Fisher describes as a "factory with the latest and most efficient machinery to grow with the country."

Announcement of its intention to locate in the Quinte city confirmed Belleville's sixth new industrial acquisition of 1969.

It pushed new capital investment in the city's industrial sector to $8,800,000.

Bata Shoe Among Region's Major Manpower Employers

But a new business community is another thing again.

For the Quinte district it was a totally new concept in 1939 when 25-year-old Tom Bata and a small group of associates surveyed land on the Trent River, 12 miles west of Belleville.

Today, the community of Batawa is a showcase of its kind — a centre of livelihood and living stamped with one of the world's best - known trade marks, Bata Shoe.

Core of the industrial village of Batawa is the big manufacturing complex with a work team of nearly 1,200, which this year is marking the 30th anniversary of its foundation.

That start transformed the Quinte landscape.

The 1939 survey undertaken by Thomas J. Bata, grandson and namesake of the man who founded the now global company in 1894, involved 1,500 acres of historic countryside.

The Iroquois forayed along the Trent River for centuries before Champlain arrived on his historic wilderness trek. Today, it's still part of the Iroquois Trail — now marked on the maps by Highway 33 and the Trent Canal.

But the transformation also has been economically significant.

Today, Bata is among major employers of manpower in the region, its pay envelopes not confine' to the surrounding community.

Workers commute daily to Batawa from Belleville, Colborne, Brighton, Trenton, the hamlets of Hastings, Northumberland and Prince Edward counties.

It is part of a world organization that counts operations in 84 countries, including 4,200 company-owned stores and thousands of independent retailers.

WHAT ARE THE ADVANTAGES OF GOING TO A PRIVATE BUSINESS COLLEGE
EVERY PERSON needs to have at least a basic commercial course before going on to any other profession, yet if this is taken in the Secondary School the educational background has to be diluted to make time for it. In one year or less, you can have the advantages available to you at Ontario Business Colleges which are:
1. Encouragement to work at your own speed. You do not wait for the slow learner or speed up for the one who learns faster than you.
2. You may choose a partial course.
3. You get individual attention.
4. You can begin now, at the first of any month.
5. You are ready for a position when YOU have finished your course, and not looking for work at a time when the market is flooded with unemployed.
6. You can write each examination in the month the work on that subject is completed, and then you may fill that time with other subjects.
7. You can re-write any examinations the next month, you do not have to lose a year.
8. You can earn all it costs in your first two or three months of working.
9. You do not need previous commercial training.
10. Adult training a specialty.
11. Where else can you obtain a complete training for earning your living for the rest of your life at such a low cost? Compare, if you wish and then enroll at O.B.C.

Tomorrow Here Now for Food-Conscious Brooke Bond

Tomorrow is some time soon for Brooke Bond Canada Ltd.

Future production patterns of the food industry giant will absorb output from a new source.

Belleville is the contributing centre.

Part of the city's revitalized industrial tomorrow is being shaped by Brooke Bond, now awaiting completion of a processing plant in the city's northeast industrial park.

It will manufacture spice, dry food and meat extract (Oxo is a Brooke Bond subsidiary.)

"We're aiming for the plant to be finished by the end of the year," F. L. Patterson, Canadian president of the international chain stated. "Then we expect to be in production early in 1970."

Statistically, Brooke Bond made an impressive contribution to Belleville's 1969 industrial boom with a plant:

Estimated to cost $1,300,000

Housed in 120,000 square feet of plant sited on 12.2 acres

Initially employing 100.

But there was a bonus to the obvious economic benefits.

The decision to locate in Belleville was thus also a prestige coup for the Quinte city.

That decision first became known in April this year. But it was only the public conclusion to months-long negotiating with local authorities.

The choice also was a boost for Belleville, confirming the city as a prime manufacturing - distribution centre.

Granted, Belleville was not unknown to Brooke Bond. One of the city's oldest — and best known — industries already was linked to the board room.

Black Diamond Cheese, probably the city's best - known manufactured product on home and international markets, was purchased last year by Brooks Bond.

But company president Patterson also has been positive about the Quinte city's potential.

"Brooke Bond would not have chosen this community unless we thought it had a

Belleville Headquarters For Newly Revamped Assessment Region

The provincial take-over of the municipal assessment function, now done on a city and county basis in the Quinte area is now little more than three months away.

As of Jan. 1, 1970, all local assessment offices across Ontario will be closed and the province will commence a five-year program to assess all properties at current market value.

The provincial assessment take-over is part of a municipal reform program announced last year by Municipal Affairs Minister Hon. Darcy McKeough which ultimately will see the establishment of regional governments across the province.

Assesment at full value for all properties would eliminate the time consuming and costly "spot" assessments now necessary before the province can determine the proper school grants that are to apply in each municipality.

Currently local assessments in some rural municipalities vary all the way from 20 per cent value to 100 per cent.

The province has been urging full value assesment for many years but lack of action by municipalities in carrying out the program prompted the province to take over the assessment function.

However, some municipalities have completed reassessing at 100 per cent value.

Belleville properties are currently assessed at 64 per cent value and in Hastings county the re-assessing program is under way by county assessors. Over in Prince Edward county, Amelisburg and one or two other townships are already assessed at 100 per cent.

In the Quinte area assessment officials agree that province-wide assessment at current value is badly needed although they are not fully convinced that the province can accomplish this any faster than could local assessors.

Belleville will be headquarters for what is to be known as No. 5 area which in turn is composed of four regions.

These regions are: 1. Frontenac and Lennox and Addington: 2. Hastings and Prince Edward: 3. Northumberland and Durham, and 4. Haliburton, Victoria and Peterborough.

The area office at Belleville will have a staff of from 12 to 14 persons while the regional office to be set up at Trenton will have a staff of up to 40.

The Day the Mail First Went Through

By DORIS WADDELL
Hastings County Historical Society

For the citizens of Belleville in 1913, May 23 was not only The Queen' Birthday, it was also the day on which mail delivery by letter carrier was first made to the homes and business places of the town.

About 11 o'clock on that bright sunny morning a crowd of curious gathered to hear the speeches and watch the ceremonies marking this step forward in the life of their community.

Among the onlookers are Post Master Alfred T. Gillen, Assistant Post Master J. V. C. Truaisch, Judge J. F. Wills who was mayor of Belleville, J. W. Johnson, MPP, Col. W. N. Panton, former Post Master John Taylor, W. B. Riggs, A. C. McFee and bank managers John Elliott and C. M. Stork. The letter carriers, waiting to set out on their appointed rounds, were George Irvine, Clare Jenkins, Wilson Bird, Fred Bowen, Charles Lloyd, P. O. Pitney, Harry Baker, Robert Andrews and Harry Symons.

The story was told that one of these novice posties got lost that day on his unfacilliar route, and when he had still not returned long after sundown, "Doc" Truaisch claimed to have found this conscientious new public servant still searching for house numbers, by light of a lantern, in the then sparsely built-up Yeomans Street area of West Belleville.

If you wonder why mail delivery was being made on May 24, a holiday . . . it was com-

Foley Supply and Machine Important Part of City's History

It's history that's behind Foley Supply and Machine Company at 25 Wallbridge Crescent.

The steel fabricators, machinists and welders that form most of the 25-employee work force at the company are part of something more than a company.

Rather, they are working for a firm that is now over 100 years old, having been created in 1855.

In 1855 Robert and R. S. Patterson established a foundry in a building which had been erected in 1834. They became pioneers in the manufacture of agricultural implements in Southern Ontario.

The Patterson Iron Works employed from 40 to 50 persons and the company was then the largest manufacturer of reapers and mowers in Canada.

In 1864, the firm changed hands and for many years it was known as the Walker Foundry, although the company was officially the Belleville Agricultural Works and Iron Foundry, J. M. Walker and Co., proprietors.

At this time the company was situated at Coleman's Dam, West Front Street, located on the banks of the Moira River.

Water power was used right up until the time the company was taken over by Frank B. Foley. Conversion to electric power was achieved about 1918.

The foundry and shops turned out iron works and machinery of every description — threshing machines, reapers, mowers, straw cutters, saws, grain-crushers, water wheels and even stoves.

Their rock and quartz crusher was capable of crushing 40 tons of rock per day. Their steel ploughs, especially the for side hill ploughing, became world famous.

Walker ploughs were the latest and most improved designs and won first prize medals at exhibitions in Paris, Vienna and Moscow.

In 1917, the company, then owned by J. C. McCarthy, was sold to Frank B. Foley and R. J. Graham. The facilities were converted for the manufacture of evaporating and dehydrating machinery.

The method of evaporating and dehydrating had been invented by Mr. Foley and was used extensively in the many food processing plants owned by Mr. Graham.

Although the name of Walker Foundry remained on the front of the building — it was the name known by generations of people doing business with the firm — the company became officially known as Fruit Machinery Co. Ltd.

Following the First World War, the market for evaporated and dehydrated fruits and vegetables was replaced by cold packed products, and many plants folded.

The result for Mr. Foley's company was change in optobbing machine work, serving a wide area in the district.

Later Mr. Foley became the sole proprietor of the firm. During World War Two the company was almost exclusively on sub-contract war work and just prior to Mr. Foley's death in 1947, the company name was changed to Foley Foundry and Machine Co. Ltd.

In 1960, the firm suffered a disastrous fire, caused by burglars attempting to break into the company vault with a cutting torch, and the old building which had served from 1834 to 1960 had to be demolished.

The property which had been located in the heart of the downtown area was sold and a new plant, near the outskirts was completed and occupied in 1961.

The firm now occupies a total of 15,000 square feet and a new addition of 10,000 square feet is at present under construction.

Foley Supply and Machine Company has seen a great quantity of Belleville history and it will see a quantity more.

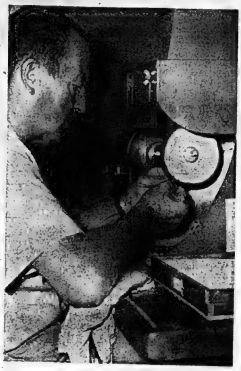
First on the horizon was Russwin — founded in Connecticut in 1839. Then — a decade later — came Corbin. Both firms merged in 1901.



Meanwhile in Belleville there was a thriving native lock industry — Springer Lock Company, and the Belleville and Peterborough Lock Company.

In 1931 Corbin crossed over from Connecticut and took Canadian business citizenship by acquiring Springer. It operated from the same premises.

In 1955 the Russwin division of Corbin acquired Belleville and Peterborough Lock Company. The way was then unbolted for reorganization. International Hardware was formed with Corbin and Russwin as separate sales divisions.

As markets grew plant space was doubled.

"Now," says a company spokesman, "both divisions are working at capacity level . . ."

Belleville Theatre Guild's Future Should Be Smashing Success

In 1969 and 1970 it will see the first revolving apron stage in Eastern Ontario. It has its own play house and — for the second year running — its own resident artistic director.

Belleville is the smallest city in Canada to have its own playhouse and a full-time resident director.

Resident director Roy Higgins said, "the whole concept of the theatre is a director's dream because of the flexibility of the theatre."

And a large portion of the flexibility is the revolving apron stage which will be 20 feet in diameter and will offer an opportunity for a greater variety of sets.

Local Belleville industries understand the importance and uniqueness of such a stage, for they are contributing — free — parts of the stage construction, assisting the Guild.

The growth and importance of the Guild here has Mr. Higgins thinking ahead.

"I'd like to see a gradual transferral of much of the program to a full professional company," he said. "I'd also like to see much more in the way of teaching facilities for young people and adults."

Mr. Higgins also foresees a community arts centre with an experimental theatre and teaching facilities.

But, the Guild has plenty to be proud of since it was conceived in 1951 with a membership of 165 persons.

Until 1958 the guild averaged two full productions each year, in addition to workshop one-act plays.

The turning point came with the hiring of Richard Howard as resident director. The result was six full productions including the Diary of Anne Frank, Our Town, and Mary Mary.

Mr. Howard, who began acting when he was nine years old, has won 55 Dominion Drama Festival awards with plays that he has directed.

He was also prominent at initiating workshops and he brought assistance in that field to Belleville with him as well.

The guild's performance of impromptu by Tad Mosel drew praise when Belleville hosted the three-day Eastern Ontario Drama League one-act festival.

The founder of "youtheatre" in Canada, Mr. Higgins has initiated that aspect of the arts in Belleville, as well.

In the past few years Mr. Higgins has directed 24 shows mostly with young people and all without a single flop. A Torontonian by birth, he spent eight years of his experience in the theatre and movie industry in California.

His interest in young people has even exceeded theatre. Mr. Higgins initiated for a time a drop-in centre at the Pinnacle Playhouse specifically for young people.

But he has also continued the work of Richard Howard and has also slated six full productions for this year's Guild season.

The Guild will perform Blithe Spirit, Wait Until Dark, Dark of the Moon, Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf and two other productions yet to be announced.

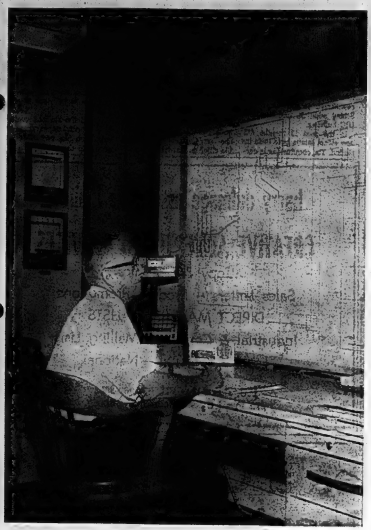
It dates back to the year 1835 when the pharmacy was founded by the pioneer physician Dr. R. Holden. At that time, it was located at the corner of Front Street and Victoria Avenue, where Ashley Furs now stands.

In 1871, the store was purchased by Albert L. Geen and now, nearly a century later, it is still operated by his descendents. Mr. Albert Geen, pharmacist, was also widely known as Reverend Geen, since he was an ordained minister of the Anglican diocese of Ontario.

Percival W. Geen purchased the business from his father in 1936. Mr. Geen's sincere feeling for the business has done much to install goodwill in customers and staff alike. Active and outstanding in business and community affairs, Mr. Geen at the age of 83 sparks enthusiasm in the store's operation and is still registered with the Ontario College of Pharmacy.

Alwyn S. F. Geen, son of Percival, received his Pharmaceutical Diploma before the outbreak of World War II and after serving overseas with the Airforce, returned to Belleville. In 1945, the business was incorporated as a company.



A loyal and conscientious staff has been the key to success for Geen's Pharmacy. Mr. Lyle A. Twiddy, pharmacist, has been with the firm for over 28 years. Mrs. Anna Foley, Head Cosmetician has been devoted for over 29 years. Mr. Walter Symons, Head of the Stock Department, has contributed 17 years of service and we have always graduate pharmacists on duty to fill your prescription promptly and accurately. Expansion Mirrors Steady Growth

Its citizenry doesn't have to pretend the situation is rosy.

But even if Bellevillans wanted to view their city through rose-colored glasses, the demand doubtless could be readily met on their own doorstep.

She supplier likely would be AOCO Ltd. — a company which also has a stake in the current industrial boomlet boosting Belleville into the 1970s.

It also now is one of the major investors in the city's expansion — to the tune of $800,000.

That's the cost of a recently-completed addition to the west Belleville plant where AOCO manufactures opthalmic lenses for domestic and world markets.

It was the latest phase in an operation marked by steady growth through nearly a half-century of production in the Quinte city.

Operations first began in Belleville in 1922 — as a branch plant of a Canadian company, Consolidated Optical.

The following year the name familiar to two generations of Bellevillians came into being.

American Optical bought out Consolidated in 1923 — and the fledgling Belleville factory was included in the purchase package.

Company growth has been a cumulative process in 47 years. Today, the plant hums with the activity of a work force some 270 strong.

And there are promising prospects for a continuance of the trend.

"Our international division is filling more and more orders through the Canadian market," noted Canadian President Henry Fitzgerald recently.

Most recent affect of that stimulation was marked by the big new addition to the

In that year Bellevillans W. H. Finkle and S. J. Hibbard launched their enterprise on the third floor of a Front Street building.

Their work force counted six people, says Mr. Kuntze.

Mr. Hibbard died in 1965. His partner today is president of Bell.

Shortly after 1923, they moved — buying their present location from the McLaughlin Motor Carriage Company, the Canadian automobile manufacturer which became a core unit in the organization of today's General Motors.

(The warehousing section of Bell still shows a circular outline on the floor where once McLaughlin autos were mounted on a turntable for parts installations and maintenance, says Mr. Kuntze).

The company hasn't moved since — but hasn't stood still.

Challenges are inbuilt in the highly - competitive garment industry. In recent years the winds of change have also blown chillier — with competition from areas on the other side of the globe.

Hong Kong and Japan were still exotic place names when Bell Shirt was first organized. Today, they are powerful business rivals for the garment industry.

Mr. Kuntze admits this, even the likelihood of further competitions from countries not yet making an impact — India some day perhaps, maybe Indonesia.

So far the threats to business have been turned back by diversification, adaptability. By following such precepts no business — including the shirt industry — can be collared, he indicates.

"No company can stand still," says Bell's vice-president. "No, I'm not pessimistic about the future. If I were I wouldn't have bought into the industry."

Estimating Future Needs

When Working for City's PUC, It Helps to Be Clairvoyant

Provision of water and electrical services to meet the demands of a growing city requires something of a clairvoyant ability on the part of public utility commission members.

In other words they have to see far enough ahead to be able to provide the services when and where they are required.

The Belleville Public Utilities Commission is currently in that sort of a bind in that it is about to double the capacity of its water filtration plant and is providing electrical services for new homes and industries.

Plans are now being completed for the calling of tenders for a new water filtration plant addition which will increase capacity by eight million gallons per day. A construction start on the $1½ million dollar plant is expected some time late this fall.

Also during the past two years the commission has installed close to 20,000 feet of new water service mains ranging from four inches all the way to 24 inches.

The big installation program was the running of a large diameter main up Sidney Street and across the north end of the city just south of College Street to the Hillcrest area and then on to the city's northeast industrial park.

The city has just under 10,000 domestic, commercial and industrial services and a total of 740 fire hydrants.

Also planned for the city's northeast end — but depending on the development in that area — are two ground level water storage tanks with a 2½ million gallon capacity.

"They are too costly to maintain," he says, recalling bills of close to $18,000 received for this year's repainting of the East Hill water tank.

On the other hand concrete ground level tanks require little maintenance.

The history of city water works department goes back to 1886 when a private firm installed the first watermains.

Lighting by electricity dates back to 1884 when a Montreal firm staged a demonstration of street and store lighting run by a steam operated generator.

The city public utilities commission was formed in 1920 to take over the electric service. Seven years later the city turned the water service over to the commission.

Currently the commission is installing electric and water service to the new Brooke Bond plant in the city's northeast industrial area and the Chromalloy plant on Dundas, and within the past two years has provided service to several other industrial plants in the same general area.

If the industry requires 4,400 volt capacity the commission has to see this type of power is provided. Such power has been provided recently to Stephens-Adamson, Mead Johnson and the new Belleville hospital.

Other recent service extensions have been to the new Georges Vanier School on Tracey Street, to the Hillcrest School addition, and the new UIC building.

In the past 18 months 412 new street lamps have been installed. The commission is currently waiting for the city's urban renewal report before commencing the replacement of lights on Front Street.

To service the rapidly expanding residential area in the city's west end, the commission within the last year has built two new substations — one on Cascade Blvd. and the other on Harder Drive.

But here the commission has gone to the "new look" in substation construction.

No longer are substations in residential areas the ugly "behind the fence" type of structure.

Instead the stations conform to residential appearances and look much like any other bungalow in the area.

30,000 Children-90 Schools

Health Unit Serves 110,000

Hastings and Prince Edward Counties Health Unit was first organized in September 1966. It serves two counties with a total combined population of 110,000.

Maintaining a high level of public health services, with particular attention paid to the controlling of infectious diseases and sanitation, the unit is actively responsible for 90 schools, involving more than 30,000 children.

The main office, located in Belleville, employs 26 people, with sub offices in Trenton, Picton and Bancroft, and an additional 18 employees.

Medical Officer of Health, Dr. C. R. Lenk explained that the unit, together with other agencies, both official and voluntary, is concerned with the prevention of mental and physical disease — especia l l y chronic conditions affecting various age groups.

"Much of our work is preventive," he added, "although we have a great deal of clerical work to keep up with." The unit keeps records pertaining to the health of the population and collection of various statistical data.

The health unit is operated under the authority of t h e board of health, consisting of 10 members appointed by the councils of participating municipalities.

Looking toward the future, Dr. Lenk expressed the hope the unit will soon have a new building to call home. "I'm also counting on the establishment of a county dental program — but it is most difficult to obtain personnel. We are working on it, however.

"Apart from developing the unit more along present lines, we must get more personnel, particularly nurses who can be placed in schools," said Dr. Lenk.

Dr. Lenk emphasized the need for additional training for nurses concerning young people's problems.

"At present, we co-operate with schools and teachers. We would like to employ a psychologist on our staff — that would be money well spent indeed," he added.

He explained his desire to see enlarged visiting services for the elderly, and follow-up visits for medial patients.

Plane's Worker Prepares Rough Box

Burial Vault Firm Is the Largest East of Toronto

Back in 1951 no one would have guessed that Mel Plane's one-man operation in the burial vault business could grow to be one of the biggest east of Toronto.

Mr. Plane managed his business from an old shed in Madoc, manufacturing and delivering products himself with his half-ton trailer truck.

Finding that the bulk of his trade consisted of either going to or through Belleville, he then bought the present property on Highway 14, and built the plant that year.

The company expanded with the addition of a vehicle servicing shop in 1959. In 1960, Mr. Plane bought property in Kingston where he built a home for the resident manager and started business there in that year.

Two distribution companies were set up in Peterborough and Lakefield. The company found problems acquiring sand and stone of quality, so consequently bought out Prescott Burial Company Assets in 1963.

Some years ago, the company also bought property and set up distribution yard at Prescott.

"In April, 1968, Mr. Plane sold the business to Ross Parks and William Tenneyson.

"At the same time we bought the Bethel and Sons Vault Co. in the Ottawa area," explained Mr. Parks, who is company vice-president.

Plane's Concrete employs 30 men here in Belleville, four in Kingston and three in Prescott.

"We have 14 trucks and two tractor trailers on the road now. We are a young company, and we are growing," he added.

In addition to burial vaults, the company deals in pre-cast concrete steps, curbs, patio sections, well tile as well as smaller pre-cast items.

How does the future look for the Plane Concrete Company?

"We are young, and we are growing, and we think Belleville is growing too.

"We have expanded the plant four times its original size and we are planning a sizeable expansion to the present plant in the near future," added Mr. Parks.

"This area is on the move, and we are on the move with it," he asserted.

plant premises in west Belleville.

Early this year construction began on 26,000 feet of warehousing manufacturing area. At the time, a company announcement assigned part of the space for production of two new lens lines.

But the international producer manufactures more than just ophalmic lenses. And continued diversification wrought a big change up front early this year.

In March American Optical announced a name-change to AOCO Limited.

"We don't want to appear primarily as an optical company," noted Mr. Fitzgerald at the time.

Through the years the organization had expanded into such products as microscopes educational equipment, safety gloves, safety helmets.

Belleville General Hospital uses an intensive care unit manufactured by AOCO.

The Quinte city plant continues to focus on manufacturing opthalmic lenses — despatching its products to almost every continent.

And, as part of the AOCO organization, it also was linked to the possible shape of things to come in a dramatic, if only symbolic, expansion of market areas.

When the Apollo astronauts planted man's first footprints on the moon July 19, they were wearing heat-tempered goggles identical to Skymaster sunglasses — an AOCO products made in Belleville.

promising future and that we would prosper here together," he told Montreal businessmen visiting the new plant site in July.

"We focussed on Belleville for reasons which other firms planning to expand cannot help but notice as well."

Core reasons he cited:

The city is close enough to major metropolitan markets in Ontario and Quebec. Yet, it still has growing room: there's a good labor relations record and a progressive industrial promotion spirit in local government.

"I don't think it would be too daring at this time to predict that this area will some day become the nucleus of an important food-processing industry," Mr. Patterson prediticted.

"With all these plus factors, there's no reason whatsoever that (the Belleville area) won't soon rival the Niagara-Hamilton-Toronto conglomeration as this country's leading industrial complex. There's still lots of breathing space left around here."

The plant now nearing completion has been constructed under a total-concept plan. This involves the contractor in all building aspects — design, contracting, plant layout and engineering, interior finishing and landscaping.

The city hall permit issued for Brooke Bond pushed the total for all such building permits during the first six months of the year to $4,850,500 — almost double the 1968 total.

Here's how it works! Every giant-screen color picture tube is covered with tiny red, green, and blue dots that make up the color TV picture. Previously, they have been placed close together on a gray background. But now Zenith, in the patented Chromacolor picture tube, has made the dots smaller and surrounded them with jet-black. This Zenith patented black-surround screen — together with precision electron beam tracking and increased light-transmission tube face — brings you a brighter color picture, greater definition and sharper detail than ever previously achieved in giant-screen color TV.

Belleville Early Train Centre

The day the first train passed through Belleville — Oct. 27, 1856 — was a gala occasion for the citizens.

Crowds of people lined the tracks to see the 10 passenger cars and two wood burning engines pass through the city on the initial Montreal — Toronto run.

When the train pulled into Belleville five passengers were officially greeted by Mayor John O'Hare and members of his council. The present Belleville Depot was used as a station by the railroad.

Construction of the railroad started several years earlier when the railroad purchased "right - of - ways" for the 855 miles of track. Each section was then given to local contractors who cut the timber and prepared the roadbed.

Following the preparation of the roadbed, section gangs, composed of Irish work men and local laborers, laid rail. Each section was laid separately and locomotives were brought in by road to test each section of track when it was completed.

The first scheduled runs of the Grand Trunk Railway were estimated to take about 15 hours to cover the distance from Montreal to Toronto. It is

The first class fare on the Grand Trunk was $10. Second class passengers paid $8 for the Montreal to Toronto ticket.

In later years the Belleville stop became one of the most profitable for the Grand Trunk. In 1867 the first locomotive shop was built here and later a second shop was added to accommodate the company's 24 engines. These shops employed 120 people.

In later years private interests also built many small lines from Belleville, Trenton, Scarboro and other points. Through the years many of these lines amalgamated and became known as the Midland Railway.

Union Carbide One of Established Firms

Union Carbide Steady Employer

But it is an important item at one city manufacturing plant with variety of uses in the modern day world.

At Union Carbide Hexamethylene - Tetramine is used in the manufacture of resins playing an important part in components for the family auto and in television printed circuits.

In any event, production of various types of resins — both liquid and solid — provide steady employment for more than 200 workers at the East Belleville plant.

Originally known as the Bakelite Company the east-end plant came to Belleville in 1938. Bakelite was a subsidiary of the parent firm Union Carbide but a few years ago dropped the original name.

Since its organization 20 years ago the work force at Union Carbide has remained relatively stable at just over 200 workers, including office staff.

A $250,000 plant addition was constructed two years ago to provide for the installation of a new phenolic resin flaker, which was a "first" in Canada.

The flaker installation made it possible for Union Carbide to provide solid phenolic resins from a "Made-in Canada" source.

Phenolic resins were a development of the World War II era and led to a complete ly new method of manufacturing metal castings.

The new development, known as "shell molding" involves the use of relatively thin molds and cores resulting in more accurate castings requiring less machining.

No further major expansion is foreseen for the immediate future and the work force is expected to remain at the just over 200 level.

The plant is shortly to have a new plant manager. He is George Tickell who is being transferred to Belleville from the company plant at Cowansville, Quebec.

Mr. Tickell is expected to take up his new duties late this month or early in October.

Where Education Leads the Way

'We have engaged in a pursuit of quality . . . we are far ahead of other boards in the province.'

Hastings County School Board

County System in Ontario

County Set Up Provides Equality of Educational Opportunity

By ERIC RUNACRES
Director of Education

Education is the concern of every citizen in Hastings County.

The citizens are joined with the board of education in a concerted effort to provide the best education possible within the capacity o fthis country.

The formation of the county boards of education was a natural step to the move towards larger units of juridiction. This system is designed to provide equality of education opportunity throughout the province. It will attempt to meet the needs of individual students and provide the opportunity for intelligent planning to meet these needs. Through effective and efficient management, an equitable distribution of costs will be matched by the maximising of the dollars involved.

It remains to be seen how effective the new county board will be in the achievement of these objectives. Certainly the board of ducation in its short history, has made an honest and productive beginning and will continue to pursue its goals with vigor.

Fortunately, the board and its administration have established a number of basic commitments which guide their operations. They recognize that the creation of the new county system has provided a unique opportunity for many things, but above all, for the principals and their staffs to be central to the decision-making processes which will meet the local needs of pupils.

The professional staff will be called upon to seize the initiative and provide the direction which learning will take during the years to come. The board and its administration will provide the resources and services to assist the principal, the staff and the local community to achieve this goal.

The board believes it must work hard to create a climate conducive to the position stated above. It will continue to hold to the point of view that the board believes in people.

It believes teachers are hard-working, intelligent, capable professionals responsive to the challenges that are evident in education today.

It believes strong and persuasive leadership must be founded on the cornerstones of trust, and frankness in dealing with those engaged in this enterprise; and the belief in the importance of serving the individual child.

The board is committed to the concept of "involvement." It recognizes that our educational system will grow properly only if all those involved in the process are committed to the process through involvement they will get commitment. Thus the principals of our schools are encouraged to involve the children, the parents and members of the community in the educational enterprise.

The board is encouraging the community use of schools and has shown the way through the establishment of local "task forces."

During the coming months, it is hoped that local school communities will find many ways to make this crucial idea a reality.

In this pursuit of quality learning, the board and its administration have certain guiding principles which determine their actions. These guiding principles will continue to be expressed in the area of education and not legislation. Principals, staffs and local community personnel will be encouraged to consider these principles and implement them, if they so desire and at a pace and in a manner most suitable for the local area.

What are some of these guiding principles?

It will be essential that the teachers co-operate within the schools and between the schools to plan an integrated approach to the curriculum. Hand-in-hand with co-operative team planning will be a move towards an interdisciplinary approach to the curriculum. This move will tend to "blow the walls out" between subjects and hopefully provide a more relevant curriculum.

The pupils must be involved in planning courses of study backed up by the professional educator. A great many new options will be introduced to the curriculum so that motivation will be enhanced.

The board would promote a continuous progress system where the traditional grade concept is modified and artificial divisions of program administration are removed.

New courses of study provide for just this approach, where youngsters are not compartmentalized and restricted to one avenue of learning.

It should be possible for pupils on individual timetables to partake of a variety of learning media.

The task confronting the teacher today is overwhelming and the demands placed upon him are great. Despite this, teachers in Hastings County have responded to the challenge. They are engaged in dialogue within their schools and their departments preparing new courses and introducing new methods. These are being translated into action and there is a dynamic attitude evident within our schools.

The educational process today is indeed exciting. The board and the teachers have accepted the challenges of change. They are proceeding enthusiastically and carefully to provide an educational system of which we can all be proud. The future looks good and the rewards great.

Mr. Runacres and Seminar Visitors

Industrial Boom Ignites Housing Explosion

But the dominant feature of change is not marked by factory fronts.

The new look on the face of one of Ontario's oldest communities is symbolized on the home front.

Mushrooming urbanization is no growth phenomenon in the Quinte city. In recent years it has been filling in the vacancies in the community's land area, spilling over municipal boundaries into neighboring rural areas.

But the steady growth has suddenly been activated toward wider horizons, with the current industrial-commercial boom fueling the speedup.

Five years ago the total value of residential construction starts reported at city hall was $2,588,970.

In 1968 the annual tally had grown to $3,455,500.

This year, to the end of August, value of permits issued by municipal building inspector Grant Stickle was $2,303 000.

And Mr. Stickle expects the final 1969 figure to surpass last year's total.

Sudden cresting of the new business wave has encouraged a plethora of predictions about potential population.

But there's no need to predict the immediate result of any increase:- More and more housing.

The results already are here.

"The (housing) demand in Belleville in the last few years has certainly doubled. Apartment wise it has probably quadrupled," says Maurice Rollins, the Bellevillian who is probably the biggest housing contractor between Ottawa and Toronto.

Mr. Rollins believes up to 2,000 new living units may go up in Belleville and its environs "in the next couple of years."

The demand spreads through all price ranges — while the demand for apartments is phenomenal.

"Price doesn't seem to be any drawback," notes Mr. Rollins — although the industry also is caught in the price spiral.

The Rollins Company already has subdivisions opening up near Foxboro, and the Moira River north of the city.

(Yet, claims the contractor, while wages have increased in recent years by an average 67 per cent, the actual cost of a house has gone up by 25 per cent. Land prices, more emphatic regulations governing installation of services plus sales taxes have contributed much to rising costs of home ownership, he says.)

He believes Belleville's current growth should remain consistent for the next "two or three years. . ."

Don Keller, immediate past president of the Quinte Home Builders Association, agrees about the demand.

"While it has always been fairly constant in other years,

Coils Mass Produced At Amplifone

Amplifone Swings to Color

With television the big swing is to color.

That is the story from Amplifone Canada Ltd. were 60 per cent of the production at its three local plants is transformers for color television.

"Color is the big end of our production now," states plant production manager Eugene Mundorff.

Production of transformers for home entertainment equipment — mainly television — is the sole operation for Amplifone which established its Belleville plant 14 years ago. The company's head office is at Chicago, Illinois. The company president T. K. Harding is a frequent visitor to Belleville.

Amplifone commenced operations in Belleville in rented quarters at the Morch property on the city's waterfront, where production facilities were set up by Mr. Mundorff.

Four years later the firm outgrew its waterfront plant area and a new building with 7,500 square feet of floor area was built on Dundek Street.

The firm moved into its new quarters 10 years ago but twice in the past decade production requirements have demanded more floor space.

First 3,200 was rented across the street in the Bruce May building and then with the swing to color television, another 15,000 square feet was rented at the Houston building on St. Paul Street.

The work force at Amplifone ranges about 170, of which 60 work at the St. Paul Street assembly plant. The staff has remained about stable for the past one and a half years.

Approximately 75 per cent of the company's transformer production is sold to the Canadian television manufacturing industry.

School System Has $14,900,000 Budget

One of Hastings county's biggest enterprises, — with a yearly budget of $14,900,000 — is its public school system.

Its board of directors is an elected body — 16 trustees representing eight wards in the county and the separate school supporters' children attending public schools. They serve a two-year term.

Its plant includes 66 buildings — 57 elementary schools, eight secondary schools and one school for retarded children.

The schools are staffed by 1,008 teachers and will educate more than 23,818 children this year.

Heading the administration is director of education Eric Runacres, who is assisted by three superintendents — one each for staff curriculum and academic services — and a business manager.

For administrative purposes, the county has been divided into four areas — north, central, southeast and southwest. An area superintendent heads each area, and is responsible for both elementary and secondary schools.

County-wide boards of education were set up last Jan. 1 by Ontario's minister of education to promote greater local autonomy in education and ensure equality of educational opportunity across the province.

In Hastings County, 13 small boards merged into the county unit. Also included in the public school jurisdiction for the first time was the school for retarded children in Belleville.

Major consideration in the 93-mile-long county is transportation — a $600,000 item in the budget this year. The school bus operation is consolidated under the direction of a manager of transportation who must also arrange to bus students out of the county when the nearest schools are over the county boundary lines.

To ensure quality teaching, the board has set the salary schedule for teachers on a par with that for teachers in Metro Toronto schools. As in most school areas in the province, teachers' salaries make up about two-thirds of the annual budget.

Family YMCA

'Pulling Its Weight'

One of Belleville's truly "family" recreation centres, the YMCA has been growing and expanding its programs since it began 75 years ago.

"As social planning in the community develops on a more formal basis the YMCA will continue to pull its weight to make these aims a reality," asserted association president Harry J. Fast.

A member agency of the United Community Services, the association prides itself on its youth-oriented programs bent toward building better citizens.

"Our idea here at the Y is to make available services and promote healthy minds and bodies. For those who cannot afford membership, they can still take advantage of our services — free of charge," emphasized Mr. Fast.

Mr. Fast feels the most important role of the YMCA is to be relevant to the community, for each and every citizen, young and old.

In addition to the usual swimming programs, there are fitness classes for both men and women, judo instruction and an informative adult-learning-for-living series.

This series, for example, explained general YMCA secretary Bert Messacar, not only gives an opportunity for the learning of new skills, but provides social enjoyment and "counselling for the relief".

There are several activities in the Y which are "free" activities — that is, no charge is made to the individual who is a non-member.

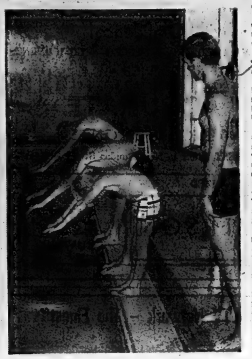
Mr. Messacar estimated that about 30 per cent of the program involved non-members, with more than 10 000 individuals who didn't pay, or paid nominally for services.

"Last year, for example," said Mr. Messacar, "about 4,-200 school children learned to swim through our programs."

"We intend to increase our programs for families, because group recreation is our main mission. More than half of our memberships consists of families," he added.

Mr. Messacar emphasized the opportunity the YMCA provides for young people to develop leadership, in many fields.

"One of the trends I have noticed, is that the Association is working more and more with the community groups, and our work is taken into the community to a greater degree as well," he remarked.



The Y is a member agency of the United Community Services, and receives money from the United Appeal campaign.

Membership fees represent only a part of the cost of supplying service to members, while grants from the city and donations make up the rest of the money to run the association.

"We have ambitions to extend our facilities. Our greatest need now is for a gymnasium. That will receive priority," asserted Mr. Fast.

"The funds from the United Appeal are not used for plant expansion, rather, funds that are raised by the Association independent of the appeal," he emphasized.

The Association will seek support also through the use of an "endowment" plan in the near future, explained Mr. Fast.

Swim Instruction At YMCA

Festivals Result Of Arts Council

The purpose of the Quinte Arts Council is to encourage cultural activity in the Counties of Hastings, Prince Edward, Lennox and Addington and Northumberland.

And that's quite a chore, but one that the arts council has been working at since its beginning in 1967.

In the spring of 1967, the Belleville Centennial Celebrations Committee sponsored Arts Festival '67, a four day festival, including music, drama and a visual arts display by groups from Belleville and district.

The committee for this festival reformed as a steering committee to form the Quinte Arts Council under the guidance of the chairman of the Centennial Arts Committee, Mrs. Marian Wilson.

During the formation meeting there were 60 representatives at Loyalist College from Belleville, Picton, Trenton and Brighton.

Group representatives were appointed to the board from local artistic organizations; the Belleville Kiwanis Club, the Belleville Theatre Guild, the Belleville Arts and Crafts Club, the Belleville Arts Association, the Belleville Choral Society, the National Ballet Guild and the Belleville Camera Club.

The new association was aided last month by being classed as a non-profit organization in the eyes of the Hastings County Board of Education.

As a result the council has been allowed use of the schools on a free basis and has obtained a trustee to fill an ex-officio post on the council's board of directors.

And it is the fact that cultural interest is going down that spurs on the Quinte Arts Council.

At a meeting in June of this year the council was informed that popular cultural explosion theories were untrue.

Dr. Grant Sampson, Kingston lecturer, author and composer, speaking at the meeting, informed the council that not even the influence of universities among an expanding student population was showing results of wider cultural interest.

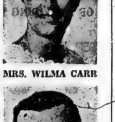
"As the population of universities goes up the percentage of students attending cultural events is going down" he claimed at that time.

The Quinte Arts Council has been responsible for two Arts Festivals now and plans for 1970 are even bigger.

The 1970 festival, it is hoped, will feature more Quinte area communities and involve more people as participants and spectators.

The event, it was decided this spring, must be enlarged by 1970 and officials would like to see more involvement of young people and school groups.

And other organizations have benefited through affiliation and association with the Quinte Arts Council.



The Eastern Ontario Concert Orchestra which closed Arts Festival '69 found that particular engagement to be a highlight of the orchestra's season.

One of the objectives of this band is to bring its work to centres with little opportunity to hear live orchestral music.

And so it goes for the Quinte Arts Council — popularizing and organizing the enjoyment of something that could be disappearing from civilized man, the arts.

Yacht Club Once Bid for America's Cup

Since 1878, Bellevillians have taken an organized interest in the water that lies at their southern doorstep.

Considered by some to be the best yacht cruising water in North America, the Bay of Quinte in the 1870s was the scene of gentlemanly disputes arising from informal sailboat races.

To settle the arguments, the Bay of Quinte Yacht Club was formed — one of the earliest on the Great Lakes.

No doubt the founding of the club was in a large part due to the efforts of Captain Alexander Cuthbert, who was designing and building sailboats at the site now occupied by Belleville Marine Yards.

This era of sailing enthusiasm led eventually to a Cuthbert designed yacht, the Atalanta, carrying the BQYC burgee to challenge for the America's Cup, one of only two Canadian yachts ever to enter the classic.

Atlanta returned to the Great Lakes and won the Fisher cup for BQYC.

In 1884, BQYC was one of the four founding clubs of the Lake Yacht Racing Association and since then has acted as host for a number of the association's annual regattas, the last in 1951.

Membership in the club is growing rapidly, and the executive foresees a day when it will have to be limited.

Club facilities at Victoria Park on the harbor are extended to all yachts on a reciprocal basis and the club provides electrical facilities and water for yachts tied up at the visitors' dock.

About 500 boats a year visit the club and many have to be turned away because of lack of docking facilities. BQYC leases land at the park from the city for its clubhouse, and the Harbor Commission is responsible for building and maintaining docks.

"The harbor should be considered one of the main entrances to our city" says Commodore William Bonnell. "The Chamber of Commerce made an initial step in the right direction by erecting an information booth and telephone on the waterfront this year."

The Yacht Club hires a dock steward every summer to assist visitors. Its executive would like to see a joint effort on behalf of the Harbor Commission and the city's parks' board to offer a complete service to the visitor.

During recent years there has been a tremendous increase in enthusiasm in sailing, with good competition developing in the keel boat class. The club sponsors seven races during the year, as well as two long distance races.

The 110 mile race around Prince Edward County attracted a record fleet of 14 boats this year and is probably unique as a long distance race, since it involves night sailing in the confined waters of Long Reach and Telegraph Narrows. One American competitor described it as "one of the craziest races on Lake Ontario."

The Katie Gray race, named after an early yacht that probably won more silverware than any other of her day, is sailed each year from Belleville to Picton, a distance of 25 miles.

Unlike some yacht clubs, BQYC is open all year round and provides a full spectrum of social activities, including a bridge tournament and a series of lectures and films for senior sailors. Its junior sailing program, like the senior lectures, is open to non-members. This season about 75 juniors learned to sail at the club, and competed in junior races.

The club fleet has recently been increased by the purchase of four Flying Juniors to augment the five Nordbergs used for junior instruction. Two years ago the club built a combined storage room and classroom for the junior program. Two local students were hired as junior sailing instructors.

Yachtsmen's Haven

Located on the tip of Victoria Park between the mouth of the Moira River and Belleville Harbor, the Bay of Quinte Yacht Club is in an ideal situation to welcome visiting yachtsmen. More than 500 visitors each summer make use of the club's facilities, but many are turned away because of lack of dockage.

Manitou Had Morch Mast

When the yacht Manitou sailed to victory in Canada's Cup races, she carried a mast and boom made by Morch Manufacturing of Belleville.

In fact, the company made all the spars for the three yachts competing in the Canada's Cup trials this summer.

The precision machine shop operation of Morch Manufacturing specializes in supplying parts for the aircraft industry and marine products, including custom mast work.

Although it includes the most complete welding shop in Belleville, its operation is little known in the community because it serves industry almost exclusively.

Of Morch Manufacturing's 30 employees, three are employed in the plating department. A metal crack detection department is in operation and all types of aluminum and stainless steel fabrication is carried out.

Avon Jewellery Products Go Around the World

Avon Jewellery

Belleville Booster Brought Firm Here

Lesson one: How to start a company.

Result: Avon Jewellery Co. Ltd. — locally owned and operated with products sold throughout Canada.

"It was just after the war, when it was next to impossible to rent space. My father, who had been vainly searching for a possible site for some time, was yanked off the train at four in the morning by a Belleville booster," related Company President, Joel Mazer.

"By eight that same morning," he continued, "he had found the space he was looking for."

The company was first located where the new federal building is now. Avon has been in its present premises on Dundas Street East since 1950.

Manufacturing is completed here in Belleville, the site of the company's only plant. From this main centre, Jewellery is sold to retailers across Canada.

"Our product is sold to the larger department stores in the bigger cities. Smaller outlets don't usually handle our merchandise, because we are in a slightly higher price range — from about $3 and up," said Mr. Mazer.

Familiar with the jewellery business for more than 25 years, Mr. Mazer does much of the designing himself.

"The strong point of our product is its 'exclusivity', and it is this fact in itself that has made Avon a name people remember," he added.

As far as advertising is concerned, the company confines itself to fashion shows in which it participates, and word of mouth.

"Both are most effective," Mr. Mazer added.

The company president cited examples of shows at the Canadian National Exhibition and other centres including Vancouver, Winnipeg and Montreal.

"In the smaller centres, response to our staple range of jewellery is quite good. High fashion pieces are usually better received in larger cities, to go with the latest 'with it' clothes."

The Avon Jewellery Company is completely Canadian, not only in its designing, but in every facet of manufacture.

Mr. Mazer explained briefly what manufacturing steps are, which results in a beautifully finished piece of jewellery.

The whole process starts with the design, which the modelmakers transform into a hard-made first piece. This piece is then trimmed and polished with a variety of finishes — often going through as many as six operations on a single piece.

"Next, continued Mr. Mazer, "delicate and costly drilling is completed. Then, a hard rubber mold is made. Safety catches are soldered on.

"A double non-tarnishing finish guarantees the costing process. The final and most critical step consists of the accurate mounting of stones," he said.

"Many other firms," explained Mr. Mazer, "either copy American designs or are associated with American companies."

Improved methods of production have helped triple company sales in the last 10 years. At the present time, Avon has more than 1,000 customers in Canada alone.

"People in this country are now more tolerant of ideas and products that Canada has to offer. Avon, more than ever, is coming into its own."

The present looks good, but what looms ahead in Avon's future?

"As far as physical plant expansion, we have nothing definitely planned for the moment. But if the steady rate of growth we have been experiencing continues, plans could include a larger plant at some time in the future."

Mr. Mazer spoke enthusiastically about the promotional contracts and export markets that have opened up for the company — "more heavily than ever before."

"Even though exports compose just two per cent of our sales, the overseas market has become more lucrative as well," he concluded.

Building Goal $12 Million

Belleville is riding the crest of a continuing construction boom which this year is expected to reach the $12 million mark.

Construction for the first six months of the year totalled close to $5 million, but city building Inspector Grant Suickle is confident the $12 million mark will be reached before the end of the year.

"It all depends on whether the present boom continues," he commented.

The six-month total is made up of $2,142,500 in residential construction, $1,347,000 industrial and $1,150,000 commercial.

Last year the construction total was $6,067,131, made up of $3,455,500 residential, $1,-600,000 institutional, $534,000 industrial and $450,000 commercial.

During the past five years—from January 1964 until December 1968—the grand total for construction in the city was $22,418,523 with 1965 as the "big" year accounting for more than $14 million. That was the year that construction of the new $1½ million hospital wing was commenced.

In 1963 the total was $4,792,-411 while in 1964 it was $4,-894,255. Totals for 1966 were $3,264,461 and for 1967 $3,647,-627.

New industrial plants along with institutional and commercial building have gone to swell the total, but with the exception of 1965, residential construction has consistently accounted for more than one half of the total construction value each year.

But even so, residential construction is far from keeping up with the demand.

Indicative of the housing demand is the fact that apartment houses are booked solid with waiting lists even long before construction is completed.

Reports are that the new 82-unit Quinte Towers on Bridge Street West, is already fully rented — and construction is yet hardly under way.

Apartment living appears to be gaining rapidly in popularity in the city as is indicated by the ratio of apartment units and single family dwellings being erected.

Separate School Board Concerned with Balanced Education

On the 30-foot mosaic mural at the entrance of the new Georges Vanier School in Belleville one of the figures depicting continuous education has been rudely lopped off at the shoulder line and the head and shoulders shoved sideways before being re-stacked.

The symbolism expresses the Hastings and Prince Edward separate school board's approach to education. According to the architect, the figure expresses graphically the idea that a child who receives no education is unbalanced, but the child denied tripartite development — spiritual, psychological and physiological — is warped.

On this premise the educational policy of the separate school board is based. Since Jan. 1, 1969, all separate schools in Prince Edward, Hastings, and Nipissing district south of Algonquin Park, have come under the jurisdiction of the newly-created unit.

It administers to 30 elementary schools with 4,000 pupils and about 125 to 130 teachers and principals. In addition, Nicholson Catholic College in Belleville offers secondary schooling from grades 9 to 13.

The board has recently opened the first school in the area built especially for the continuous system of education.

Each of Georges Vanier school's learnings "pods" or areas can be separated into three classrooms by means of sliding chalkboard walls.

Each of the new schools built in the region in recent years includes a community room, with separate entrance and kitchen, designed for use by the public in the neighborhood for community activities.

"We will foster and extend, in the future, closer liaison between the people of the community and their schools," says F. B. Allore, superintendent.

Mr. Allore and a supervisor of program, a supervisor of plant and maintenance, and a business manager make up the board's administrative staff.

The separate school system is dedicated to the continuous progress view of education, and the ungraded system is being introduced on a gradual basis throughout the three counties.

Oral French instruction is given in Grades 1 through 8 in all Belleville schools, and a new program, developed in England, has been introduced this year for the lower grades.

Art and vocal music consultants instruct and assist teachers of those subjects in all elementary schools.

For pupils with special problems, a special education aid has been provided this year — a former public health nurse with offices in Vanier, assists teachers and pupils in any area where her talents are needed.

The separate schools believe that children with special problems should be integrated in regular classes whenever possible and segregated only when necessary.

"In this way we are better able to deal with individual differences in different individuals," says C. G. Mersereau, supervisor of program.

The board's special education co-ordinator is frequently called upon to assist teachers from other jurisdictions in setting up similar programs in their schools.

The primary catechetics program was up-dated two years ago, with a full-time supervisor. Remaining grades have consultant services from Kingston. Father James MacGillivray of the Church of St. Michael the Archangel is now co-ordinating the catechetics course on a part-time basis. Next year the position will be a full-time one. An assistant is in charge of co-ordinating the course in county schools outside Belleville.

Introduced in conjunction with the catechetics course this year is family life education. Conventions and professional development courses were held last year to introduce the new course to teachers.

"Professional development for teachers is a major concern of the administrators.

"We make every attempt to adjust our program to ensure teachers are freed from teaching duties to observe at other schools inside and outside our system," says Mr. Allore.

The administrators are investigating holding a winter catechetical course. A winter course in language arts will be taught one night a week for about 60 teachers.

A professional library for teachers is being set up in Vanier school, which will grow into a combined display, reference and resource centre.

Under study is a program in outdoor education. Through the YMCA, a swimming program is offered in Grades 4 and 5 for non-swimmers.

In keeping with the long-standing policy of close parent-teacher co-operation in the separate schools, machinery to facilitate consultations with parents is planned throughout the system.

Practical Experience The Teacher

Curriculum Superintendent Is Overseer

Superintendent of Curriculum — what does he do?

A brief answer, such an overseer all the activities that affect a student in his associations with the school", may be accurate, but does not really give much information. Perhaps we should look at the topics and functions with which a superintendent concerns himself. They include courses of study, supervision, psychological services, instructional media including audio-visual materials, research and innovation, evening classes, special education, outdoor education and home instruction units.

The superintendent must coordinate the activities of principals, area superintendents and consultants in providing the help that teachers might require, in making good ideas and practices used in one area known in other areas, in advising when in-service training should be provided in keep up with changes in the curriculum or to strengthen teaching practices where necessary.

This year the board has set certain goals, and it is left to the administration to take the actions which will achieve these goals. Some of the goals have to do with programs, and in this field we have accomplished what we set out to do this year if beginners' services, Oral French in the elementary schools and science workshops.

We are also making good progress in extending the programs in industrial arts and crafts and home economics, driver training and family life education. New options have been added in some secondary grades, the whole field of special education is being studied, and discussions are being held on plans for outdoor education in Hastings County.

Because of some degree of urgency, the administration has had to make some decisions without much consultation with the people concerned. This is not generally a good thing — ideas should come from teachers, principals, parents and students.

Changes that teachers feel to be desirable and innovations that they feel would provide better learning are more likely to success than ones imposed upon them. As in many teaching situations a team approach, using all the resources available, is most valuable in this case.

We must keep up to date and assess new ideas and practices that are talked of or used in other centres and at other levels. We must be sure that we understand what others mean when they talk about such things as continuous progress, integration, subject promotion, and elimination of grades. We must study carefully how we can improve our communication with the students, the parents and others in the community.

How can we improve the instruction? How can we get the students to become more involved? How can we kindle and fan the fires of curiosity and enthusiasm? We are always looking for better answers to these questions, as we work as a team, to provide the best learning situation possible for our students.

Quality: Prime Goal of School Board As New County System Progresses

The avowed purpose of county-wide unification of educational administration, as defined by the minister of education last year, was equality educational opportunity throughout the province.

But for Hastings county's director of education, Eric Runacres, the task of his administrative staff goes further.

"We are engaged in the pursuit of quality," he says. "Within the schools we have initiated an ongoing program of improvement, which will become more evident in the years to come.

"When the Hastings county unit was established in January, it inherited a high standard of education from the five boards that existed previously," he adds. "During its short history, the new board has attempted to consolidate the programs of the past."

But the pursuit of quality has gone forward under the new administration.

When he came to Belleville in January from the North York school system, Mr. Runacres promised "to put the money where the action is — in the classrooms".

To determine the kind of action the people of the county want in their children's classrooms, he organized task forces last spring. Composed of parents, teachers and students from each area of the county, the task forces examined and reported on the needs of their community schools. On the basis of the reports, new services have been initiated throughout the county.

Several inadequate schools have been closed and their pupils bused to larger schools, where industrial arts, home economics, libraries and kindergartens are available. Kindergartens and beginners services have been started in all areas of the county.

Oral French is now taught in all county schools and a new family life program was introduced this fall.

Driver training is now available in all secondary schools, and additional special education personnel has been engaged to deal with speech problems, remedial reading and emotionally disturbed children. An educational psychologist joined the staff this year.

Quality teaching has been strengthened under the county board with a lowering of the pupil teacher ratio close to the figure recommended by provincial educational authorities. At present the ratio is 26.6 to one in the elementary schools and 17.3 to one in the secondary schools.

The instructional supply budget has been increased, and teachers and principals are charged with ordering the supplies they need for their classrooms. Volume purchasing, under the direction of a professional purchaser has been introduced. To avoid the heavy expense of centralized warehousing, arrangements are made to have the suppliers deliver his products directly to the schools where they will be used.

The administrative staff has instituted a growing professional development program, with workshops and seminars for teachers scheduled throughout the year.

A one-week inductee program for teachers who were beginning their careers was started last June and the board had budgeted $12,000 this year to subsidize teachers taking refresher or updating courses.

An audio-visual co-ordinator and technical assistant has been added to the headquarters staff to take charge of all resource materials in the schools.

Curriculum development has been an area of intensive concentration for the staff, in line with the modern concept of making education more relevant to the world the students will enter on graduation new courses have been instituted.

Among them are theatre arts, contemporary problems instead of history in Grade 12 and sociology in Grade 13. Pilot programs in outdoor education were instituted last spring and will be developed further.

The continuous progress system of education is encouraged by the administration and has already been implemented in many schools. New elementary schools and additions have been built on the open area "learning pod" plan.

Now in the draft plan stage is a new composite secondary school between Trenton and Belleville, the first building of what will become a complete education centre for all grades.

Housing Explosion

Neither can he see any great slackening off for some time.

"I can't see it changing because new industries beget service industries. I think the Belleville area — because of its strategic location and the high commercial land costs in larger cities — will have a good a chance of getting (industry) as anybody."

"I wouldn't think there would be any noticeable decrease in the amount of houses required until the late 1970s."

By that time — well into the next decade — total urbanization of Belleville and its environs likely will be completed.

Pushing the district toward that goal will be two of the most ambitious housing projects in the city's history.

Inside the city boundaries, there is a plan put forth by a Toronto group — Gowanbrae Holdings — for large scale settlement in west Belleville south of the city's Fairgrounds.

The last report from city hall was that official registration of the Gowanbrae plan "was imminent."

The project will go far toward meeting mounting demands for local housing.

City planners give these statistics on the developments potential: Some 882 apartments. 111 row housing units, 87 single family and 68 semi-detached units.

With available land now in maximum demand Gowanbrae may be among the last major developments within existing city boundaries before all sizable open land blocs are consumed.

Lower taxes, rural living with city amenities in easy reach long ago created commuter colonies around Belleville.

But the second major development being prepared is as convenient to the city as any subdivider could wish.

This development — projected by a local group with Belleville-area contractor W. C. Tatham as president—presents a radical new concept in housing in the Quinte district. housing 10,500 in 3,185 tract.

The scheme is fully documented since. Mr. Tatham notes, the Hastings group called in its own consultants to map the proposal. The result is a comprehensive plan of all phases of the project — saving need to scrutinize much exhaustive detail.

Although housing more than 10,000 people in a wide variety of living units — from houses to high rise — Hastings Park is more than a subdivision.

All needs are related and recognized by the plan which weaves houses, high - rise blocks, schools, commercial, park and bridle-path areas into a community pattern.

It is designed to generate its own community environment, says Mr. Tatham.

The consultants put it more technically.

Their official report describes it as "an integrated residential and commercial-institutional community . . . the layout makes maximum allowance for the provision of a comprehensively planned neighborhood that takes advantage of sound planning theories."

However it's described, Hastings Park — its plan is now under consideration by Belleville and Sidney councils — would be a dramatic contribution to easing accommodation demands.

As currently projected, it would virtually be a satellite community on the city fringes, municipal government the units.

A breakdown shows the plan housing almost 2,100 people in family dwellings and 4,020 in apartments. 4,200 in multiple single family units.

Quinte Region Growing Pains Intensify

The examination of municipal and school board affairs continues to intensify in this Quinte Region. It is due to the provincial government's emphasis on the need for municipal reform, the need for improved services and on the increased urbanization taking place in this area.

The debate automatically produces two camps, each with an opposite point of view. One group feels that our democratic processes are being eroded and that we are heading for a crisis.

They point to the new county school boards and describe them as monsters, far removed from public participation and local control and fear that large regional governments will emerge in like manner, but each going to the same poor taxpayer with inflated costs.

These same people see a growing bureaucracy being created at the provincial level and point to two services—assessment and administration of justice—being assumed by the province. They warn us of the implications and state emphatically "when the tail of bureaucracy begins to wag the dog of politics, it leads to some form of totalitarian government."

The other camp points to the duplication of effort, the inefficiency and waste and the low level of service being provided by our present municipal structure. They say that the system lacks responsiveness and responsibility; that it lacks capability and is not coordinated; that it is inequitable and inefficient and is not adaptable to changing needs.

The question must now be asked, "What is wrong with our existing system of government?" Do we need change?" "Why?"

The pattern of urbanization and its results is well established throughout the country.

Industrial and commercial enterprises, seeking the services and amenities provided by the urban centres tend to locate in the cities. The cities grow and expand to their boundaries. They spill over into the townships and at first, the townships are happy with this growth and the additional tax base it provides. The happiness is short lived, however, for the townships, for the most part, will have failed to plan properly and contain their new found growth in orderly communities.

The new rural dweller is soon disenchanted with his way of life and begins to demand more in the way of services, water and sewer mains are needed — fire and police protection — recreation facilities and a host of other amenities available to his city cousin.

The township is hard pressed to meet these demands and looks to the city in an attempt to purchase these requirements. The city on the other hand, feels it owes nothing to the township and is reluctant to spend money outside of its own boundaries, especially for the benefit of another council.

Discussion begins: At first it is of amalgamation, but the township realizes that it will end up with little voice in its affairs with the big city.

Talks break down and the city initiates annexation proceedings. The arguments begin, but end in the same old way and bitterness remains for another generation. The problems in planning, water and sewer services, recreational facilities and fire protection are already with us and we face a host of other municipal service problems. A number of questions need to be asked and answers provided. Will our communities act in isolation of each other in an attempt to retain the status quo? Can we expect a power play by some in an attempt to gain the dominant position in any new region? Will we have regional government on a scale that will preclude public participation, thrust upon us from above? Or, can our local political leaders look beyond their own boundaries in an honest attempt to legislate for the orderly development of a total community.

Organization Important To Progressive Board

By L. F. REID

Superintendent of Academic Services

The official organization chart approved by the board for the Hastings County Board of Education lists the following functions as the responsibility of the academic services branch of the administration:

Recruitment appointment, transfers, records (teacher files) — teacher contracts — staff allotments — salary schedules and fringe benefits — leave of absence, sabbatical leave, sick leave — discipline cases — federation matters — in service development of staff — internship and other training programs — conferences and conventions.

A quick perusal of the above list will immediately reveal that this department is essentially a service department whose job it is to render a useful service to all the teachers in the elementary, secondary and retarded children's schools in the County.

One of the basic tasks of this branch is to secure sufficient teachers and other professionals to staff our schools. In this connection the branch endeavors to obtain, through the medium of the press and innumerable interviews, fully qualified and experienced staff. This year, despite the shortage of supply of secondary school teachers which exists now and will likely continue for three or four years to come, the branch has had singular success with the result that it has been able to fill staff requirements with personable, well qualified and in many cases experienced teachers.

In the recruitment of new staff the branch relies heavily on the value judgements of the people with whom the new teachers will be working such as school principals and area superintendents, and it is the practice to involve these people in the hiring procedures in every way possible.

Upon accepting a teaching position with the board, a new teacher is required to submit the following documents before an official contract of employment is drawn up — a qualified teaching certificate valid for the Province of Ontario, a recent certificate of chest X-ray, and a medical certificate of good health, proof of previous teaching and or related experience and if teaching at a secondary school a document of approval which is issued by the Ontario Secondary School Teachers Federation to all its members in good standing.

One of the functions of this department which involves considerable time and is very important is that of working with a teacher-trustee committee in the negotiation of satisfactory salary schedules and fringe benefits for the teachers.

Since the cost of instruction represents approximately 80 per cent of the total budget, it can readily be seen that the financial implications of salary schedules and fringe benefits are important to the whole community — teachers and non-teachers alike.

In arriving at a settlement, the board has wisely taken the stand that salaries paid to teachers must be such as to attract competent, qualified and experienced teachers from outside our system, and also to retain the many good teachers presently in our system, always keeping in mind, of course, the ability of the taxpayers to pay and the general level of salaries prevalent throughout the province.

Perhaps the most interesting challenging and rewarding function of the academic services branch is that of developing and maintaining an ongoing program of professional development for teachers.

Professional development is again essentially a service activity designed to provide the kind of in-service opportunities which staff members desire or feel they need. One of the best types of service education will continue to be activities organized at the school in response to needs which are expressed by teachers. It is the board's belief, however, that the final responsibility for professional growth must be assumed by each individual staff member.

The reasons for participation in continuous programs of updating and upgrading have become more compelling than ever before. Most of these reasons relate to change — rapid changes in our way of life, discovery of new knowledge, improved understanding of child development, better techniques in human relations and dramatic changes in teaching methods and the process of learning.

It is expected that changes such as these will continue and will even occur at an accelerated rate in the future. Students simply cannot cope with the world they encounter if education does not move with the times.

Some of the most worthwhile professional-growth activities are those which emerge during the course of the school year in response to requests.

Canada's Friendly City

Federal Department of Labor

Police Department Shoulders Important Responsibility

By CHIEF D. T. CROSBIE

It is indeed a privilege for the police department to participate in this special edition of the Intelligencer and to describe briefly the operation of the department.

The basic responsibilities of a police department are:

Protection of life and property
Prevention of crime
Detection and apprehension of violators of the various laws enacted by the three levels of government
Presentation of facts to the courts
To provide other services to the public.

The Belleville City Police Department — to carry out these responsibilities — is organized into two branches:

Operations Branch, composed of Cruiser patrol

Traffic patrol
Foot patrol
Station duty
Criminal investigation.

Administrative Branch, composed of General office and central records

Planning and budgeting
Traffic planning
Personnel selection
Training
Community relations — safety officer, youth aid officer and public relations programming.
Police fleet operation
Court liaison.

The modern day society is most complex and it is quite apparent that the duties of a policeman are many and varied. No longer is it sufficient for a policeman to have physical qualifications only. It is necessary that much more emphasis be put on broader qualifications is the selection of recruits as well as the members of the force.

These are times when it is a basic requirement that there be specialized training provided for police specialists. This department has provided training for seven criminal investigators, two identification officers, three photographers, one arson investigator, three traffic law enforcement officers, one safety officer, one youth aid officer, five supervisors, three administrators, three breathalyzer operators, three underwater search and recovery officers and three qualified police instructors.

The foregoing is exclusive of recruit training at the Ontario Police College which all members of the department are required to complete.

The department at regular intervals holds in-service training and in addition each year every member of the force is required to qualify in the use of all types of firearms owned by the department.

CHIEF CROSBIE

Belleville is a growing community and in order that the police department may maintain and improve its service to the public it is imperative the department's growth matches not only the increases in population but also the increase in crime, accidents, congestion and other police services.

During 1969 the strength of this department will increase by five, with the appointment of a youth aid officer, police cadet, and three constables in November.

The police fleet was increased to nine vehicles with the addition of a fully equipped traffic unit which was displayed at the Quinte Exhibition just prior to being placed in service.

One of the nine vehicles is a safety unit which has been provided for the past seven years by the Belleville Kiwanis Club as a public service.

Notwithstanding any of the foregoing, no police department will achieve a major degree of success unless it has the support and cooperation of the citizens of the community.

City's Future Is Now - Potter

By DR. R. T. POTTER
Quinte MPP

I appreciate this opportunity to extend my congratulations and best wishes to the citizens of Belleville on this special occasion.

Belleville residents have much to be proud of and the events of this week emphasize the growth and development that has taken place over the past months.

DICK POTTER

It is just two years since I urged everyone in Quinte Riding to work together to promote our area—an area which then appeared to have everything desirable but was woefully lacking in industry. Today we are witness to what can be achieved when so many work toward the same goal. We are grateful to the Ontario government for including our area under the industrial incentive program. We are grateful is the department of trade and development of the Ontario government for directing industry to our area and for providing incentives in the way of forgiveable loans in order to encourage industry to locate here.

We are fortunate to have an industrial commission, a city council, a radio station, newspapers, service clubs and interested citizens who accepted the challenge and worked so hard to assist new industry in every way possible.

Today we find ourselves at the beginning of Belleville Week — a week during which Belleville is on show, not only to the province but to the whole continent. Our municipal government now finds itself faced with a multitude of problems resulting from this tremendous growth surge.

To them I say, continue and expand your efforts for now it is more urgent than ever that you provide the necessary services and other types of amenities for our citizens.

For Belleville — Tomorrow is Here!

City Planning Director

Plans Geared To Year 2000

All the calculations of the staff of Belleville and Suburban Planning Board are "geared to 2000" according to director Bert Kenny.

"We can't confine our planning to tomorrow's needs," he says. "We must plan for the next generation as well as this one."

All Belleville and adjacent southern portions of the townships of Sidney and Thurlow come under the jurisdiction of the planning board, which has had a professional staff since 1962. At present, the professionals include the director and his assistant, a secretary-treasurer who also holds the same position with the committee of adjustment, a draftsman and secretarial staff.

"Our function is to investigate and then advise the contributing municipalities on both past and present situations in relation to orderly development of land," Mr. Kenny says.

"Our advice must be objective," he says of his staff's function. "There is a strong desire to grow in this area — the watchword is promotion, not restriction. The prevailing desire is to accommodate all fluctuations in demand and thus promote growth. The traditional planning philosophy has been to promote control and foster orderly development."

The planning staff is now engaged in preparing an official plan for Belleville and reviewing its zoning bylaws.

It is now awaiting a report on an economic study of the Belleville area by the firm of Procter Redfern in Toronto. On the basis of this report, the official plan will be completed and use of land for recreation, housing, commerce and industry plotted.

Already completed are studies of major roads, utilities and parks. On the basis of these reports, the board will advise the city on its capital works budget for expansion of utilities and services.

Already under way is a long-term plan for elimination of level crossings over railways in the area.

"Elimination of all level crossings is the goal of our transportation study," says Mr. Kenny.

The planners have prepared a formal zoning bylaw for the portion of Thurlow township in the planning area.

Now Sidney council has asked the board to prepare a zoning bylaw for a portion of the township west of the city limits to accommodate an anticipated large residential community.

The self-contained suburban community will house 10,000 people and draft plans of its layout have already been approved.

Parking Adequate But Authority Looks to Future

Belleville has adequate off-street parking for the present but that doesn't mean Belleville Parking Authority officials are not looking to the future.

"Compared to other municipalities Belleville has a good proportion of off-street parking," states authority chairman Douglas Dominic.

"But that doesn't mean we don't need to plan for the future. Belleville is growing and we must plan ahead."

However, the need isn't urgent and the authority will wait to take a look at possible urban renewal recommendations before any definite action is taken with respect to future plans.

"Urban renewal apparently is still a few years away but we wouldn't want to do anything which would tie in."

Authority officials say they have investigated "high rise parking but this is costly and there is a question of whether Belleville is large enough for this type of facility.

The Belleville Parking Authority was established in 1960 and now has close to 900 off-street parking spaces, spread through four main lots.

This is claimed adequate for the present with officials saying there is no point in expansion merely to take care of one day per week peak requirements.

The reason of course is a financial one.

Suitable off-street parking land is expensive and what with today's high interest costs, too early expansion would be prohibitive.

"Like most committees we have to be careful with our expenditures," says Mr. Dominic.

All land purchases and other financing have to be paid out of revenue. In addition the parking authority is treated as a private business and pays city taxes as well as business tax.

Former Authority chairman G. E. Thompson says motorists like the convenience of the attendant operated parking lot at the corner of Campbell and Pinnacle Street.

"They can leave their cars for any length of time without worrying about parking meters," he said.

"It is a good paying parking lot."

In 1968 the city parking authority showed total revenue of $54,021 with expenditures of $70,149, including $22,928 in debenture debt charges.

About A. E. LePage Limited...

For 56 years A. E. LePAGE LIMITED has proven by past performance, solid reputation and spectacular expansion to meet ever growing demands, to be every bit as dynamic and forward looking as the country that gave it birth.

We have many major operating divisions. They cover the entire field of real estate on a local, national and international basis. For the people of Belleville A. E. LePAGE LIMITED offers a reservoir of expertise and a range of facilities that cannot be matched by any other real estate firm in Canada. Our greatest strength is in a large and carefully selected staff of trained professionals who, experts in their various fields, deservedly enjoy a unique status in their industry.

RESIDENTIAL

Through the years A. E. LePAGE LIMITED has built is Residential Division to the point where it is one of the most competent and highly diversified operations of its kind on the continent.

Our residential representatives are not only conversant with the values of properties in Belleville but also for many miles from the heart of the city. Whether it be a modest home or a mansion, or even the marketing of an entire sub-division, our knowledge of local conditions, home styles and trends is comprehensive and up to date.

Property Management Department

The real estate market of Southern Ontario is one of the most attractive for investment in property, whether by foreign residens or local citizens. However, that property, to produce income at the most profitable level and on the most reliable basis, must be handled by experienced people.

This is the task that the property Management Department of A. E. LePAGE LIMITED is designed for. It was organized and adapted to meet changing conditions as the country grew and property interests became more complex. As a result we are handling commercial, industrial, residential and estate property for investors in Canada and many parts of the world on the most efficient, reliable and productive basis. The function of the department is to remove as much responsibility for managing the property as possible from the shoulders of the investor or owner, whilst ensuring a satisfactory return.

COMMERCIAL LEASING DEPARTMENT

This is a department especially constructed and organized to meet every requirement that a client may have. Its functions are diverse, but specifically planned, so that complete service can be given to any type of client, from an authoritative review of commercial leasing or development opportunities through land assembly and development of a new project, to the leasing of existing property.

The Department covers every aspect of planning, development, management and leasing of commercial property, particularly office buildings. One of our outstanding achievements is the complete leasing of the 56 storey, Toronto-Dominion Centre Tower.

INDUSTRIAL DEPARTMENT

A. E. LePAGE LIMITED, through its industrial department, has played an important part in Canada's development, particularly in Southern Ontario, the area that has seen the most rapid industrial growth in the country. We are equipped and organized to play an even more important role in the major developments that lie ahead. We deal with very aspect of industrial development that any developer, industrialist or investor may need.

The services provided range through consultation, analysis, supervision, building and management to the purchase or lease of a finished building.

COMMERCIAL SALES DEPARTMENT

Our facilities in the department embrace all aspects from the sale and purchase of office buildings, apartment buildings, hotels, motels and shopping centres, to the sale and lease of retail or wholesale outlets, showrooms, multi purpose buildings and gas stations, or of land for such purchases. Nothing is too small or too large and we can promptly inspect, analyze, evaluate and submit a detailed report on any property.

Mortgage and Financing Department

A. E. LePAGE LIMITED has built its Mortgage and Financing Department to be one of the most comprehensive and specialized of its kind in Canada. The expenditures of money, whether on income-producing investment or strait-bit capital spending, and the borrowing of money to finance any type of project, requires the most careful and knowledgeable consideration. In either case, on the spot information and advice from people who are familiar with local conditions, risks and opportunities, is essential.

The company recognized this fact long ago and set out to establish the kind of department that would meet the needs of both investor and borrower in every field of real estate.

INDUSTRIAL LAND DEPARTMENT

Our Industrial Land Department is one of the major divisions of the company, and, in its knowledge of land, whether developed or undeveloped, service or raw has no peer. Whether the parcel be a farm or a large undeveloped acreage, we can see the investor through from beginning to end, with advice, expert guidance and concern for the client's needs. Our performance in the assembly and purchase of land for commercial purposes and for mixed industrial, commercial and residential projects is impressive.

GROWTH THROUGH SERVICE SINCE 1913

Belleville One of 9 Hydro Regions

Although few people realize it, the source of their electrical power—a taken for-granted aspect of living — is more than a series of transformers and electrical equipment.

It's a network of machinery and manpower working jointly to service basic everyday needs.

The Ontario Hydro Commission uses a complicated and sophisticated network to please its customers.

In Belleville, the entire framework of the commission's operation is there to be seen. It is here that Hydro has set up its headquarters for the entire Eastern Ontario region.

The boundaries of Hydro's Eastern Region are Port Hope and Bowmanville, Peterborough, Algonquin Park (as far as Mattawa) and the Ottawa River.

In the years before World War II Belleville was the centre for Eastern Ontario's power organization. At that time there was quite a number of local systems.

During the war, control shifted from Belleville to Toronto until 1947-48 when a study was made of the whole Hydro system.

It was decided to divide Ontario into nine regions. Belleville was made control centre for the East-Central Region and Ottawa became headquarters for the Eastern Region.

In 1952 the Eastern and East - Central Regions amalgamated into the Eastern Region and headquarters was shifted back to Belleville. This resulted in the present setup and the present building on Dundas Street East, constructed in 1959.

Reasons for the original survey included a feeling that it was unwieldy to handle the organization from Toronto.

Belleville was picked mainly because it was centrally located in the region of which it is now headquarters.

The Belleville office is responsible for 1,500 regional employees — technical staff, field staff practical people and engineering staff — many of them working in the Belleville building.

It is, to be specific, the engineering and control headquarters for the entire Eastern Region.

And that staff is much in demand. Approximately 134,000 customers' bills come into the regional office for data processing.

That figure keeps growing and growing.

According to A. M. Pedersen, regional manager for the Ontario Hydro, the customers and load growth rate is about nine per cent.

The Madawaska Valley has been the site of tremendous growth recently with the building of a new generating station and size increases in three others to handle the load.

Staff is also growing, but at a slower rate due to automation. For example, Mr. Pederson feels that in a few years generating station operators as they are known now will no longer be needed.

Sophistication could be a motto of the Ontario Hydro Commission. Snowmobiles have eased the hazard of bogging down in winter when it comes to field work.

And then there's Hydro's excellent safety record. In the main vestibule of the regional office there are two plaques, awards testifying two 1,000,000 time hours without an accident each.

What about the future of Ontario Hydro in Belleville and in this region?

There is a generating station proposed for west of Port Hope, again showing the growth of the commission.

And Belleville will remain at the centre of things since Mr Pedersen foresees no change of control from Belleville to any other centre.

When the lights go on and the stove begins to work, it's not a bit of luck, it's a sophisticated network of engineering.

Hydro Headquarters Adds to East End Beauty

The Eastern Ontario Region headquarters of Ontario Hydro is kept groomed, adding to the lustre of the industrial development bordering Highway 2 on the east end of the city.

Central Agency Has 13 Members

The United Community Services of Belleville and District Inc. has been established in the city for only four years. During that short time it has accomplished a great deal.

The UCS is the central agency acting on behalf of its 13 other members — which range from the Boy Scouts to the CNIB.

Ideally, the purpose of this body is to act as a clearing house for all the agency activities, in addition to running the United Appeal campaign.

Run exclusively by volunteers, the UCS now employs only a permanent secretary.

Recently, the organization has been revamped and channeled towards social planning.

With this in mind, a social planning committee was formed, jointly co-ordinated by Mrs. Edith Fast, Mrs. P. E. Burrows and Dr. E. Evelyn Williamson, who are also volunteers.

The committee has four areas of concern: health services, counselling, services to children and prevention of crime and delinquency.

The particular concern of the committee is the continuation of present UCS projects, and acting upon new ideas for ones in the near future.

For example, the health committee has made a survey of elderly residents in the area, numbering 2,000 over 65 years. Direct services for them are being reviewed.

Well — being services cover the Christmas and furniture exchange, meals on wheels and so on.

In the other areas covered by committees, projects of most benefit to the community are continued or are being enacted by this committee.

The work of the United Community Services is entirely supported by the money donated to the United Appeal.

Bell Canada's Training School to Put City on National Map

Belleville's tomorrow is not even a long-distance call away for Bell Telephone.

The communications giant already has plugged into the city's suddenly expansive environment.

Blueprints for one of Bell's latest projects — a personnel training centre — Already have been processed and now await materialization.

When realized, the scheme will be one of the largest of its kind in Canada.

For Belleville, it could have immeasurable civic side benefits.

For Bell has embarked on a unique departure establishing the project. The centre will be built by the deluxe hotel chain. Four Seasons of Canada. And Four Seasons is incorporating the project in the design of a resort hotel development on the city's waterfront.

Bellevillians believe this could be the stimulus for glamorous resettlement of the city's Bay of Quinte shoreline — one of urban Canada's most prime locations.

But the rich potential of that Belleville breakthrough is a story for another day.

- Four Seasons will revamp a slice of prime water-frontage and build a hotel - training centre complex costing $2,300,000 with such resort installations as a marina.
- Bell Canada's share will be $1,500,000, where 125 students may be trained and housed simultaneously under one roof, in what will probably be Canada's most superb dormitory.
- Opening day for the unique enterprise will be sometime in the fall of 1970.

But the establishment process stretches back some time, when Bell — seeking to locate the centre — dialled the environment of five Canadan communities.

Answering signals gave Belleville the priority over Montreal, Ottawa, Toronto and Kingston.

In March, Bell announced its choice — the Quinte city — and brought company president Robert Scrivener to Belleville to confirm it.

It would be the largest school of its kind in Canada, revealed Mr. Schriveser.

The choice was not exactly a new departure. Belleville is more than a name in a directory for Bell.

Bellevillians have been subscribers since Bell's infancy — the first company service was installed in 1881 — but closer contact with the company's modern inner workings go back to 1959.

In that year a permanent school for Bell engineers was opened in Belleville and has since attracted a steady stream of communications people from Canada and around the world.

But the new project had more ambitious dimensions doubling the capacity of the 1959 installation.

It would amalgamate engineering with data-processing courses being taught in leased motel premises elsewhere in Belleville.

Its purpose would be to ensure a continuing high calibre of company management personnel, explained Mr. Scrivener.

"We've 12,000 people at management level and they have to be retrained several times during their working careers," he said. "And this has to be done on an organized basis."

The new centre, added Bell officials, would be able to maintain an annual stream of 3,500 students on courses of one to four weeks.

The core area is planned as an eight-classroom centre, with closed circuit TV and remote instruction facilities.

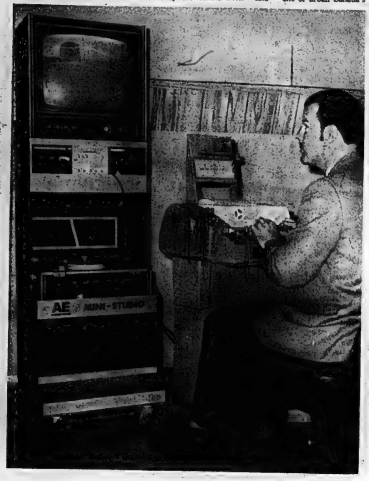
The overall scheme is described by a Bell management official as a "new concept in educational retraining and a model for industrial development in Canada."

For Bellevillians that was the first stage of a promising economic boost to an already bustling development scene.

The second stage was launched in June, when Four Seasons was announced the winner of a contract providing quarters for the centre. With it came Belleville's bonus.

In keeping with a glittering reputation, Four Seasons announced its intentions to blend a glamorous design with a site unsurpassed for appeal potential.

For its first project in Ontario outside Toronto — where it operates the 400-room Inn on the Park and the Four Seasons Motor Hotel — the hotel group selected eight acres flanked by the Bay of Quinte, the Moira River and at the city's prime Zwick's Island greenbelt zone.



Best of all for Belleville, it will be a commercial complement to an area already designated for civic rejuvenation and already being reclaimed from the Bay of Quinte for recreational purposes.

Both commercial and public redevelopment of the bayshore in the river area has been a long, long process. The new plan suddenly spurted hopes for revamping the area.

Four Seasons, claimed its plans would "rival any resort in Ontario" — and called in renowned Toronto architect Raymond Moriyama to produce a development concept.

The result is a blueprint for a complex including a 200-seat dining room, cocktail lounge, badminton courts, barbecue area and marina. It will be open to the public, tourists and vacationers.

The Bell centre will be in operation for nine months of the year. During summer months with courses ended, Four Seasons Belleville will "be strictly a resort."

Training Ground for Bell

Once Bell Canada's training school opens a year from now it will mean that 3,500 Canadians will be on course in Belleville each year. The school will be located on the Belleville waterfront.

Five Year Plan

Capital Works Budget $2,330,000 Annually

Planning for roads, sewers and other services for a growing city requires considerable foresight — and a lot of money.

Just this is indicated by the city's five year capital works budget which sees planned expenditures averaging $2,330,000 per year until 1973, which will boost Belleville's capital debt to more than $30,000,000.

Belleville's debenture debt at the end of 1958 was given as $13,074,812, amounting to about $334 for every man, woman and child in the city.

By 1973 the city's per capita debt is expected to increase to $626, with the ratio of debt to taxable assessment increasing to 17.4 per cent.

But even this rate reflects a sound financial position, according to City Manager J. R. Reynolds, who nevertheless says the demand for services and improvements will strain the city's debt position.

He hopes a continuation of industrial and commercial development will provide the necessary assessment to maintain the ratio of debt to taxable assessment at 20 per cent or less.

The present ratio is 15.2 per cent.

This year's taxable assessment is $133,608,930 — which it is estimated, will have reached $122,500,000 by 1973.

Big projects in the city's capital works budget this year are the Dundas Street-Moira River bridge and the new $1½ million filtration plant addition which is hoped will get under way this fall.

* * * * * * * *

Next year will also be a big year for works expenditures. Scheduled projects include construction of a new sanitary trunk sewer up the Moira River to serve the Hillcrest and northeast industrial park areas; rebuilding of Dundas Street from the river to the CPR-Bay Bridge Road overpass; a first phase construction of the Sidney Street CN overpass and possibly a start on the proposed east - end north-south arterial road.

This north-south artery following generally the line of Haig Road includes an overpass at the CN double tracks and a grade separation at its intersection with Highway 2.

Eventually, it is expected the arterial road and the CN overpass will be twinned for four-lane travel and the road extended to Highway 401.

Also scheduled in the five-year period is the second phase of the Sidney Street overpass construction; rebuilding of Bridge Street from its intersection with Highland Ave. to Sidney Street; rebuilding of Dundas Street from the Bay Bridge Road overpass to the city limits and the rebuilding of College Street, east from the College Street bridge.

Rebuilding of Sidney Street, north from Catharine Street, the widening of Victoria Ave. and the extension of College Street to tie up with the proposed north-south arterial in the east end of the city are also in the books.

Also receiving consideration by planners is the possibility of a railway overpass on Cannifton Road where vehicular traffic is now frequently held up by passing trains.

In addition to the extensive roads program there is also a big program of storm sewer installation in various parts of the city and still further expenditures by the public utilities for extension of water and electric service.

50,000 in Five Years: Brown

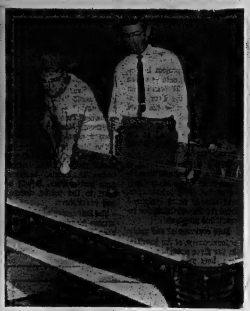
Belleville and its immediate area will have a population of 50,000 within the next five years.

The prediction comes from city industrial commissioner Ray Brown, who bases his "guestimate" on existing trends. It also depends on the city maintaining its present rate of acquiring new industry.

The 50,000 population figure is that expected for the city and rural areas served by the Belleville and Suburban Planning Board.

The city's population at the end of 1958 was given as 33,107. At the same time, figures for the zones of Sidney and Thurlow townships in the planning area were given as 5,518.

Thus the total for the city and immediate area is 38,625.



This means that to achieve the predicted 50,000 population by 1974, the area would have to gain 11,372 in the five-year period. This is an average of just over 2,000 per year.

The biggest increase in the city's population in the past decade was in 1953 when — according to assessment figures — the population jumped from 30,810 to 31, 980 by 1954.

No figures are available for this year, but, since the first of the year, the city has gained more than 250 workers at the new regional headquarters of the Unemployment Insurance Commission. Also, new industries located here will be in operation before the year end with employees and their families adding to the population total.

In addition will be people associated in the inevitable supporting service industries.

In the past decade the city's population has grown by close to 8,000 people. Back in 1949 the population was 25,925; by 1953 it had risen to 30,810. In 1957 it was recorded at 32,830.

Snooker Is Fun

Pool Table Boom Kept Firm Here

Today's ever - shortening work week with its increased leisure time has resulted in the development of a bustling recreation oriented industry for Belleville.

It is McFarlane Woodenware a subsidiary of the McFarlane Gendron Company Ltd. of Toronto, which seems a large percentage of its production devoted to the manufacture of recreation type pool tables.

The Belleville firm on orth Sidney Street is the largest manufacturer of recreational pool tables in Canada and sees its product sold from coast to coast and north to the Arctic.

The company also puts out a line of wooden juvenile furniture, and employs about 80 persons.

At one time the fiirm's operation was almost exclusively the production of baby carriages and nursery furniture but business fell off and only the switch to pool tables saved the Belleville plant.

"At one time we were seriously considering closing," says Mr. McFarlane.

Plant employment has remained stable at about 80 for the past several years.

The Belleville plant had its beginnings in the wartime production of plywood fuselage components for the famed Mosquito bombers of World War II.

The fuselage parts were patterned here and shipped to Toronto for assembly.

Following the war the plant was sold to McFarlane Woodenware which moved its operation here from Quebec to put Belleville in the baby furniture manufacturing business.

The post war baby boom kept the firm busy until the late 1950's when the market for baby carriages fell off.

But market research indicated an increased demand for recreational equipment, and the switch to pool tables resulted in a continuing industry for Belleville.

Hastings County Museum

Preserving Heritage

Museum Historic Treasure Chest

The Hastings County Museum was established in Belleville in 1961, and in those eight years has become a centre wealthy in history, but now, more than ever, it is taking on a particularly vital role in the community.

Because now, in this modern age, when man is hurtling to the moon and back, the need to understand what has gone before has become even more acute.

The museum, through showcases and displays, takes the visitor back through time, with a gradual progression to the present.

"We are attempting to bring everything in the museum up to 1969 — from our archives, to actual displays of early life," said Museum Curator Mrs. Mary Plumpton.

Mrs. Plumpton is proud of the collection of original manuscripts that compose the museum's archives, which provides details about every facet of early life in the area.

"I hope that eventually the archives will be the ultimate source of information. At the present time, we are trying to add to our collection of books and manuscripts as much as possible," explained Mrs. Plumpton.

It is usually donations from the public that enable the museum to amass the history of the city and the county into a complete picture of early life in Canada with emphasis on the Quinte area.

"That is how our museum grows, by people who are interested," agreed Mrs. Plumpton.

"I think the general public realizes what we are trying to do, and that is preserve history. They realize anything they contribute will be carefully kept, to become a part of what the museum has to offer," she added.

Looking towards the future, Mrs. Plumpton foresees growth for the museum, particularly the archives.

The Hastings County Museum is the only significant source of reference between Napanee and Toronto, she will tell you.

"We have the largest archives between Queen's University and Toronto," remarked Mrs. Plumpton. "And this is precisely the part of the museum that is going to grow."

Mrs. Plumpton places particular value on what the museum has to offer students.

But the dream that Mrs. Plumpton hopes will soon become reality is that of a new museum building.

"The committees from the city and the county has been meeting for some time now, to decide the location of the new museum site," said Mrs. Plumpton.

Library Feeds 'Hungry' Readers

If a revolution has taken place by the communications media, you can't prove it at Corby Library.

Books are more popular than ever, judging by the circulation figures, and Bellevillians are voracious readers.

Total circulation of books in 1968 was 317,894, up in one decade by 127,810 over the 190,084 books circulated in 1958.

The public library operates on a budget of $160,657, provided by the Ontario and municipal governments. The largest share, $77,526 goes for salaries for 11 full-time and seven part-time staff members. There are about 10 student assistants. Three staff members are qualified librarians.

But statistics hardly tell the complete story of the library's service to Belleville and district.

It has expanded greatly in the last decade, with a large addition put on in 1959, and a complete floor renovated for a children's library last spring.

Service to children has always been one of the librarian's main aims, and weekly story hours are a regular feature.

Puppet shows are also scheduled and classes of school children take conducted tours of the facilities to learn about the books available for them. Youngsters from the retarded children's school attend in classes and the student nurses from Belleville General Hospital attend library sessions twice a year.

Through its membership in the regional library system a large inter-library loan and exchange is carried on. About 20 enquiries a week from smaller libraries in the district are answered by the Belleville staff and books are sent out on request.

The staff also draws on the resources of out-of-town libraries to serve students from the city. Through the inter-library loan system books have been brought to Belleville from as far away as Edmonton in answer to a specific enquiry. Books are regularly imported from the Queen's University Library and the Toronto Public Library for Belleville readers.

Corby Library is a member of the film federation of east ern Ontario, and through it receives a fresh supply of 50 new films every month to lend to organizations in the community. In addition, the library owns about 50 films of its own of particular interest to people of the district.

The regional library board is now compiling a regional film library, and has chosen Corby Library as the centre of distribution for the Quinte district. Initially it will provide children's films and reels for use with discussion groups.

Three new pieces of equipment, recently installed, will increase the library's usefulness to the community.

A microfilm reader allows subscribers to borrow films from the national archives and other sources and read the copies of historical documents. For those who wish to preserve the information, a microfilm reader printer is now available.

And for students, a photo copier has been installed, so they can make copies of reference material needed for school projects.

Future plans call for a west hill branch.

Sailing Delightful Pastime of Many Bellevillians

Activity, Involvement Key Words

As technological advancements and the ensuing extra time on the hands of the Canadian man and woman become more obvious, so too, grows the importance of recreation.

As man's working hours grow shorter his recreation time grows longer and the need for diversified activity which holds his interest grows more difficult to invent.

This, philosophically, is the problem of recreation commissions, and locally, the Belleville Recreation Commission.

And the local commission is doing its best to meet the challenge of finding things for people to do and organizing activities so that they can be done.

According to Lorne Williams director of the commission, there is more need for recreation because people are not working as much as they used to.

What is more, "the day of watching the one-eyed monster (television) is coming to an end," he said.

More and more, Mr. Williams feels, people are becoming part of two "factions", where recreation is concerned.

"There is the faction that is now interested in all kinds of recreation and there is the faction that couldn't care less."

And other community institutions such as education organizations are meeting the challenge with the commission.

In schools, students are taking more and more recreation subjects such as outdoor life, nature study and sporting activities like golf and archery.

There will always be a place for organizations like service clubs, recreation organizations and the YMCA.

"Private clubs like the Yacht Club add to the life of the community," said Mr. Williams.

Recreation now is moving towards all-level operation — offering cultural, athletic and educational recreation programs — and is emphasizing all age levels in its program considerations.

Any one from kindergarten age to senior citizen status has a number of recreational programs from which to choose.

There are theatre and beach organizations in which the recreation people are now becoming interested.

For senior citizens there are meetings twice a month and for casual membership people there are get-togethers twice a week. Activities include live entertainment and bus tours.

Again, culturally, there are band concerts with co-operation among the commission, the Belleville Federation of Musicians and the Intelligencer.

There are activities such as picnics — a co-operative activity through the commission and parks board.

Beautification and the creation of parks and parkettes provide beauty, relaxation and recreation through co-operation between the two organizations, the parks board and the recreation commission.

Now, through co-operation with the Hastings County Board of Education, plans have begun to build recreation facilities with school facilities and commission facilities making some local schools recreation areas.

Facilities such as ball diamonds and football fields and tennis courts are part of these plans.

On top of that the commission talks to people — a necessity of this era — about the activities in which citizens want to participate.

"We say to the citizen, tell us what you want," Mr. Williams said.

There are now adult sports such as baseball, hockey, tennis and others as well as minor sports like soccer, baseball and hockey.

Arena facilities and park facilities provide the commission with a larger recreation program.

With co-operation with the Quinte Arts Council there are other activities, such as ceramics, rug hooking, art and the camera club.

There's lots to do for everyone, providing modern man with the recreation escape he needs.

Hastings Highlands Rich Beauty Spot

The Highlands of Hastings Tourist Association has many resources from which to draw in attracting tourists to Hastings County — natural resources and historical resources. It is one of the original counties of Ontario, dating back to 1791. The first white settlers were the United Empire Loyalists who arrived in 1783. Belleville became the county town.

Hastings is rich in timber and minerals and is blessed with hundreds of lakes and streams abounding with fish and game.

Cottages and resorts dot the shores of the numerous lakes and the region offers ski slopes equipped with ski tows.

Prompted by the presence in Hastings of uranium, gold and iron mines, special events such as the Rock Hound Gemboree in Bancroft attract thousands of people from Canada and the United States.

The Highlands of Hastings Tourist Region, through efforts by the region's tourist association, is now a source of attraction to the tourist. It is the land of varied vacations with something to do every minute for every member of the family.

If the vacationer wants to hunt, or fish, sail or relax, there are 60 resorts with full facilities available.

For the other vacationers with different tastes there is swimming, shopping, provisions for camping and tenting, dancing, water-skiing and other outdoor games and aspects of the relaxed resort life.

The region is rich in history, home of the Indian whose downfall began with the coming of the white man. Indian history is largely legend, mostly unwritten. However, archeological finds, pictographs and Indian burial mounds and other evidences of their occupation are to be found in the area.

The County of Hastings carries more than its share of the early white man's history. The thousands of lakes and rivers which now attract the tourist also attracted the explorers, settlers and lumbermen, for water was their highway.

The latest project of the Highlands of Hastings Tourist Association is the promotion of winter sports and the attempt at making this region a tourist attraction for the entire year.

There are the now traditional winter sports such as skiing and skating.

Most cities and towns within the county and the region have indoor or outdoor skating rinks.

There is skiing at such well-known places as Oak Hills and there is curling at Trenton, Belleville and Marmora.

But the greatest breakthrough and probably the most popular new idea in winter fun is the growth in use of the snowmobile.

This region has established plans for a network of snowmobile trails in the country north of Belleville, enabling tourists to enjoy outdoor winter fun of all kinds.

The region also offers air facilities at Bancroft, Stirling, Tweed and Belleville.

But water is the important aspect of any tourist region and of course such is the case in the Highlands of Hastings.

The Moira River is the main watershed flowing to the south cradled in the forested areas of Tudor Township. The central parts of this waterway are famous for muskies, yielding trophy specimens each season.

The Moira River Conservation Authority has repaired and rebuilt the dams of early industry to maintain a steady flow of water still used by grist and saw mills.

The O'Hara Mill, just west of Madoc, has been authentically restored and attracts many to its demonstrations of sawing of the past.

The Vanderwater Conservation Park near Thomasburg is a pleasant haven for visitors. The conservation authority has added thousands of acres for reforestation by purchasing and replanting unproductive land.

A close watch is kept on the valley for ways to improve or maintain its natural resources.

PROGRESS FOR BELLEVILLE IN Home Appliances

Bud Gill started in the appliance field in 1947 . . . 22 years ago. He has seen appliances progress, for example from the wood cook stove to the all new concept in cooking — the Amana Micro-Wave Oven, which will completely cook a 5-lb roast in 37 minutes or a hamburger in 60 seconds.

Washing dishes has also undergone complete renovation — from washing by hand to completely automatic washing and drying in a KitchenAid Automatic Dishwasher.

Refrigeration is keeping up to date . . . from a 10 cu. ft. with just freezing capacity for ice cubes, to the Side by Side Refrigerator and Freezer that will hold up to 300 lbs. of frozen foods with a 14 cu. ft. storage space for food. All of it is completely Frost-Free and never needs defrosting.

Bud Gill has kept abreast of the new ideas and concepts by visiting the manufacturers and suggesting extras and items which will help the progress of the appliance industry as well as Television and Stereo. During his career as an appliance and TV dealer, he has seen the progress of Television from its infancy to the best in Color TV from the Philco-Ford industry. Philco-Ford, gives you color that is true to nature and sound that brings to your home the finest in entertainment.

By keeping up with the progress in these industries Bud Gill is able to give you the most dependable service and obtain the finest in products. This enables the consumer to choose from top quality merchandise and to get the most value for his money.

"Progress in Belleville" is Bud Gill's motto and he will continue to obtain and bring to the public all the new products and features that the industry can produce.

Proven Ability to Diversify Hugh Murray's 'Ace-in-the Hole'

Diversification of operations is always an ace in the hole for any commercial or business enterprise but as far as Hugh Murray Ltd. is concerned, it also means just that many more possibilities for expansion.

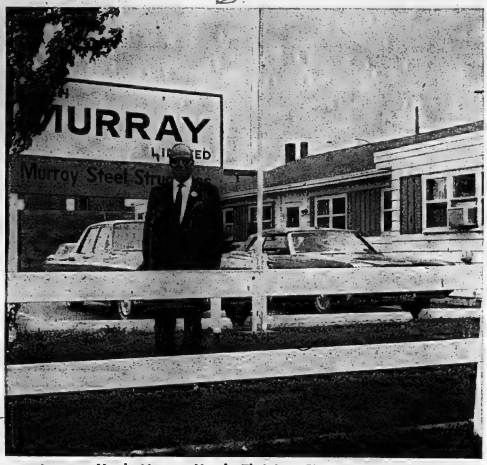
Commencing in a small way in the general contracting business back in 1950, the firm headed by Hugh Murray now employs up to 50 persons with the over-all operation divided into three separate companies.

The other two are Murray Equipment Company, involved in the rental and sales of construction equipment, and Murray Steel Structures which has the dealership for Armco steel buildings.

The parent firm, Hugh Murray Ltd., does a flourishing business in heavy construction with many of the schools, churches and institutional buildings in the Quinte area having been built by Mr. Murray.

Total sales in 19 years amount to more than $2 million.

Mr. Murray sees a big future for steel fabricated buildings which he says, lend themselves admirably to factory use and also for community arena structures.



The advantage of prefabricated steel buildings is that they are of cubiar type construction with standard wall heights which can be added to at any time without waste of construction materials.

The new arena at Frankford was a pre-fabricated structure erected by Hugh Murray Ltd. Steel Portable classrooms are also popular.

A native of the Toronto and Orillia area, Mr. Murray, with a lifetime of experience in construction, has nothing but praise for Belleville as well as high expectations for the future growth of the city.

"I can't speak too highly of Belleville," he says. "It is a good place to live and work."

Mr. Murray has proven his faith in Belleville through his involvement in community affairs. He is past president of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce and takes an active interest in many other organizations.

Co-ordinating Services During National Emergency EMO Job

In the vanguard of community service organizations in the Quinte district is a group geared to national emergencies - - which manages to make itself indispensable on a daily basis in most matters of local concern.

The Quinte district Emergency Measures Organization is set up to co-ordinate planning and operations in the event of a nuclear war, but its day-to-day activities go much further.

The organization maintains and operates a widespread radio communications network from Milford in Prince Edward County in the south to Bancroft in the north. On occasions of public celebrations or breakdown of regular lines of communication, EMO is always available to handle the emergency.

"Our task is to co-ordinate services in a national emergency or large natural disaster beyond the scope of the regular police, fire and other public agencies," says EMO co-ordinator Lieut.-Col. Angus Duffy.

But big parades, walkathons and rallies give the organization an opportunity to conduct training exercises and render a valuable public service at the same time.

"Chief threats in this area are spring flooding of the Moira River at Belleville and the danger of aircraft accidents because of the proximity of airfields to the city," says Col. Duffy.

EMO exercises and training are geared to the eventuality of such natural emergencies, as well as to the nuclear threat.

In 1968, EMO trained 700 people in the district in various aspects of emergency service. The organization has qualified 290 radio operators, who must pass tests set by the government, and also qualified 120 people as radiological monitors. They are now qualified to use the $25,000 worth of instruments installed in the area to measure radioactivity.

Every spring, EMO conducts reviews, briefings, and exercises on the Belleville flood plan, designed to reduce to a minimum the dislocation of services and people in the event of another major flood.

"Walkathons are training exercises for us too" says Col. Duffy. "Because in an emergency we might have to move large numbers of people by foot, we use the walkathons to train our staff in moving and handling massive crowds."

Although EMO officials regard their participation in community events as merely trial runs for serious disasters, the organization is recognized as an important factor in ensuring accident free events in the Quinte district.

Affiliated with EMO is the Piston Pushers Motorcycle Club, who, with other cyclists in the district, form a dispatch riders' group for EMO.

Throughout the year, Col. Duffy and his staff conduct general orientation courses for municipal officials in their function and role in emergency situations. They work with fire departments, police, engineers, public works and utilities workers, health and welfare organizations.

EMO is a department of the municipal governments of Hastings and Prince Edward counties. Col. Duffy and his secretary are the only paid members of the staff. Al Pinder, deputy co-ordinator, Jules Caine, of Trenton, communications officer, and A. Ford, of Milford, in charge of instruction, are all volunteers.

Citizens of the Quinte community have learned to depend on EMO in times of communication breakdown.

When a natural gas pipe line exploded in a remote area and the resulting calls from frightened spectators jammed telephone lines, EMO was there.

It was there last winter, in Bancroft, to maintain communications over its radio network when a blizzard flattened telephone lines.

Its familiar emergency rescue truck and radio - equipped cars have become a necessary adjunct to community festivities, hopefully training for the major emergency its staff hopes never will come.

"Truly amazing!"

Henry Corby arrived in Belleville from England with his wife about 1832. Buying and selling grain led him to open a grist mill in 1857, and two years later, a distillery. Farmers would bring their grain to be ground and would leave a part of their grain with him as payment for a "crock" of whisky. And so the word of Corby's quality whiskies spread far and wide.

If Henry Corby were alive today, he would be somewhat amazed by some of the changes that have taken place. Today, Corby's "Home of Good Spirits" covers an area of some 23 acres, with more than 80 buildings housing the Corby operation. It is one of the largest and most modern distilleries in the British Commonwealth. Corby Park and Library would also delight him, no doubt.

But most of all, Henry Corby would probably be amazed at the growth of the little town near where he located. For Belleville has enjoyed a phenomenal growth, as other industries have been attracted to its hospitable environment. And certainly, if Henry Corby could return some years hence, he would see an even greater growth as others find a happy home near friendly Belleville.

Defence Minister Cadieux Points to Memorial Design

RCAF Honors Heroes

By Elmer Bonter
Staff Reporter

TRENTON (Staff) — The better the day, the better the deed is how Canada's Defence Minister looked upon the joint Battle of Britain parade and RCAF Memorial design unveiling at the Canadian Forces Base here yesterday.

"Today we do not only pay solemn and sincere tribute to the gallant few, but we are here to mark the reaching of an important milestone in the long process of turning a splendid idea into a splendid reality," the Hon. Leo Cadieux told visitors and officials.

Then he referred to the sweeping changes his department made in the structure of the regular forces.

"So, what's wrong with underground nuclear tests?"

Hawaii Fears A-test

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (Reuters) — A group of Hawaiian legislators, here for a detailed briefing by the United States Atomic Energy Commission, has requested a 30-day postponement of Thursday's underground nuclear blast pending further study.

The Alaskan Legislative Council also issued a guarded protest, expressing concern and opposing the detonation of any nuclear device whose power exceeds naturally-occurring seismic disturbances. The council asked to be represented at the test site during the blast and to make its own evaluations.

The AEC has scheduled a weapons — testing explosion, called Milrow, for 1 p.m. Alaska Daylight Time (6 p.m. EDT), Thursday on Amchitka Island in the Aleutians. The device will have a power of slightly over one megaton.

Because the island is in one of the world's greatest seismic areas — near the Aleutian Trench — Hawaiians, Alaskans and North Pacific coast residents fear the blast may set off a natural [illegible] quakes and a possible seismic tidal wave. Seismic [illegible] have in the past caused serious damage and loss of life in Hawaii, Alaska and certain Canadian and western U.S. cities.

NPD Fails To Win A Seat

BONN (CP) — West Germany's Social Democratic party said today it plans to form a governing coalition with the Liberal Free Democratic party, a move that would make Foreign Minister Willy Brandt the country's next chancellor.

The Social Democrats issued a statement saying Brandt had decided to ask the Free Democrats to form a coalition.

After Sunday's general election, the two parties have a 12-man majority in the next Bundestag (lower house).

A record number of voters decisively rejected the ultra-rightist National Democratic party, which some critics have called neo-Nazi.

A coalition between the Social Democrats and the Free Democrats would end the 20-year Christian Democratic domination of West German politics that began when the federal republic was formed in 1949.

There was no word immediately from the Free Democrats.

Theoretically they could still form a coalition with the Christian Democrats, but leaders of the Free Democrats indicated before the election they would prefer sharing a coalition with the Social Democrats.

The old government will resign Oct. 20.

Brandt's Social Democrats were the only party to gain in Sunday's elections, the most dramatic since the federal republic was formed 20 years ago.

Mother, Son Unharmed

Montreal Mayor's Home Bombed

MONTREAL (CP) — A powerful bomb, estimated by police to have the equivalent power of 20 sticks of dynamite, exploded at the east-end Rosemount home of Mayor Jean Drapeau early today.

Mrs. Drapeau and her 21-year-old son Michel, asleep upstairs in the two-storey residence at the time, were not injured by the blast that shattered windows two streets away.

Mayor Drapeau was at his restaurant, Le Vaisseau d'Or—The Golden Vessel—when the bomb exploded about 5:15 a.m. He reached home shortly after 6 a.m. and immediately asked if anyone was hurt.

The bomb shattered the rear of the grey stucco and wood-trimmed dwelling, built 20 years ago at a cost of $14,000. Additions had been made to the house on rue des Plaines since.

The force of the blast tore a gaping home in the foundation and broke every window of the house.

The mayor told reporters the house appeared to be a total loss. Walls were split, the foundation cracked and floors had heaved, he said, and his preliminary estimate was that the house would have to be rebuilt.

Police, who had ended a 14-hour surveillance of the residence a week ago, said the bomb was placed at the bottom of rear steps leading to the basement. Bicycles, sports equipment and household articles and furniture were scattered.

Window frames, screens and a canvas canopy were thrown across the backyard and high into trees.

Police surveillance of the Drapeau home began during last summer's reign of terrorist bombings in Montreal.

Mrs. Drapeau and their son, Michel were on the top level of the two-storey house, but escaped injury although the roof was damaged.

Interviewed later, she said: "I was prepared and expected this for a long time."

The house is on a tree-lined rue des Plaines in Cite Jardin, an area which has no sidewalks yet.

After inspecting his house, the mayor said:

"It seems that the damage makes the house a complete ruin.

"There is no doubt that people in public life are exposed to this sort of thing. Now, accepting to serve in public life is accepting this, unfortunately."

Tricky Balancing Act

Inflation Controls Feared

HALIFAX (CP) — Government-imposed controls over the Canadian economy in a bid to dampen inflationary fires must be avoided at all costs, the Canadian Chamber of Commerce was told Sunday.

General Manager C. H. Scofield told the opening session of the chamber's 40th annual meeting that such controls add to distortions in the economy and create more problems than they can solve.

He said the bureaucratic setup needed to operate such controls is hard to undo once it has been established.

While agreeing that inflationary pressures in the economy must be stopped, Mr. Scofield said the best that can be hoped for "in sufficient voluntary restraint to create some uncertainty into the outlook and to lower the inflation temperature by several degrees."

He said, however, that trying to cool the economy in an effort to reduce inflationary pressures is a tricky balancing act.

Monetary restraints now being used by the Bank of Canada could create a financial crisis long before increases in costs and prices slow enough to justify a shift to easier money.

"Also, because new labor and other resources are becoming available we could develop slack in the economy, including a rise in unemployment.

"There is a danger that the response to this slack will be a too-rapid shift to expansion in monetary and fiscal policy.

"This would reinforce the inflationary expectations of consumers and businessmen."

Dubcek Demoted But Not Banished

PRAGUE (CP) — Conservative hardliners today were firmly entrenched in the hierarchy of the Czechoslovak Communist party after purging Alexander Dubcek and disgracing his reform regime.

The Communist bosses, toeing the pro-Soviet line, approved the Soviet-led Warsaw pact invasion last year and promised a sweeping party shakeup of "social organizations, state and economic apparatus, science and culture."

The party announced Sunday night that former party leader Dubcek, 47, had been removed from the presidium of the party and from the central committee.

Also announced was a new administration put together by Premier Oldrich Cernik after the resignation of his government Saturday. The new cabinet included a complete purge of all economic ministers linked with the 1968 liberalization movement to decentralize the economy.

Nine cabinet members were thrown out or had their jobs abolished. Only Premier Cernik and President Ludvig Svoboda remain among the ranking officials from the reform era.

Belleville Celebrates

By Harry Mulhall, Staff Reporter

Belleville Week today turned over a new leaf in its program of civic celebrations.

The big co-operative production enters a new phase after an energetic, events-full weekend — grounded and airborne.

Sunday saw scores of aircraft swarming across the district from around Southern Ontario as the Belleville Flying Club staged a massive, aerial treasure hunt.

The weather was perfect — despite a tongue-in-cheek touch Saturday that had unexpected results. A mock rain dance, staged by Tyendinaga Mohawks as their contribution to the community festival, was washed out when the weather changed — to rain!

Today, the key event — climaxing the fourth day of activity — will be a civic reception and dinner with Provincial Secretary Robert Welch as guest speaker.

The formal highlight will be followed by a public dance in Bleecker auditorium at Exhibition Park.

Earlier Belleville Week was scheduled to:

- Entertain the mayors of three United States' municipal namesakes — corporations named Belleville in Illinois, Michigan and New Jersey.
- Welcome former aldermen and mayors of the city — approximately 60 in all — at a city hall reception.
- Take senior citizens and the general public on Chamber-of-Commerce-sponsored bus tours to city landmarks.
- Stage the world's first frog pentathlon.

The pentathlon, a light touch on the day's program, is billed for 8 p.m. at Market Square and will see the challengers hop along through five athletic events. Coach-managers will be the visiting U.S. mayors and Mayor Russell Scott.

Renowned Hip Implant Surgeon Given MacDonald Memento

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

Peter Ring, the British surgeon who flew to Belleville to demonstrate his hip implant technique to Canadian doctors, has at least one permanent—and distinguished—memento of the Quinte district.

It comes from Manly MacDonald, a dean of Canadian artists.

Mr. MacDonald has personally presented Mr. Ring with a painting of a Quinte scene.

The presentation came Saturday night at a Belleville Week banquet in Bleecker Auditorium.

Earlier in the day Mr. Ring demonstrated on closed-circuit television at Belleville General Hospital the technique he developed for replacing arthritic hip joints with metal ball and socket substitutes.

A British plant of Deloro Stellite, Belleville, manufactures produces the chrome cobalt alloy used for manufacturing the substitutes.

At the banquet, Mr. Ring complimented hospital and medical teams assisting him for their efficiency. He commended the unobtrusiveness of the closed - circuit coverage — carried on television installations loaned by Loyalist College.

"It has become very clear that this type of pollution, together with other forms of air pollution, must be dealt with in a positive manner without delay, and I and other members of the Opposition will be encouraging the government very hard during the approaching session of parliament for action in this regard.

Low-Interest Government Loans Needed to Fight Pollution: Hees

CAMPBELLFORD — The federal government should provide low-interest loans to municipalities and industries for anti-pollution measures, says the Hon. George Hees.

Speaking to a noon luncheon of the Campbellford Rotary Club, he said:

"The proposed Canada Water Act is a long-overdue move in the right direction: However, it will be a success only if the federal government is able to persuade the provinces to work with it in a constructive way to achieve the elimination of pollution of our waters in all parts of the country.

"The proposed bill contains many of the suggestions that have been put forward by the Opposition during recent years and I feel sure that the measures the bill proposes will be generally supported by all members of parliament.

"Good though this start is, I believe that there is an important matter which appears to have been forgotten by the government — that of assisting industries and municipalities to bear the heavy cost of installing the expensive machinery required for the removal of bacteria from waste.

"As pollution is a national problem, I believe that it is the duty of the federal government to give assistance which is both practical and possible. The kind of assistance I have in mind would be the same kind which the government gave during the last war in industry to enable it to get into war production. That assistance took the form of low interest loans and fast write-offs. Under today's conditions, I believe that loans at five per cent and a three-year write-off period are both reasonable and necessary.

"Such assistance is particularly needed by small industries which have not had the opportunity to establish themselves on a firm financial basis, and today have to pay very high rates of interest for their loans. To such industries in particular, the heavy burden of installing this kind of non - productive producing equipment might, very easily, be a crippling blow. Such assistance would be a great help to all industries and municipalities which must install this kind of equipment, and would be a great incentive to its rapid installation. Without its installation, our waters will continue to be polluted at the present alarming rate.

"Although the government, by introducing its Canada Water Bill, is making a constructive move in the direction of eliminating water pollution, there has yet been no word of any move by the federal government to rid our air of the poisonous gases which are becoming a growing danger, particularly to our large cities.

"A great deal was heard dur-

Memorial Great Tourist Attraction

By ELMER BONTER
Staff Reporter

TRENTON — The RCAF Memorial was designed essentially as a great tourist attraction.

Designer Victor Prus described his work for Leo Cadieux, minister of national defence who unveiled the design here yesterday, as "a building with three distinctive faces."

On approaching the building through the memorial gates the appearance is entirely different — the building serves as a foyer to dramatize the sky — a dominant feature at Stonehenge in England where monster stones piled there by the Druids remain today as one of man's great unsolved mysteries.

Then there is the concept of the oriented eternal laser beam which is a central focal point serving in tradition to honor the dead.

The pilot experience gained by the designer in the Second World War served him well in producing the winning model. His aviator's background gave him a very personal insight into flying. Its history and its future.

His expression of an aviation memorial embodied a living memorial paying solemn tribute to the past while providing functional, ecclesiastical and other facilities for the use and enjoyment of all Canadians.

The memorial building comprising more than 50,000 square feet together with all its furnishings, displays and landscaping will cost $3,600,000. It will cover one acre of the 35-acre site set aside by the department of national defence south of Middleton Park. The remainder of the property will be developed into a beautiful park.

Trenton was chosen as the location for the memorial by a majority of 77 per cent of the people who were sent a questionnaire regarding construction of the memorial. It was revealed at a news conference with the defence minister after the unveiling ceremony.

The campaign to raise funds for the building phase of the project is already underway, with donations so far very encouraging.

The 250,000 airmen and airwomen who served with the RCAF in the Second World War are being contacted for contributions.

Corporations throughout Canada will be approached for help with the financing.

The date of the sod turning to signal the start of construction is a decision the fund raising committee will make.

Once the memorial has been completed and is functional the expense of maintenance and a small staff will be considered. In most projects of this nature the federal government provides continuing care.

"Canadian aviation will be sketches in color of the various points of interest, draws attention to the fact, the memorial was not conceived as a shrine or cenotaph to catch dust.

"Canadian aviation will be portrayed through the use of symbols, paintings, models and electronic techniques. Here it will be possible for the visitor to isolate and identify individual squadrons, units, unusual feats and special episodes.

"It is planned that the Hall of History will be a changing scene, keeping pace with the evolution of aerospace techniques, thus the return visitor will witness new horizons as time unfolds."

Open to the public at all times, it is visualized that the memorial will excite the interest of young and old throughout the nation. Students at all school and university levels will find its displays and facilities helpful in their quest for knowledge.

Adjacent to the memorial hall and the hall of history will be an activities area for the use of groups from across the province for assemblies, symposia, concerts and similar functions.

From this area access will be gained to chapel facilities and administrative areas.

Thus one can visualize, even now, the concept is in the nature of a memorial that it will gather its strength and durability from the continual flow of contemporary activity to which the design is suited."

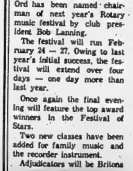
Music Festival Lengthened Robert Ord New Chairman

Belleville lawyer Robert J. Ord has been named chairman of next year's Rotary music festival by club president Bob Lansing.

The festival will run February 24 — 27. Owing to last year's initial success, the festival will extend over four days — one day more than last year.



Once again the final evening will feature the top award winners in the Festival of Stars.

Two new classes have been added for family music and the recorder instrument.

Adjudicators will be Britons Sidney Harrison and Ranken Bushby.

The festival syllabus will be available about October 1 from music stores in Belleville, the Chamber of Commerce, or from the festival committee, C/O R. J. Ord, 8 Sunset Drive, Belleville.

Mr. Ord is a director of the Rotary Club as well as the United Community Services and Community Concerts Association. He is also a member of the executive of the Canadian Club of Belleville.

Hunter Wounds Himself

PICTON (Staff) — A Scarborough man vacationing at his father's home, RR 4 Picton, was taken to Belleville General Hospital Saturday afternoon following a shooting accident.

Randy Needham accidently shot himself in the foot with a .22 calibre rifle while hunting.

Amateur Talent Needed

"A trip to New York is a possibility for amateur talent from the Quinte area if the standards of the Ted Mack Show are met," said Diane Aitken this morning.

Mrs. Aitken, a member of the Quinte Arts Council and co-ordinator of the amateur talent auditions this coming Wednesday, said this morning there are still some spots available during the audition hours.

"There is no guarantee that one of the acts will go," said Mrs. Aitken, "but obviously Mr. Marx would not be making the trip here if he wasn't hoping that some one would fit in to a future show."

"It is easy to get an audition. All that is necessary is to telephone city hall during working hours 968-6481 or 967-1442 between seven and nine o'clock tonight or my home number 962-9426."

Top Talent Will Win $100 Bond

The show, at Centennial Secondary School, will be based on auditions held by a talent scout from the Ted Mack Amateur Hour Show.

The winning performer will receive a $100 savings bond donated by Allied Chemical.

Meantime, bookings are still coming in for the pre-show auditions scheduled for Wednesday at Belleville Theatre Guild's Pinnacle Playhouse.

(The production is being organized jointly by the Guild and the Quinte Arts Council).

However, more local talent is still being sought.

Gala Parade Highlighted Saturday's Belleville Week Festivities

By LINDA GELDART
Staff Reporter

Things were happening in Belleville over the weekend — with everyone trying to keep up the pace.

Earlier in the day, 100 surgeons viewed the artificial hip implant operation performed at Belleville General Hospital by Mr. Peter Ring of the United Kingdom.

Anyone with an eye for a bargain was right at home at the Theatre Guild's Pinnacle Playhouse, where a rummage sale was in progress — "with depression prices the name of the game", as the Guild's artistic director, Roy Higgins put it.

While many of the organizations in the city put together their own projects for Belleville Week, the majority of the activities had to be worked out so they would pay for themselves.

"With the word "austerity" ringing in everyone's ears, a limited budget for the Industrial Commission meant there would be no money from city hall for the project", explained Ald. Gerald Joyce, a member of the Belleville Week Committee.

"You might say the idea behind Belleville Week was that it would be done on a do-it-yourself basis" he commented.

Assisting organizers financially in Saturday's ventures — the parade and the reception afterwards — were two local companies — Quinte Home Builders and Moira - Schuster Ltd.

Jim Driscoll, manager of Moira - Schuster Ltd. is greatly interested in Belleville Week and what organizers have been attempting to do for the city.

"I have been very impressed with what the Belleville Week Committee is doing — I think it was a great idea, and all have done a fantastic job," he emphasized.

"When you want to sell anything — and sell it big, to do good for the entire community, you have to support the efforts being made," added Mr. Driscoll.

This support brought enjoyment to the hundreds of children who came out to watch the parade, and helped give Belleville Week a start in the right direction.

Men about to marry

How a young man can build a flexible program of life insurance to suit his changing needs – with London Life

2. Premiums are lower, and you can accumulate more savings, if you start your London Life program at a young age.

3. Finally, your London Life program can help you retire comfortably—down south perhaps? At age 65, or earlier, you may choose a guaranteed retirement income, a lump sum in cash, or continuing protection.

If you plan to get married this fall, or next spring, you should be thinking right now about the insurance you'll need.

In fact, there are some practical and economic reasons for starting your program as soon as possible.

Start when you're young

The cost of life insurance is based mainly on age. So the younger you are, the smaller the cost. And, importantly, the larger your savings will grow.

For example, at age 24, you can buy a $15,000 Jubilee policy* for about $21 a month to which you can add a number of flexible features: –

a. You can include an option that gives you an income should you have a long illness or a serious accident.

b. You can arrange for London Life to pay your premiums for as long as you are disabled.

c. Another option lets you add a further $15,000 of Jubilee insurance at age 27. And up to age 40 you can add another $15,000 every 3 years—regardless of your health or occupation.

2. You can add extra protection after children are born. You could also start a savings plan to make certain there'll be money for their education.

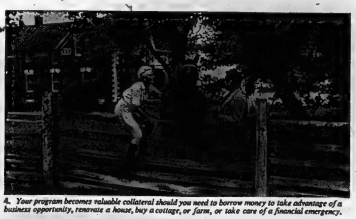
Protection for your children

Three years after you marry you become a father and need to provide more protection.

No problem at all. You can take advantage of the third option mentioned above. Or you could consider another feature that is very inexpensive. This makes sure that if you die your family will have a regular income until the children are 18—or any age you choose. (This income is on top of your total amount of insurance.)

These are some more examples of how your original London Life policy can be tailored to provide just the right amount of insurance, for the right length of time, at a reasonable cost.



Mortgage insurance

Now you're 30 years old and you buy a house. Your insurance can help you borrow money.

And you can add insurance to cover the unpaid portion of the mortgage if you should die. This ensures there'll be money so your wife can decide, in her own time, where she wants to live.

Reduce your income tax

Although retirement seems a long way off when you're in your 20's, it will cross your mind more frequently in your 30's.

4. Your program becomes valuable collateral should you need to borrow money to take advantage of a business opportunity, renovate a house, buy a cottage, or farm, or take care of a financial emergency.

3. If you buy a house, you may wish to consider adding a low-cost feature which, if you should die, will pay off your mortgage.

You'll probably be earning a higher salary by then, and you could add a further $15,000 of Jubilee insurance and consider registering it with the government as a Retirement Savings Plan.

This could give you a handsome deduction on your income tax!

Valuable collateral for loans

You now have a very good program of protection, guaranteed savings, and a retirement fund.

In fact, you can borrow a considerable sum of money without any problem.

This could be useful if you decide to take advantage of a business opportunity. Or, you can use your insurance as collateral to help borrow money to meet a financial emergency, buy a cottage, or renovate the house.

Your program can be adjusted

As your circumstances change, the amount of insurance you own may be varied to fit these circumstances. If your needs for insurance are reduced, the amount of insurance can be adjusted.

Or you may find you need more insurance—to protect a business investment or new home. If you have chosen a special dividend option, your dividends can provide additional "paid-up" insurance without increasing your premium.

Valuable fund for retirement

You can use your insurance to help you retire early. Or, at age 65, you can choose between these options.

a. You can continue the full amount of protection with no further premiums to pay.

b. You can take out a lump sum in cash. And, if you'd left your dividends to accumulate, they would add substantially to your retirement fund.

c. You can choose a guaranteed income to supplement the Government Pension Plan or other retirement funds you may have.

The flexible one

As you can see, there are a good many ways a London Life program can be tailored to provide the protection and savings you need at any time in your life.

The important thing is to start your program when you are young and in good health.

It doesn't have to cost very much. And you get a solid financial foundation for the whole of your life. Talk to older men and you'll appreciate the need for such a program.

We suggest you look into "the flexible one" from London Life—where you get more than you expect from life insurance.

FREE: A booklet called "Plain talk about life insurance" describes the many ways a London Life program can be tailored to your individual needs. Write to Dept. 300A, London Life Insurance Company, 255 Dufferin Avenue, London 12, Ontario.

Focus on Belleville

Belleville Week is under way and it is an occasion of which every citizen can be proud.

Bold in concept and reflecting many hours of work to make it as comprehensive and representative as possible, the eight days of activity culminating next Friday promise to be as memorable a period as the city has witnessed.

Much has been happening in Belleville in recent months. The tempo of industrial progress has been quickening. More plants have been established and there are prospects of still further commercial development. This city is ideally situated for such development—halfway between the major centres of Toronto and Montreal. Moreover it has the added advantage of proximity to beaches, camping grounds and some of the finest scenery in the province. In short, a perfect setting for industry and the good life in an age of growing leisure.

The focus today then is on Belleville, Ontario. Possibly no other city of its size in Canada has so much going for it just now. It is a week of wholesome activity and everyone is involved, from the young on up.

The city has many distinguished visitors on this occasion and today in particular we extend a welcome to the chief citizens of Belleville—Illinois; Belleville, Michigan, and Belleville, New Jersey. We are glad to have them with us. By their presence they are cementing both inter-city and international relations.

It only remain for us to urge everyone to take full advantage of this great week in the city's history. Like Expo on a national scale in 1967, these eight days should bring us all closer together while at the same time making Belleville's name known abroad.

Student Radicalism

University of Toronto President Claude Bissell's confrontation with student radicals upset by the prospect of expulsion through involvement in student demonstrations marks another round in this continuing battle between students and legitimate authority.

The student rowdies who heckled Mr. Bissell with shouts of "liar" and "fascist" contained the usual proportion of long-hairs and leather jackets, including members of a body called the New Left caucus.

The political concepts of these youths are as barren as their mode of dress and general appearance are unspect. They are individualizable for example, with the demonstrators who mobbed police officers outside a Chicago court where eight persons were on trial last week for conspiring to promote riots during the 1968 Democratic National Convention.

This matter of dress is not without significance. Frequently it betokens some form of psychological disturbance that expresses itself in mob manifestations of this type.

Change in society is necessary and will come through natural evolution. It is when student radicalism, fostered by the New Left and others of the same persuasion, attempt through mob pressure to accelerate this process that the social order breaks down.

The mob, as Irish author St. John Ervine has pointed out, is "a weak and brainless thing." That analysis is being confirmed in many parts of the Western world today. Change we need, but radicalism run riot we can do without.

Youthful Talent

The early formative years of an individual's life are the most important with regard to his ultimate character. It is then that the natural development of a child must be nurtured and nourished by quickening his interest in the world around him.

It is then that his creative instincts begin to come into play. And what better example could be afforded than that of the three Belleville youngsters who have given their school a boost by creating a crest and motto.

The pupils are Barbara Nickel, Stanley Rymers and Tami Simard and their school is Park Dale where principal Wright gave his students the opportunity to do their thing, as the modern idiom has it. The motto and crest is just one of many interesting projects the school has encouraged for its student body.

Other city schools have similar marks of achievement and these ones at Park Dale are good examples. They are the kind of initiative needed to foster school spirit and creativeness.

Northern Ontario Visit

Prime Minister's Fact-Finding Forays Across Canada

By KEN CLARK

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau has managed to escape the Ottawa ivory tower a fair bit since his June 25, 1968, election victory.

Since then he's been on the road for 72 days on domestic visits not counting his current flying visit to Northern Ontario. The basic pattern has been for the prime minister to leave the capital as often as possible to meet and converse with people and local officials in different parts of the country.

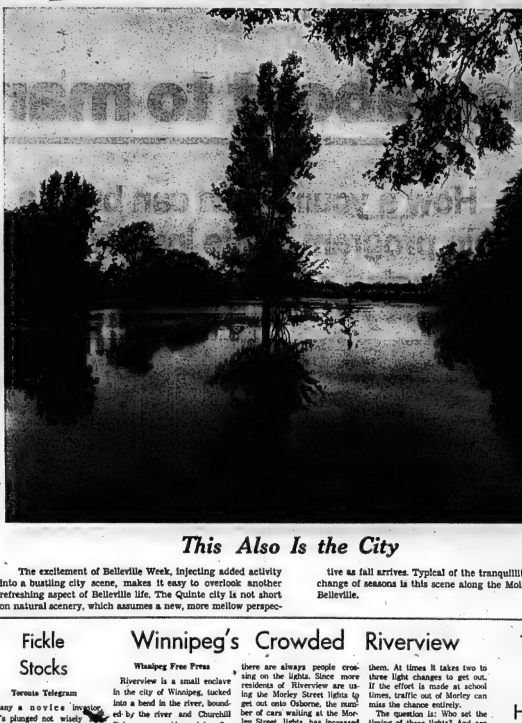
Part of the plan has been to avoid ceremonial occasions wherever possible despite pressure from the localities he visits who tend to want to do the traditional thing and lay on something formal.

The over-all aim is to try to permit Mr. Trudeau to sample the mood of the region he visits. It's assumed he cannot do this well by delivering set-piece speeches and signing city hall guest books.

As a result, town meetings where he can field questions have become in vogue. The formal things still happen of course despite efforts to downplay them.

Another part of the Trudeau travel plan is to resist the continuing temptation to visit the big cities. They are easier to get to than out-of-the-way places.

And a major big-city speech to a business organization commands considerably more attention in the communications media than a foray into the countryside. Great impact and a national audience is all but assured.



But there are voters in smaller cities and small towns too. The Liberal theory is that Mr. Trudeau will lose no political yards by going to the smaller places.

Since the election, Mr. Trudeau has made 18 different trips into the central provinces of Ontario and Quebec for a total of 37 days. He's spent 20 days in the western provinces, eight in the Maritimes and has also made a seven-day trip into the Northwest Territories.

The trips can sometimes be as short as half a day, although they tend to run longer, a day or two perhaps. The seven-day northern trip was unusually long as was the seven-day western trip last summer when he had to fend off hostile farmers.

Aides suggest it is difficult for Mr. Trudeau to get any kind of a real feeling for a region in a short hop. Some consideration is being given to the idea of travelling less often, but taking longer trips.

On a longer trip, the pace would be slower and the whole thing more relaxed. There would be a little time to look around.

This Also Is the City

The excitement of Belleville Week, injecting added activity into a bustling city scene, makes it easy to overlook another refreshing aspect of Belleville life. The Quinte city is not short on natural scenery, which assumes a new, more mellow perspective as fall arrives. Typical of the tranquillity induced by the change of seasons is this scene along the Moira River in north Belleville.

Fickle Stocks

Toronto Telegram

Many a novice investor who's plunged not wisely but penny stocks, has had but one skimpy consolation at the end of his adventure: Possession of a set of ornate engraved stock certificates.

Canadian rural tradition is that such ornamental but worthless documents have been customarily shed to paper the walls of tool sheds or small farm buildings. There they served as a conspicuous deterrent to future financial folly.

Even this minute benefit may be denied the market loser of the future. The Association of Stock Exchange Firms and the American Bankers Association have recommended adoption of small, standard machine-readable punch card certificates.

Who'd want to paper an outbuilding with machine cards?

Winnipeg's Crowded Riverview

Winnipeg Free Press

Riverview is a small enclave in the city of Winnipeg, tucked into a bend in the river, bounded by the river and Churchill Drive on one side and by Osborne Street on the other.

Osborne Street going south now leads to route 120, which leads into the Trans — Canada highway. Osborne is therefore a very busy street. The people who live in Riverview have reason to know it. Traffic on Osborne is so heavy that it is difficult to get out of Riverview unless the motorist relies on traffic lights and they are at the intersection of Morley and Osborne.

Anyone who times these lights will discover that the green light on Osborne lasts for one minute and 20 seconds. The light on Morley that enables the residents of Riverview to escape into the stream of traffic, lasts for 20 seconds.

But this is also a busy intersection. It is also a school crossing. It lets out of Riverview to shopping centres. Therefore there are always people crossing on the lights. Since more residents of Riverview are using the Morley Street lights to get out onto Osborne, the number of cars waiting at the Morley Street lights has increased steadily. The result is that there is time for an average of two cars to get out into Osborne before the lights turn against them. At times it takes two to three light changes to get out. If the effort is made at school times, traffic out of Morley can miss the chance entirely.

The question is: Who set the timing of these lights? And are they set on the assumption that the residents of Riverview have no rights, or rights inferior to the flow of traffic on Osborne?

Those Sex Surveys

Letter to Hamilton Spectator

Congratulations to Mrs. Brune Parisette of Burlington for her courage in expressing her objection to the sickening sex survey conducted in the Halton county school which her grade nine daughter attended.

There are altogether too many so-called "sex surveys" that are so suggestive that for any parent to allow them in their children's schools with a "I-could-care-less" attitude is simply inviting trouble.

Surely we can learn from such "sex-free" countries as Sweden and Finland, etc., that such so-called sex instruction leads immature young people into serious involvements resulting in a high illegitimate rate and also a high rate of venereal disease, plus a frightening suicide rate. I suppose we shall soon be following Sweden's example and have our bubblegum machines degenerate into supplying contraceptives on every street corner!

Speculation Over Mao's Health

Kremlin Indulges in Diplomatic Gamesmanship

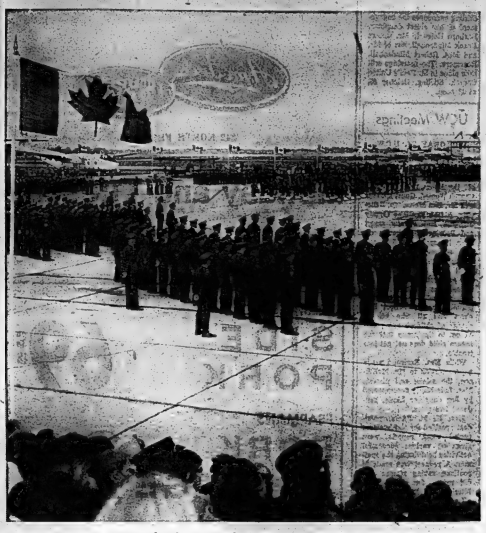
By WILLIAM L. RYAN
Associated Press Staff Writer

Moscow's odd denial that Il knows anything about Mao Tse-tung's health suggests that it may, in fact, know something about what is going on in China: Perhaps a jockeying for position in advance of a power struggle yet to come in Peking.

Soviet officialdom used the device of a cocktail party—strictly for non-Western correspondents—to spread the word that rumors about Mao attributed to Soviet sources were "provocative." By that, it may mean that those who spread such reports are trying to arouse new Peking suspicions of the Kremlin.

If there are factions maneuvering in Peking in anticipation of Mao's retirement from the scene, Moscow may not want to rock the boat. The Kremlin may be hopeful that a new group will emerge in China with which the Russians can talk business.

The Russians must be as aware as anybody that some sort of struggle still is going on in China, and that there are signs it is heating up. Upon the outcome can depend whether Peking's hostility to the Kremlin is increased or moderated.



The Kremlin interprets the belligerence of China as a manifestation of deep political trouble, and it may be right. China will celebrate on Oct. 1 the 20th anniversary of its founding. As usual for such Communist celebrations, a selection of slogans was published for the guidance of the masses on that day.

Of the 29 slogans, four bear down heavily on the possibility of war, including atomic war, and single out the Soviet Union as a potential enemy in that conflict. Three slogans directly attack Soviet "revisionism" and "social imperialism," a phrase intended to indicate Moscow designs on Chinese territory. Only three slogans salute Mao and Mao's "thought."

The tenor of this propaganda suggests to the Russians that the regime in Peking is in trouble and that thus it must have the nearby threat of catastrophe —such as war with a big neighbor—to keep the nation from falling apart.

If Mao Tse-tung is in failing health, or if he and his anointed successor, Defence Minister Lin Piao, should be losing their grip, another grim power struggle would seem inevitable, like the one which took place under the guise of Mao's "cultural revolution."

"So, we have tightened our belts once again. We have come up with what I think is the minimum force compatible with our national aspirations.

"We have made our decisions with the best advice available — listening to the airman, the soldier and the sailor, but listening to them as one force rather than three; solving the problem as one problem rather than three.

"And I think we have come up with the best solution under the circumstances.

"Certainly this hasn't been easy and it hasn't been easy to be the responsible minister at this time. But it had to be done and we did it the best way we knew how. I am sure you wouldn't expect anything less of us.

"Let me talk directly to you, the airmen in the assembly here today. Somewhat like the airmen in the Battle of Britain, you haven't got all you want, or perhaps need, to do your job. You may even feel you have been let down. But you are airmen. You will do your best, and a little bit more.

"And you will continue to be a source of great pride to all who know you — your fellow countrymen.

Then, speaking about the memorial (later he pledged his full support) he said "that the idea is splendid we all know. Certainly there should be a memorial to Canada's airmen of yesterday. I wonder why it has taken us so long to get around to doing it?

"But what makes this idea different than merely the justifiable recognition of a great historical contribution is that this memorial will not stop there. Like the spirit of airmen it will be a living thing; a living memorial that will stand not only in testimony for those that have gone before but will serve to inspire airmen of today, and of tomorrow. In fact, I predict this memorial will become a part of the very fabric of Canadian military aviation. That is what makes it a splendid idea."

"I am sure, because I know something of the competition leading up to the selection of the design. I know that nearly 100 leading Canadian architects turned from their busy occupations to enter this competition because they also knew it was a great idea.

"And I know something of the people involved. I know that the project could not have been in better hands than those of that distinguished leader in his profession, Dr. Eric Arthur. And I am well aware of the credentials of the other members of the selection jury.

"But when I became convinced that this memorial will become a splendid reality was when I heard that the winner of Prus, was himself a wartime pilot with a distinguished record who has gone to lead the way in his chosen profession in his chosen land — Canada."

Retired Couple Now Jacks-of-All Trades

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP) — A Niagara Falls couple who went to Africa on a sight-seeing safari wound up as jacks-of-all trades at missionary hospitals in Zambia.

Cecil Glaves, a Niagara Falls school teacher and principal for more than 40 years, and his wife, Lucy, decided to go to Africa after Mr. Glaves' retirement when his brother offered them a ride in a station wagon from Cape Town to Senanga, in Zambia—a distance of 3,100 miles.

Mr. Glaves' brother, Henry, is a technical missionary who administers three hospitals in the new African state.

Catherine Marie Tapp, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Reggie Tapp, Peterborough, formerly of Belleville, has graduated from St. Joseph's School of Nursing, Hotel Dieu Hospital, Kingston. She is a graduate of St. Peter's High School in Peterborough. Catherine will remain on staff at Hotel Dieu Hospital.

CLUB 4-H NOTES

MARYSVILLE GREENETTES

The Marysville Greenettes' 4H Club held its fourth meeting on September 24 at the home of Mrs. Doreen Walsh of Marysville with the president opening the meeting.

Mrs. Monoca McAlpine discussed the planning of vegetables into meals and preparations for achievement day were also discussed.

Mrs. Walsh and Mrs. McAlpine showed how to make vegetable soup and pan cabbage. Afterwards the members sampled the dishes.

The station wagon trip was an exciting adventure for the couple. The route lay over rough roads, and when even these were flooded the station wagon had to be loaded on to a barge for the remainder of the trip.

But when they reached Senanga there was even more in store. They pitched in to help at the hospitals.

"My wife sewed and helped the native cook; and taught him how to prepare Canadian foods, most of which are in cans," Mr. Glaves said. "I helped install plumbing, repaired clocks and sewing machines. . . .

"I laid some bricks and did some plastering and carpenter work."

Henry Glaves and his wife, Margaret, sold their Toronto home a year ago and signed up for five years' work in Zambia. The hospitals, under jurisdiction of the United Church of Zambia, serve an area of some 8,000 square miles. The missionaries are training Zambians to take over the work eventually.

At the Senanga hospital there is a staff of two French doctors and three European nurses who treat an average of 80 patients a day. In addition there are outpost dispensaries in charge of European or African nurses.

One of the next steps is trying to raise funds for an orphanage to look after the children of mothers who have died at the hospitals in childbirth. At present there are 16 such children still at the Senanga hospital.

In their bush communities the African women do the farm work while the men herd cattle, fish or hunt. They live in grass or mud shelters and cook over an outside campfire. The staple diet consists of mealies, or ground corn, dried or fresh fish and a little meat when they can get it.

The women carry their babies on their backs and everything else on their heads, said Mrs. Glaves.

The station wagon trip was exciting for the Canadian couple, who saw elephants, lions, zebras, hippos and giraffes along the roadside, all numerous and very tame. One high point of the trip was their reception by a tribal queen at a native village en route—"she was most pleasant and received us graciously."

MAXIMUM WARMTH—This textured orange and brown checked tweed, by British couturier Hardy Amies, has a standup collar and deep pockets. Edged in black, the coat is belted and flares out to end below the knee. It is worn over slim-cut bell-bottomed trousers topped with a blouse.

ALPHA LAMBDA CHAPTER

The regular bi-monthly meeting of Alpha Lambda Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi was held Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Robb Burrowes, Cloverdale Drive, Belleville. Seven prospective rushees were welcomed to the meeting.

During the business meeting, a notice was read from the International office stating that Alpha Lambda Chapter was a "three-star" chapter during the past year. Further plans were discussed for the annual Black and Gold Ball sponsored by the chapter, this year being on October 24.

A Mother's Day greeting was read from the chapter's foster child in Guadalupe.

A farewell remembrance was presented to Mrs. P. Zakos who is leaving the city to take up residence in Toronto.

Following the business meeting, Mrs. N. Smilah introduced the speaker for the evening, Mrs. B. Carter, who spoke on the subject "Prose" and concluded her program by having the group compose a "short story". The program was thoroughly enjoyed by all and Mrs. G. Stephanson expressed the group's thanks.

The evening concluded with refreshments served by Mrs. Burrows and Mrs. Frank Varney.

Air Canada Sandwiches

By MARY MOORE

Like a homing pigeon (or a hunting dog) when I landed at O'Hare Airport in Chicago on my return trip from Fort Leavenworth, I followed the blue arrows pointing to Air Canada ticketing desk. Walking at a good clip and turning right, then left, then right, then left I found that safe haven and standing behind the counter was a smiling ground hostess in her pert little red, white and blue beret. I was as good as home. After she gave me my seat number I asked if there was limousine service out of Toronto Airport at midnight and she answered me there was. Then I asked my second question: "If I make a long distance call will you make sure I do not miss the last boarding call?" She said she would keep her eye on me and sure enough two minutes before the Air Canada Jet's steps were rolled away she signalled to me and I said goodbye to my friend Garny in Wallerville, Michigan and ran for my plane.

Garny said anyone who can find their way through O'Hare is brave. All I felt was safe with my Air Canada angel hovering.

I was starved too, for I had not felt like eating on my previous flight out of Kansas City leaving my precious family of six. So when another of those hovering angels offered me sandwiches I ate three.

Now I think we could learn a lesson from Air Canada's sandwich makers. They (the sandwiches) were big, fresh, triangular, crustless and generously filled with two and three slices of meat — selections of roast beef, chicken and ham. The way you feed has a lot to do with the appeal of food and a roast beef sandwich never looked or tasted so good. It was the right thing, at the right time at the right place.

So let us take a leaf out of Air Canada's cookbook and if we are going to serve sandwiches use fresh bread and be generous with the filling.

NOTE: I know I have started at the end but I will gradually get around to telling you more about my trip — especially the week we camped in Rocky Mountain National Park in Colorado.

Should One Rush Departing Guest?

By DORIS CLARK

"For years I was alone," she said, "before Dad and Mother came over from England to live with me.

"I used to visit two cousins, the only people I knew here. When I left them at night to go home, they would close the door and I heard the key turn in the lock. It always seemed to shut me out, somehow."

This brought on a free-for-all about speeding — or not speeding — the parting guest.

I have one friend who merely has to hear the guess-we-better-be-going routine to jump to his feet! And one widow-hostess I know closes door and turns out front light before you are down her walk. This leaves you to find your way in the dark.

The happy contrast is a warmly friendly gentleman I know who comes with you to your car, many yards from his door, sees you off and shouts a happy "Come again!" as you begin rolling.

How do you rate as a fare-well giver?

Dear Doris: Here is a hint that I would like to pass along to all parents who have a hard time making their children do a bit of work.

I have discovered that singing while working can make a game out of a hard job. Whenever I have children helping me out, either washing dishes or doing other things that are lying around, I make a real game out of it by making them sing while they work. They then grow into helpful teenagers and later into smart adults who work with a smile in their eyes and a song on their lips.

I would really like for parents to try this and see the results for themselves. I find this works beautifully when you go for a walk with kids. Make them sing — they'll never find a walk shorter or more enjoyable. — A Song Makes the Difference.

Dear Song: I've tried it and agree heartily. Thank you.

Confidential to Small Wedding: Even without the march down the aisle and a bridal gown, yo ustill need two people to serve as witnesses, and they might well be attendants — one apiece. They would come in with you from the side. If your fiance's father is young looking and would like to be your escort, he could quite properly be best man.

Ann Landers

Husband Presumably Dead Seen on TV

DEAR ANN LANDERS: This might be the strangest letter you've ever received. I can't sign it because I may be in trouble with the law.

My husband drank a lot and ran around with women. I don't believe in divorce and we had children who had to be considered. Three years ago my husband disappeared. He had done this before and always turned up in another town. The excuse was the same. He got drunk and didn't know where he was or what he was doing. After he sobered up it took him another few days to work up the courage to come home and face me. I thought this was another one of those episodes. But after two weeks I got scared and called the police.

ANN LANDERS

The next day they found my husband's wallet on the bank of a river. They dredged the river but couldn't find the body. I called the minister the following week and we had a dignified memorial service. The insurance company sent a cheque and I moved to a better apartment. These last three years have been very peaceful and happy ones for me and the children.

Yesterday I was looking at a baseball game on TV and I could swear I saw my husband in the crowd at Fenway Park in Boston. He was with a nice looking woman and they were laughing and drinking pop.

Should I notify the police? What about the insurance money? Most of it has been spent. Am I in trouble? Please advise me. — SHAKEN.

DEAR SHAKEN: Call the police and tell them. There's a good chance you saw a man who resembled your husband. The insurance company should be notified, too.

You have done nothing wrong, so relax. If there was an error, it was not yours.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My boyfriend is leaving for the service in a few weeks. He gave me his high school ring and told me we should consider ourselves engaged. I asked what that meant and he said, "It means you will wait for me and not go with anyone else when I am gone."

My parents are very much against the whole thing. They say I should not be tied down — that I am too young to make a decision as big as this. I am 17, Ann, and very mature for my age.

When I told my boyfriend what my parents said, he got mad and replied, "The least they can do for a guy going to Vietnam is to keep his morale up by letting him know he has something to come home for."

Now it's gotten to be a real hassle between my parents and my boyfriend. I don't know what to do. Please guide me. — KENTON, OHIO.

DEAR KEN: Your folks have given you good advice. I hope you take it. If it's the real thing, it will survive the separation. A boy who tries to hang onto a girl by appealing to her sense of patriotism exhibits a tremendous lack of confidence. Moreover he is not being fair to her.

CONFIDENTIAL TO BE OR NOT TO BE — THAT IS THE QUESTION: Take the advice of Justice Louis D. Brandeis, one of the greatest jurors of all time. He said, "The best way to deal with the irresistible is to resist it."

Points for Parents

By MARY BRYSON

Jill: "Becky's so embarrassed. Her mother is not there in a mini-skirt dancing with the teen-agers. Why doesn't she act her age?"

Joan: "Becky says her mother thinks the kids will enjoy the parties here more if she joins in the fun. I think she doesn't have any social life of her own."

It's a rare adult who can really be a member of her teen-ager's "gang". Children prefer their parents to act like parents — not like teen-age pals.

Mother: "I'll come down and meet your guests and I'll be in the den if you need me. When it's time to serve refreshments, let me know and I'll help you."

Daughter: "Maybe you'll have to come down when it's time for everybody to go home so they'll know the party is over."

Stewart Warner Leading Way In Electronics

Office copying equipment has been around for quite a few years but until recently its function has been limited to just that — in-office copying.

Now, modern day technology has made possible the development of "long distance" equipment which can transmit facsimile copies between any two points in America connected by telephone.

It is called Datafax or the "electronic mailbox", currently made by Stewart Warner Corporation in Chicago but soon to go into production at its Belleville plant.

With Datafax it takes only four and one-half minutes to deliver an 8½ x 11" document over an ordinary telephone line — anywhere in America.

This illustrates just how Stewart Warner is keeping up with today's fast-paced electronic development. The Datafax has been under development for the past three years and went into commercial use only early this year.

The Belleville plant of Stewart Warner is another example of how industry can diversify to boost its business volume and provide jobs.

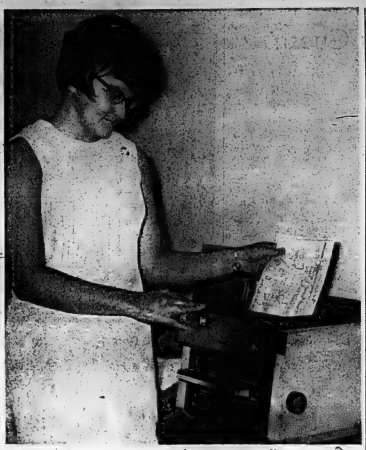
The plant was established back in 1922 for the manufacture of Alemite Lubricating systems and lubrication fittings.

Now the plant operates four separate divisions and is possibly the only Belleville plant to have benefitted from the Canada - USA auto pact.

Ever wonder where those Bassick casters for household, industrial and institutional use come from?

Or possibly where your automobile lubricating components, speedometer cables or power-operated steering and brake equipment hoses were made?

The chances are almost without exception, they were made in Belleville.



Stewart Warner is the largest manufacturer of casters in the world. Literally thousands of casters in every style and size are made daily at the Belleville plant. The plant also makes "miles and miles" of speedometer cables, shipping completed units directly to auto manufacturers in Canada and the USA.

The four divisions at Stewart Warner are Alemite Lubricating Systems; Bassick Casters; Instrument Division and Electronic Division.

At one time the company manufactured radios, but this line has given way to the electronic division specialising in the production of computer operated electronic information display board. Examples are the several big boards seen at Expo '67 and now at Jarry Baseball Park in Montreal.

Plant officials are proud of the fact that all tools and dies are company manufactured—even specialized production machines are developed by local technicians.

The plant payroll of approximately 300 adds considerably to the local economy.

Grills' Message

Location Enviable, Confidence Justified

Belleville enjoys an enviable location and confidence in its future is justified, says Lee Grills, MP Hastings.

Belleville is the political key to the federal constituency — represented by the Conservative MP for five terms since 1957. It represents the biggest single voting bloc in a riding which includes almost all of Hastings County.

LEE GRILLS, MP

Mr. Grills for years was a city businessman — operator of one of the area's biggest dairies.

"Industrially," he notes, "Belleville is centrally located close to the large markets of Canada and the United States. We've every reason to have confidence in our future under such favorable circumstances."

It is also a natural for pleasant living, claims Mr. Grills.

"Belleville — and the Quinte area — is abundantly endowed with natural spots," says the MP. "This makes it a pleasant place to live, and enjoy a wholesome family life."

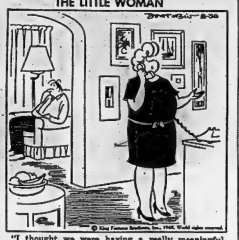
U.S. Army Transfers Information Chief Who Criticized Paper

LONG BINH, Vietnam (AP) — The United States Army announced Sunday that Col. James Campbell, an army spokesman who criticized the military newspaper Pacific Stars and Stripes as a "Hanoi Herald," has been reassigned.

The army indicated that a speech which Campbell wrote for a Pacific information officers' conference was the reason for his transfer. The army said the opinions in the speech "do not reflect the opinion of this headquarters."

Campbell, who had been chief U.S. Army information officer in Vietnam since Feb. 14, was scheduled to take over as editor of Pacific Stars and Stripes in January.



There was no immediate disclosure of his new assignment, other than it would be within U.S. Army headquarters, Vietnam—USARV—here in Long Binh, 15 miles northeast of Saigon.

Campbell greeted reporters cheerily at his house-trailer quarters at Long Binh but declined comment on his reassignment.

In the speech, Campbell had said: "I think this conference will be interested in learning that the Pacific Stars and Stripes has earned for itself the title of 'The Hanoi Herald.' Perhaps this may seem a bit harsh, but we of U.S. Army Vietnam feel that there is more than just a bit of justification for it."

Campbell, in the speech, described as "treason" one battle report by a Stars and Stripes reporter. He opined a similar label on an Associated Press story about an army unit that refused for a time to move into action.

THE LITTLE WOMAN

"I thought we were having a really meaningful dialogue—really communicating—until I looked over and heard him snoring."

Strictly Personal

Kennedy Reaction Pavlovian

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

What is truly tragic about the whole Senator Edward M. Kennedy mess is not the accident itself — which, as they say, could happen to anyone — but the way it was handled. Because this was one sort of event that should not be "handled."

A car falls in a river and a young woman drowns. These are human facts, personal facts. The call for personal response on the human scale. They cry out for candor, for humility, for compassion.

Instead, the public is grossly insulted by a theatrical production. The Brain Trust is hastily summoned. Professional script writers are put to work. Lawyers confer. Directors confabulate. Producers arrange a nation-wide TV "special."

The performance leaves us more baffled and confused than before. The leading actor's soliloquy raises more cynical questions than it answers. Our initial sympathy turns to suspicion: we feel the whole truth has not been told, and we suspect the worst because we have not been given the best — honesty and openness.

The tragedy is as old as "Macbeth," where Shakespeare speaks of "vaulting ambition, which overleaps itself" and falls by trying to jump too high, too fast, too heedlessly.

Senator Kennedy didn't need the consultants and the speech writers, the counselors and the manipulators. He merely needed to stand up like any man, tell the whole truth, and be prepared to accept the consequences. The public was ready to understand and condone: his two brothers' assassinations made him all the more sympathetic a figure.

But his whole life, his whole milieu, his whole career, have been so conditioned otherwise that he could not face the music as an ordinary man might. His almost Pavlovian response to the accident was flight to the seemingly "safe" world of advisers and public relations experts. They would surely help him out of the mess.

They only got him in deeper. Their presence alone changed the whole scale of the event. He was no longer an unfortunate man confessing panic or poor judgment, but a Personage engaged in an elaborately devious piece of stagecraft.

Whatever the truth, it cannot be as harmful as the production. However poorly he may have behaved, we were eager to forgive a mortal man his moment of weakness. What we cannot, forgive or forget is the insult he inflicted upon us long after the moment had passed. Like the protagonist in a Greek drama he was betrayed by his own past.

Another Manpower Success Story —

Thousands Have Been Helped By Canada Manpower Centre

The federal government began its manpower retraining program for a selfish reason—to increase Canada's supply of educated workers.

That thousands of people have reaped personal benefit is the secondary, but most attractive part of the scheme.

Best known part of the venture is the year-round scheme for unemployed workers recommended by officials of the federal government Department of Manpower.

All grades up to and including Grade 12, in both the science, technology and trades stream and the business and commerce stream are taught.

Classes are held at Quinte Secondary School five nights a week from 5:15 to 11:15. Living allowances ranging from $37 a week for a single person to $75 a week for a person with three dependents are paid to those enrolled.

In Belleville, the Loyalist College board of governors operates the program on behalf of the federal and provincial governments.

E. J. Buckley has been coordinator of the program here since it began, and now occupies offices at the college.

To be eligible for retraining, a student must have been out of school and attached to the work force for at least three years. This requirement eliminates immigrants from the program.

The same educational advantages are offered to employed workers in another program designed to up - grade workers' education to permit them to go on to higher learning. About 20 people are enrolled this year and pay a fee of $2 a week.

A new program for business and industry has been started this year. Fully employed people may up-grade themselves either in academic work or skills through a program designed for their specific needs.

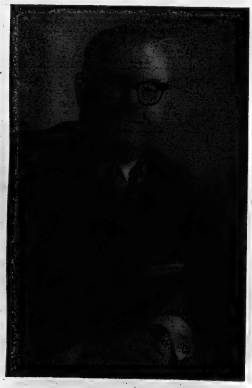
Belleville - The Friendly City

What makes Belleville a friendly city?

We like to think that it is because of the spirit of co-operation prevailing in our city among the various organizations that go to make up an integral part of our community.

We of the labor movement are one of those parts, and we are proud, and pleased to be able to join with all others in the events of Belleville Promotion Week.

Our city is often referred to as the Friendly City, and we like to believe that we really deserve that designation. We do in fact go out of our way to observe that [illegible] in Belleville are active in community affairs, are interested in all aspects of community development, and progress, and endeavor to work jointly with others in the city toward these ends.



We invite you to join with us in Belleville Promotion Week, a promotion that in truth goes on all year, but serves to point out significantly now the community spirit that prevails in Belleville throughout the entire year.

Belleville Opens Its 'Week' with an Event-packed Weekend

By Thundercloud ! Rain ! !

Students Staged Piano Duet

Saturday saw one of the week's major public displays give a colorful boost to the early stages of Belleville Week.

Hundreds of Bellevillians from all age groups marshalled behind bands, banners and floats to march across the city in a gala parade, ending in a grandstand stage at Exhibition Park.

The weather did poorly by the program. But it served as a highlight, not a misfortune.

Joining in the fun of the week's events, members of the Tyendinaga Mohawks had promised to stage a rain dance.

The dance did not exactly hew to ritual.

It is, as the Mohawk dancers pointed out, a serious Indian rite. However, they willingly participated in the community spirit of the occasion by doing a whoop-up in front of the grandstand.

They just made it. The skies had been darkening earlier in the afternoon. Foreboding drops fell as Mohawk Carl Brant led the dancers before the bleachers.

Halfway through the routine it began to rain, causing spectators to retreat under the cover — along with the Mohawks.

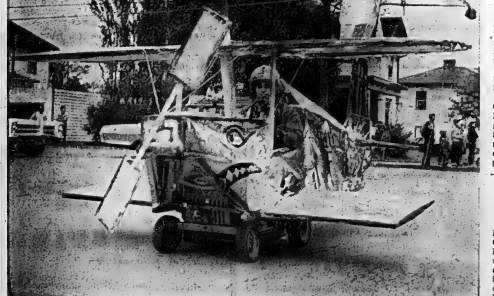
However, the rest of the program went on as billed.

For sheltering spectators two groups of students from Loyalist College smashed two pianos — a contest staged to see which could push the most debris through a small fence-hole.

For good measure, the college's athletic types mounted each other's shoulders and attempted to climb a greased, 25-foot pole.

Sunday, Belleville Week took to the air in a mass fly-in staged by the Belleville Flying Club.

Big attraction was the aerial treasure hunt that sent fliers over the area seeking topographical clues in the hunt for prizes.



Some 45 aircraft registered in the hunt. Scores of other pilots from around Southern Ontario flew in through the morning to eat steak breakfasts and visit with fellow fliers.

Big winner of the hunt was Bob Wood of Buttonville who got a choice of prizes—among them a three-day expenses-paid trip to New York.

On the ground, enthusiasts of Canadian and local history had their own event as Hastings County Historical Museum staged a special Belleville Week exhibition.

OBC Reunion, Open House Part of Belleville Week

There is nothing like an old-fashioned class reunion to renew friendships and strengthen those school ties.

That is one of the projects the Ontario Business College has undertaken as part of its contribution to Belleville Week — in addition to opening the college to the public.

Open house will take place Thursday from 3.30 to 5 p.m. and 7 p.m. to 9 p.m.

"In conjunction with our open house here at the college", said OBC president Mrs. O. A. Brown, "there will be a display of various old articles from the school at the Hastings County Museum, which give an idea of the course and materials used at the turn of the century.

The reunion will take place with a dinner Friday at 6.30 at the Sun Valley Motel when all former graduates of the college are invited to get together again at an informal celebration.

"At the re-union we will be launching the Second Century Association -- our second century of operation in the City of Belleville," said Mrs. Brown. "I will also be presenting a few diplomas at the dinner, to graduates who, as of this month, have completed their courses," she added.

"Many of our 45 students are from Bermuda, Nassau and other distant points, and I think they are looking forward to this chance for a reunion" Mrs. Brown remarked.

A small group of students have been working diligently, mailing invitations and typing the envelopes. Several students helped out at the industrial commission, assisting in a lot of the paperwork for Belleville Week.

The students are very enthusiastic about the whole idea behind our project and that of the week. What we have tried to stress in our projects is the idea of the way it is and the way it was — without too much of the way it was," emphasized Mrs. Brown.

"I think the originators of Belleville Week deserve credit —bringing the city all this attention — and if we are helping in any small way, we are happy and proud to do so," she concluded.

Father's Gun Discharges, Son Wounded

TWEED — A Toronto area boy is in Belleville General Hospital with shotgun wounds in his legs, following an accidental shooting north of Marmora at Twin Sister Lakes on Saturday.

Madoc provincial police said Stephen Sawicki, 7, son of Frank Sawicki of Rexdale, suffered the wounds when the 20-gauge shotgun held by his father discharged.

Policeman Assaulted, 2 Charged

PICTON (Staff) — Two Prince Edward County youths have been charged with assaulting a police officer on Main Street here early Saturday morning.

Charged are Gerald R. Williams and Terrence Pierce, both of R. R. 1 Bloomfield.

The charges were laid after Con. Cecil Farrington of the Picton Police was reportedly grabbed by two youths who interceded while he was arresting Melvin Williams on a charge of disturbing the peace.

Picton Plans Santa Parade

"Picton will definitely have a Santa Claus parade this year," said Jack Purtelle, vice-president of the Prince Edward County Chamber of Commerce.

"The "jingle bell set" can look forward to this lively event, probably in the first week of December. The Chamber of Commerce is expected to discuss parade details at its next meeting.

Weekend Break-ins Probed

Belleville City Police are investigating a pair of weekend break-ins, Police Chief Douglas Crosbie revealed this of 49 Catherine Street some-

Approximately $30 was taken in a piggy bank from the residence of Paul Clare of 49 Catherine Street sometime between 6 p.m. and 11 p.m. Friday.

Senior Citizens Enjoy Bus Tour Of City Sites

A busload of senior citizens from the Turnbull Street apartments and from Hastings Manor were treated to a tour of the city this morning — courtesy of the Industrial Section of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce.

In all six bus tours taking in the city's industrial area and other points of interest are scheduled. There will be morning and afternoon tours daily until Wednesday for students and the general public.

Chamber of Commerce manager O. F. Bradley said other tours will be offered later in the week if there is sufficient interest. The tours are being offered in connection with Belleville Week celebrations.

Schools Plan Open House

The schools of Belleville, both elementary and secondary, will hold open house Thursday, Oct. 2, during regular school hours.

The open house is part of the Belleville Week program, designed to give all citizens an opportunity to visit the classroom and observe teachers and students in action.

No special programs have been planned for the day. It will be business as usual in city classrooms, so the public may see regular teaching routines.

Crash Injures Women

TWEED (Special) — Two Madoc women Mrs. Liella McCoy, 50, of Madoc, and Mrs. Betty McKnight of Unionville were taken to Belleville General hospital Saturday evening following a two - vehicle crash on the Old Hastings Road north of Millbridge.

Police said vehicles driven by Calvin H. McCoy of Eldorado, and William McKnight of Unionville collided, resulting in $1,400 damage.

Mrs. McCoy, mother of Calvin McCoy, and Mrs. McKnight were passengers in the two vehicles.

In other accidents in the Tweed area over the weekend, two cows were killed when they wandered onto Highway 37 south of Tweed and were struck by a passing car. A third cow had its leg broken.

The car was driven by Mrs. Magdalene Monds, 36, of Tweed. Owner of the cows was Thomas Albert Martin.

Paul Thomas Cassidy, 18 of Tweed, escaped injury when his car went out of control and rolled over on the 8th concession of Hungerford township, east of Highway# 37. Damage to the car was $1,200.

'Twas for the Birds

For hundreds of Quinte-district hunters the weekend significantly, was for the birds. Duck-hunting season is sending sharp-shooters into marshes, ponds and lakes. And, as always, the dog proved himself hunting man's best friend — as this scene Saturday of a Belleville sportsman and retriever amply demonstrates.

Dalton's Turn to Gripe After Argos Win 36-33

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

It was coach Ray Dalton's turn to complain about the opposition and the officiating after an Eastern Football Conference battle Sunday that ended with his Montreal Alouettes beaten and his quarterback sent to hospital.

Dalton was fuming after Toronto Argonauts "slugged, kicked and roughed" quarterback Sony Wade on their way to a 36-33 victory.

Wade was taken to hospital after the game for examination of a suspected concussion which Dalton said he suffered early in the second quarter.

In an interlocking game Saturday, Ottawa Rough Riders blanked Edmonton Eskimos 17-0 to build a three-point lead in the EFC. Ottawa now has 16 points, three ahead of Hamilton Tiger-Cats and four ahead of the Argos. The Ticats have a chance to narrow the lead Tuesday when they play host to the Eskimos.

Dalton complained of the referees failed to penalize the Argos for tackling Wade after he had thrown the ball.

Dalton was on the other side of the officiating puzzle last week after the Als' 41-35 victory over Hamilton. The Ticats complained that officiating errors gave Montreal their first touchdown. Canadian Football League commissioner Jake Gaudaur ruled that the Ticats' complaint was well founded, but decided against a replay of the match.

Toronto defensive back Jim Tomlin was the hero of Sunday's match after he picked off a Wade pass with 1:18 remaining in the game to frustrate Montreal's last chance for an upset.

It was one of three interceptions picked off by Tomlin who also recorded an 80-yard kickoff return.

Cosentino, replacing Tom Wilkinson who was resting a sore arm, also threw touchdown passes to Jim Thorpe and Mel Profit. Cosentino was good on 11 of 21 passes for 229 yards and his toss to Thorpe covered 74 yards.

Tom Johansen, from Brama lea Satellites of the Senior Ontario Rugby Football Union, replaced veteran kicker Dave Mann and booted five converts and collected a single on a missed 20-yard field-goal attempt.

Argo coach Leo Cahill announced after the game that Mann, 36, and in his 11th season with the Argos, was officially placed on the retired list.

Mann has been bothered by a muscle injury in his right leg and asked to be retired, but will stay with Argos to help train the club's punters.

Ottawa quarterback Russ Jackson riddled the Edmonton zone defence with 12 passes completed out of 24 for 233 yards. Two passes went to halfback Vic Washington for touchdowns. Don Sutherin converted both and added a 37-yard field goal.

Edmonton quarterback Charlie Fulton had six of his 28 passes intercepted and completed 12 for 126 yards. The Ottawa defence held the Eskimo runners to 129 yards along the ground, but halfback Washington had praise for the Edmonton defenders as well.

Saskies Pull Away From Western Pack

Saskatchewan Roughriders and Calgary Stampeders scored a victory each during the weekend to pull farther away from the other three Western Football Conference clubs.

The Roughriders thrashed visiting Winnipeg Blue Bombers 34-8 Sunday to strengthen their hold on first place and Calgary remained four points behind the leaders with a 22-17 win over British Columbia Lions in Vancouver Saturday.

"We took their running game away from them," said Saskatchewan coach Eagle Keys, describing hard-charging George Reed who gained 108 yards on 18 carries for his best performance of the season.

Hugh Campbell scored two Rider touchdowns and Gord Barwell scored the other, all on passes from Ron Lancaster. Jack Abendschan kicked three converts and a field goal as the Roughies took quarter leads of 10-0, 10-1 and 17-1 before 15,628 spectators.

Winnipeg's only touchdown was by Bob Housend. Ed Ulmer kicked two singles into a 25-mile-an-hour wind at Taylor Field.

Bombers' quarterback Wally Gabler completed 19 of 34 passes for 215 yards but couldn't get his ground game moving.

"I can't complain about the effort," said Parker. "I was concerned about how they would play but they reacted well."

The 31,729 in Vancouver's Empire Stadium saw Larry Robinson kick three field goals and a single and pick off two B.C. passes to give the Stampeders the edge.

Calgary's other points came on touchdowns by quarterback Jerry Keeling from one yard out in the second quarter and by Terry Evanaben in the fourth. Bob coverets failed.

A field goal by Ted Gerela put B.C. on the scoreboard and touchdowns by Jim Young and Charlie Brown, both converted by Gerela, finished the scoring for B.C. in the second quarter.

Ties NFL Mark

Kapp Tosses Seven TD's

Joe Kapp, formerly with British Columbia Lions of the Canadian Football League, tied a National Football League record Sunday by completing seven touchdown passes as Minnesota Vikings defeated Baltimore Colts 52-14. Kapp completed 28 of 43 passes for 449 yards.

He tied the NFL record of seven touchdown passes in a gamesharred by Sid Luckman of Chicago Bears, Y. A. Tittle of New York Giants and Adrian Burk of Philadelphia Eagles. Only George Blanda, when he was with Houston Oilers, has thrown as many as seven scoring passes in a game in the American Football League.

In other NFL action, Los Angeles Rams (2-0) stopped Atlanta Falcons (1-1) 17-7, Green Bay Packers (2-0) held off San Francisco 49ers (0-2) 14-7, Cleveland Browns (2-0) edged Washington Redskins (1-1) 27-23, Dallas Cowboys (2-0) nipped New Orleans Saints (0-2) 21-17, Detroit Lions (1-1) drubbed New York Giants (1-1) 24-0, St. Louis Cardinals (1-1) topped Chicago Bears (0-2) 29-17, and Philadelphia Eagles (1-1) outlasted Pittsburgh Steelers (1-1) 41-27.

The Vikings "took a chapter out of Baltimore's book—strike long, early and controlling the ball," said Minnesota coach Bud Grant, formerly with Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

Kapp, who did not play in the Vikings' 24-23 season-opening upset loss to the Giants, hit on his first six passes against the Colts, who took their second loss, and brought Minnesota its first touchdown with an 18-yard-er to Dave Osborn after the first two minutes of play.

His other scoring strikes were of 83 and 41 yards to Gene Washington and of 21, 13, one and 15 yards to four other receivers.

Meanwhile, the Vikings defence harrassed Baltimore quarterbacks Johnny Unitas and Earl Morrall. Unitas completed just two of his 13 passes and ended up eight for 22 for 68 yards with one interception. Morrall was 12 for 20 for 127 yards and had two interceptd.

Cleveland handed Vince Lombardi his initial defeat as Washington coach when Bill Nelson passed 15 yards to Gary Collins for a touchdown with 1:19 left. The Redskins had come from a 20-10 deficit to a 23-20 lead by marching 70 yards for one touchdown and getting another on Sonny Jurgensen's 13-yard pass to Bob Long.

Bengals Baffling

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Coach Paul Brown of the amazing Cincinnati Bengals won't argue with success, boe he does question it. .

"I don't know exactly what's doing it — it's a miracle," he said after his Bengals upset Kansas City Chiefs 24-19 Sunday for their third straight victory and the Chiefs' first loss.

In three games this year, all at home, the Bengals have equalled their winning record of last year when they joined the American Football League as an expansion team. They wound up in last place in the Western Division. Today, they're tied with Oakland for first.

In other AFL games, San Diego Chargers (1-2) surprised the world champion New York Jets (1-2) 34-27, Buffalo Bills (1-2) routed Denver Broncos (2-1) 41-28, Oakland Raiders (3-0) upended Boston Patriots (0-3) 38-23 and Houston Oilers (2-1) drubbed Miami Dolphins (0-3) 22-10.

The decisive Cincinnati touchdown was set up when Clem Turner recovered Noland Smith's fumble on a Bengali punt on the Chiefs' 35.

Quarterback John Hadl threw for three of the San Diego's five touchdowns against the slumping Jets.

Jack Kemp used three touchdown passes for Buffalo and O. J. Simpson ran for 110 yards in his best performance as a pro. He also caught five passes for 45 yards, including a three-yard touchdown.

Upset-minded Boston stung Oakland with two touchdowns in the first 12 minutes but quarterback Daryle Lamonica rallied the Raiders with four touchdown passes.

Houston came from behind 10-0 in the second half on the strength of Pete Beathard's passing arm and Canadian-born rookie Roy Gerela's foot.

Gerela, a native of Powell River, B.C., booted five field goals, breaking the club record of four set by George Blanda in 1965.

Defensive Pointers

Crawford's Been There

B's Concentrate on Blueline

Belleville's Junior "B" hockey club won only four games last season and led the six-team Eastern Ontario Junior "B" League in goals allowed, so coach Floyd Crawford is taking a long hard look at all defencemen in camp in an attempt to shore up the blueline corps.

Defence is Crawford's forte and he'll lend all his experience — as a former rearguard stalwart with the World and Allan Cup champion Belleville McFarlands — to selecting and training his rearguards for the upcoming campaign.

"We've got some good-sized defencemen in camp and they all seem to be hitting for a change," said Crawford after Sunday afternoon's initial scrimmage in the club's third practice session.

The defence does appear to be the club's most improved unit and there is some potential there so if things jell the unit could take a step towards curing last year's ailments.

Among the defencemen in camp have been holdovers Greg Burkitt, Milton Lambert, Al Jones, Jerry Candler and rookie John Mulvihill, a graduate of the Kingston Canadians of the All-Ontario Class "AA" champions the past two years.

Paul Hopkins — the club's shell-shocked Most Valuable Player last year — returns in the nets, but he's being pressed by a pair of rookies, one of whom is Paul Muldoon, a graduate of Blake Kerr's Imperial Midgets.

Crawford began to sort his forward lines out a bit Sunday afternoon but he stressed that he hasn't picked his players out yet, much less chosen his lines.

"We haven't signed any players yet but we probably will later in the week after I get a better chance to assess all the hopefuls," he added.

Crawford expects a few more defencemen to attend the club's practices this week and is hopeful for the return of John McConnell who led the team in scoring last year in his rookie season.

Holdover Brian Coughlin — the team's Rookie of the year last season — and rookie Danny Lopesette — like Mulvihill a Kingston Bantam standout the past two years — were among the centres at Sunday's practice, while left wing was occupied primarily by three holdovers — Dennis McCormack, Ted Waite and Floyd Baverstock, who was injured much of last year.

Veteran Ron Fuller attended two weekend practice sessions while minor hockey graduates — Reed Mallery, Grant Hopkins, John Hill and Phil Kirby were among those patrolling the right flank.

"The first scrimmage was a bit ragged with everybody wanting the puck, but with a few more practices we'll iron out the positional play," Crawford commented.

"All in all I think we stand to be stronger than last year from what I've seen so far."

The Juniors will practise tonight from 6-8 p.m., take Tuesday off and then hit the ice again Wednesday for a 6.30 - 8.30 practice session.

Old Pro Pronovost Leader Of Tulsa's Young Attack

A a group of young players, the Tulsa Oilers of the Central Hockey League appear to be in a good position to gain advancement for themselves.

Tulsa is a farm team of the Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League and if one can judge by the exhibition game results, it's apparent that Toronto needs help.

Tulsa comes to Belleville Tuesday night to take on the Kansas City Blues of the Central League in an exhibition game which is a part of Belleville Week activities.

"These players are Toronto prospects and there's a good chance some of them will be playing for the Leafs in a year or two," said Tulsa general manager Ray Miron.

"We've got a good rookie crop and we're bigger, faster and younger than last year; so we've got to be stronger," Miron added of the Oilers who captured the Central League's Northern Division title last year.

"Kansas City finished two points behind us in second place last season so there's a little rivalry there and we've still got players trying to make the team," Miron said, concluding that he expected a good, close game.

Marcel Pronovost — late of the Toronto Maple Leafs after a distinguished NHL career — will handle the Oiler's reins in his new role as Tulsa's playing-coach.

Prominent among Tulsa's rookies are centre Doug Brindley — a standout with the Niagara Falls Flyers of the OHA Junior "A" last year —and Canadian National team graduate Ted Hargreeves

Serge Aubry will man the Oilers' net while Jean Payette — a nephew of former Belleville McFarland stalwart Jean Paul Payette — will centre one of Tulsa's forward lines.

Local fans will also get a chance to see how former Orechoslovakian National team left winger Jaroslav Jirik fares against Canadian professional competition. Jirik, who signed a pro contract with the St. Louis Blues, will be wearing a Kansas City uniform Tuesday night.

All-star defencemen Tim Horton — who hasn't signed his 1969 contract with the Maple Leafs yet — will make a guest appearance at Tuesday night's exhibition game and be on hand for Tuesday's Grand Opening of his North Front Street Donut Shop.

Tuesday's game will start at 8.30 p.m. and advance tickets are available at McKnight's Front Street Variety Store.

The front three rows are priced at two dollars a seat while the remainder of the seats will sell at $1.50 apiece. Tickets at the door will be the same prices.

Optimism for Mo-Hawk Offence

The Belleville Mo-Hawks have been practising less than a week but playing-coach Davey Jones has assessed the club and feels he knows what he wants — a couple of defencemen.

"Our offence has improved tremendously and things don't look bad, but we're ill the market for a couple of defencemen," Jones said after Sunday evening's practice session at the Memorial Arena.

"We've only got two defencemen — Lionel Bodry and Greg Marchen — because I would like to play both Weiner" Brown and Jack Wilton up front," Jones added.

"We've been talking to a few players from the Eastern Hockey League but have been able to come up with nothing definite yet," Jones continued.

"I think the offence will be the best since the rebirth of Senior "A" hockey in Belleville," Jones commented, "George Godson should be improved in his third year in the league and Billy Armour from the Greensboro Generals of the Eastern League is an experienced centreman who should make opportunities for others."

Jones also looks for continued improvement from Al Ferguson and Lorne O'Donnell, who teamed with Godson to form a potent line during the late-season drive which almost produced a playoff berth for the Mo-Hawks last year.

The Mo-Hawks coach, who is looking for more goal-scoring and plans to play more younger people than in past years, has left the O'Donnell-Godson-Ferguson line intact in training camp while experimenting to find two other effective combinations.

The signing of centre Tom Lavender from Wellington and winger Gary Dalliday, a former Peterborough Junior "B" player, brings to three the number of new faces signed to Mo-Hawks cards. The third was centreman Billy Armour, who signed the opening night of training camp.

Netminder Larry Holmes is back with the Mo-Hawks as is left winger Wayne McConnell, who missed the first few practices because of a company training course in Chicago.

Jones has almost two weeks to mold his lineup for the On-tario Hockey Association Senior "A" opener here in Belleville, Oct. 10 against Owen Sound.

The club's first combat will come this Friday when the arch-rival Kingston Aces come to town for a 9 p.m. exhibition game The Mo-Hawks and Aces will meet again the following Monday, Oct. 6, in Kingston.

Three practice sessions will be held at the Memorial Arena this week in preparation for Friday's exhibition encounter with Kingston.

Tonight's practice session is from 8.15 - 10.15 p.m. Wednesday's from 8.45 - 10.45 p.m. and Thursday's from 6.30 - 8.30 p.m.

Frids Rebound For Peewee Title

H. G. Frid rebounded from a 2-8 second game loss Saturday to edge Mel Barriage Landscapers 8-7 Sunday to capture the Belleville Minor Baseball Association's City Peewee championship.

G. Cunningham and J. Mimee, who allowed 16 hits and 11 walks Saturday, reduced those totals to 12 hits and five walks Sunday as H. G. Frid won the best-of-three series two-games-to-one. The pair fanned nine in both games.

Barriage hurlers K. Kerik and B. Balyx limited H. G. Frid to three hits while striking out three and issuing a dozen walks in Saturday's game, but were tagged for nine hits and four walks Sunday while throwing third strikes past nine.

D. Holland paced the winners at the plate in the week-end series with a pair of doubles and a single. Catcher Mark Coates collected a double and two singles in the winners' attack while pitcher Mimee contributed three singles for H. G. Frid. Coached by senior baseball infielder Pat Asselstine, H. G. Frid won the first game 10-3.

K. Kerik powered the losers' attack with a homer, two triples and five singles in the pair of weekend contests. T. Ray chipped in with a homer, double and pair of singles for coach George Bongard's Mel Barriage squad.

G. Kerik with a double and three singles and B. Balyx with three singles also stood out for the Mel Barriage team.

Esposito Gives Bruins Two Ties

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Centre Phil Esposito scored only twice during National Hockey League weekend exhibition action, but both goals gave Boston Bruins tied games.

With two seconds remaining Sunday at London, Ont., Esposito jammed a loose puck behind Toronto Maple Leafs goalie Marv Edwards to give the Bruins a 4-4 tie.

Saturday at Port Huron, Mich., Esposito scored in the final period to give the Bruins a 3-3 deadlock with Detroit Red Wings.

In other Sunday games, the Black Hawks downed Montreal Canadiens 5-1 in Chicago; Minnesota North Stars defeated Detroit 5-4 at Bloomington, Minn., St. Louis Blues beat New York Rangers 7-4 at Ottawa and Providence Reds of the American Hockey League edged Oakland Seals 3-2 at Providence, R.I.

Saturday, the Leafs ruined New York's unbeaten record with a 4-1 victory at Toronto. Montreal shut out Chicago 2-0 at Montreal. St. Louis downed Pittsburgh Penguins 2-1 at Brantford, Ont., and Oakland edged Philadelphia Flyers 4-3 in Quebec City.

The Leafs' victory Saturday was their first in six starts and gave New York its first loss in six exhibition games.

Edwards, an all-star goalie with Amarillo Wranglers of the Western League last season, played an outstanding game for the Leafs, holding the Rangers scoreless after he replaced Bruce Gamble in the second period.

Rangers also switched goalies, inserting veteran Terry Sawchuk for Ed Giacomin, but Sawchuk gave up goals to Pat Quinn and Floyd Smith. Dave Keon scored twice for the Leafs Saturday night and once in Sunday's contest against the Bruins.

Centre Earl Ingarfield of the Seals was out for 10 stitches on his right wrist to repair tendon damage suffered in a fight Saturday with Philadelphia's Joe Watson. Both players took five-minute penalties for the scrap and Ingarfield was sidelined for the last two periods.

Green was reported in good condition in an Ottawa hospital Sunday after a two-hour operation Saturday to remove a blood clot which formed under a skull fracture suffered a week ago in an exhibition game against St. Louis.

He had been scheduled to leave hospital Sunday, but doctors said the wound started to bleed Saturday and formed a clot. A hospital spokesman said Green spent a comfortable night and was much improved Sunday. His doctors said it would be another four or five days before they could determine the probable length of his recovery.

Another head injury victim was back in action Saturday night with Philadelphia. Goalie Doug Favell, knocked unconscious in practice last Thursday and reported having severe headaches Friday, turned up ill against Oakland and shared goaltending duties with Bernie Parent.

The Car Buyer's Problems:
THE ALL-IMPORTANT THERMOSTAT
Jim Patterson

If the next time you're paying a service repair bill the mechanic mentions your thermostat, it may make you feel better to know just what your money was spent on.

This little device is buried in the upper section of every engine out of sight. But its importance is so great that your engine would soon be out of business without it.

The purpose of the thermostat is to raise the temperature of the coolant inside the engine block as quickly as possible to about 195 degrees F. and keep it there as long as the car is operating.

It does this by slanting off the circulation of the coolant through the cooling radiator and confining it to the engine block as long as the temperature is below the desired level.

As the coolant heats above this level, the thermostat opens and allows circulation through the radiator so as to keep the temperature at the ideal point.

If the thermostat fails to shut off radiator circulation in a cold engine, the pressure of low temperature resulting will build up sludge from moisture that hot oil would have evaporated. The result is an engine doomed in short life.

One dead giveaway to faulty thermostat operation is a car heater that never really gets hot. To neglect this unit if it needs service could prove very costly before long.

REV. D. A. (DONALD) RICHARDSON

Leader Thomasburg

The many friends of Rev. D. A. (Donald) Richardson, of Leduc, Alberta, and formerly of Thomasburg, Ontario, will be sorry to learn of his death at the hospital in Islay, Alberta, earlier this month. He was in his 69th year. The deceased was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Albert Richardson of Thomasburg, Ontario. He is survived by his wife, the former Evelyn Bateman, a son Errol at home and a daughter, Mrs. Michael Hinton (Shirley) of Stettler, Alberta; three brothers, Douglas of Port Arthur, Ontario, and Percyn of Unit 2, Belleville; Edward of Lakefield, and by two sisters, Mrs. Donald Saunders (Gabrielle) Invermaden, Saskatchewan; and Mrs. Frederick Hoskings (Elsie) of Belleville.

Owing to ill-health for the past two years, Mr. Richardson was unable to carry on the work as a minister of the United Church, but was assistant minister at Leduc and Edmonton, Alberta, and also took the position of Administrator of Alberta Hospitals. He was a member of the IOOF. He served four years at Hilton, north of Brighton and also four years at Roblin.

The funeral was held on Tuesday at the Lloydminster United Church, Leduc, Alberta.

Mrs. Richardson is the daughter of Mrs. Gladys Bateman and the late Mr. Irvine Bateman, former residents of Thomasburg.

MRS. ROSCOE WRIGHT

The funeral of Mrs. Roscoe Wright, the former Theda Louise McCabe was held at the Hogle Funeral Home, Stirling with Rev. J. M. Caswell of St. John's Anglican Church officiating.

Industrialists Elect Officers

At Tuesday's meeting of the Industrial Management Club—Quinte Chapter, the new executive was sworn in by Frank Grandmer. They are: president G. Magee of Deloro Stellite; first vice-president D. Pond of Erie Technological; second vice-president K. Belanger of Electric Motor Sales; treasurer E. Breskenridge of Foley's; secretary, D. Pond of Deloro Stellite; director of public relations and bulletin editor, D. Hallan of Corby Distilleries.

The guest speaker was Noel Stockton, personnel manager of the Unemployment Insurance Commission, who demonstrated through his own humorous poems, that poets and poetry are not dull.

His speech was so well received that requests for copies of his books were met with refusal only because all copies were sold out.

Trenton Legion Burns Mortgage

TRENTON (Staff)—Branch 110 of the Royal Canadian Legion is free of building debt three years ahead of schedule. Friday night, prominent citizens and members of the branch and women's auxiliary whose efforts provided the finances to retire the bond issue in advance, gathered in the auditorium of the legion hall here for the impressive mortgage burning ceremony.

Women with the branch's auxiliary were paid special praise for raising and contributing $43,555 of the total objective of $60,000 required to redeem the bonds.

Mayor James MacDonald, one of the six trustees for the building fund, termed the branch's modern premises "one of Trenton's brightest assets."

"I hope the branch continues with improvements and the public will continue to show appreciation for your good work because there are a lot of things in store for this section of the town."

The Legion Hall, located south of the old post office, is considered within the general area of Trenton's central core now under consideration as a site of a $800,000 civic square and commercial rental project.

The cornerstone for the building was laid in 1957 by former Ontario premier Leslie Frost who explained it has taken a lot of hard work and sacrifice to make it possible to build the new home.

Use of Schools To Be Discussed

TWEED — Residents of Tweed Village and Hungerford Township have been invited by the Hastings County Board of Education and the Hastings-Prince Edward Separate School Board, to attend a meeting in the Tweed-Hungerford High School Thursday, October 2, when the future use of the schools in Tweed will be discussed.

For the past couple of months rumors concerning the use of the Tweed-Hungerford High School have been circulating in Tweed.

The meeting is evidently designed to make public the Board's plans for the use of the school buildings in the villages.

This is a meeting that all ratepayers in both municipalities should plan to attend.

Walk Raises $360

TWEED — Harry Govier, Shirley Reid and Jean Briggs were the top money makers in the "Miles for Peace" walk co-sponsored by the Madoc Legion and other Legion branches in the area and the Junior Farmer Peace Pact committee.

Speakers

Belleville Ward will on Oct. 4 hold a handful of distinguished speakers, including Herb Gray, MP and parliamentary secretary to Finance Minister Benson, Dr. Scott Myers and the Hon. Stanley Randall, minister of trade and development.

The closing reception and dinner will be sponsored by the Belleville Industrial Commission and is slated to take place in Bleecker Hall.

U of T Disciplinary Tribunals Recommended

TORONTO (CP) — A system of disciplinary tribunals has been proposed for the University of Toronto in a report rushed to completion after a campus uproar over administration statements on discipline.

The report, presented Sunday to University President Claude Bissell, calls for procedures that would make it as difficult to expel a student as it is to dismiss a faculty member.

Prepared by a university advisory committee on disciplinary procedures, the report was to have been released next month but was brought down earlier because of dissatisfaction on the campus.

The new tribunals would have equal representation from both students and faculty.

The 11-man committee, headed by Prof. D. R. Campbell, chairman of the department of political economy, said in the 55-page report that "this kind of structure and disciplinary procedure should reduce the likelihood of resort to disruptive actions" on campus.

Staff-cutting Plans Are Heavily Attacked

OTTAWA (CP) — Federal plans to chop 25,000 employees from the public payroll are under heavy attack.

David Orlikow (NDP—Winnipeg North) said in an interview the government's "heartless treatment" of staff may result in a New Democratic non-confidence motion when Parliament assembles Oct. 22.

John Diefenbaker said "a callous disregard" is being shown for the rights of public servants.

The former Conservative prime minister said the easiest target was being picked in the government's "so-called economy program."

Worried Liberal MPs from Ottawa ridings, where the electorate is heavily dependent on the government payroll, also expressed concern.

Jean T. Richard (L—Ottawa East) said Fisheries Minister Jack Davis "handled the whole thing wrong" in announcing that 200 full-time fisheries and forestry employees will be out.

The Davis announcement was the first concrete result of Prime Minister Trudeau's announcement in August that belt-tightening would trim the public services establishment by 10 per cent.

Justice Minister John Turner, MP for Ottawa Carleton, said many of the layoffs will be achieved by "retirement, relocation, resignation and death."

But J. J. Carson of the Public Service Commission said it was "absolutely misleading" to suggest that attrition will take care of the situation.

He was replying not to Mr. Turner's comment but to a similar one by Trevor Gough, vice-president of the public Service Alliance, a union group.

Mr. Gough said that retirement, resignation and death will create 42,000 vacancies in the public service in the next two years, enough to meet Mr. Trudeau's 25,000-reduction easily without layoffs.

But Mr. Carson said young university graduates and secretaries leaving to get married would account for much of this figure and they would have to be replaced.

Cool, wet weather played havoc with the Quinte Riding and Driving Club's weekly harness racing meet Saturday night at Belleville

Attendance and part-mutuel betting sagged greatly (to 482 and $13,341) and the times were slow, but the worst effect of the inclement weather was an accident in the very first race on the eight-best card.

Boy Buchanan, starting on the rail, took an early lead in the first race but coming around the first turn the second time his horse stumbled on the muddy, slippery track and went down on her front legs.

Buchanan got the horse going again before she went right down but the horses following were too close to pull up in time and a pile-up followed.

Walter DeMille driving Tripper's Boy slong the rail and Ben Wemp with Nifty's Rebel on the outside couldn't avoid the pileup and Pat Herrington and Davey Gratian somehow skirted between Buchanan's rig and the rail to avoid mishap.

Wemp was thrown from his cart and his horse continued on without him while DeMille was injured and taken to the hospital. He returned later in the night with only a banged up knee. Ben Wemp also injured his leg while Buchanan somehow emerged relatively unscathed.

Dillon Gold, driven by N. McFarland, Davey Gratian piloted by Pat Herington and Molly Hew Lea with Ross Brown driving managed to finish the six-horse race in that order.

Speeding driving champion Ben Wemp edged closer to 1969 leader Roy Buchanan desite Buchanan's first, second and third place performances.

Pileup, Sagging Attendance Play Havoc with Harness Meet

Who Says Eights Better?

By CECIL S. PAUL

Most people are under the impression that the eight cylinder cars have the best chance in the Super Feature races.

It looks like the sixes are as good as the eights, at Riverview Speedway, at least.

The 22nd race meet of the season was held on Sunday afternoon and the crowd saw the main event being won by Bill Cooney, in car number 4 — a six cylinder machine. It was Cooney's first feature win in three years of racing.

This makes 11 times that the Super Feature honors have gone to the smaller sixes.

Sport Brief

Giants Near Last Gasp

MONTREAL (CP) — Centre Larry Pleau's power-play goal at 11:21 of the third period gave Montreal Voyageurs of the American Hockey League a 3-3 tie with Oklahoma City Blazers of the Central Hockey League an exhibition game Sunday night.

* * *

SOUTH PORCUPINE, Ont. (CP) — Mary McLellan, 75, of South Porcupine, the mother of John McLellan, coach of the Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League, died in hospital here Sunday. She had been ill about a month.

* * *

STRATFORD, Ont. (CP) — Stratford Hoods dumped London Pontiacs 9-3 Saturday night to even their best-of-seven senior Intercounty Baseball Association finals at three wins each. At one point, London led the series 3-0 but Hoods roared back to force the seventh and deciding game in a London today.

* * *

OSHAWA (CP) — St. Catharines Black Hawks Saturday edged Oshawa Generals 5-4 in an Ontario Hockey Association Junior A exhibition contest. Al McDonough led the Hawks with two goals. Single goals went to Dennis Giannini, Doug Donbaugh, and Glen Chrichton. George Ferguson, Terry Rowland, Terry O'Reilly and Mike Fox replied for Oshawa.

* * *

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Billy Casper found it hard to believe in 1966 when he picked up five shots in four holes to tie and later defeat Arnold Palmer for the United States Open golf title. And Sunday, when the California pro gained six strokes in the last three holes and defeated Lee Trevino by one stroke to win the $55,000 first prize in the Alcan Golfer-of-the-Year tournament, he didn't believe it either. "I won't believe it until I get the cheque in the mail," said Casper of his surge of four birdies on the last four holes which gave him the victory when Trevino fell apart on the 16th and 17th holes.

* * *

CALGARY (CP) — Canada rid itself of the bitter taste of 20 years of defeat in men's badminton Saturday night by crushing the United States 8-1 in the second-annual Nepth American team competition. Jamie Paulson, 21, of Calgary, Canada's singles champion, showed the way as the Canadians swept the final team matches in just 69 minutes, to beat the U.S. in a nine-match series for the first time in two decades.

San Francisco Giants are still stirring, but their last gasp in the National League's West Division race could come at any time.

Atlanta Braves clinched a tie for the title Sunday, beating San Diego Padres 4-3, while the Giants were in Los Angeles where Juan Marichal beat the Dodgers 8-1, prolonging baseball's last divisional race at least until Tuesday.

The Braves need one more victory in their two remaining games against Cincinnati or one Giant loss in their last three against San Diego to clinch the crown.

When the end comes, the last place Padres will be remembered as the team that shaped the West Division race. Atlanta is in the midst of a nine-game winning streak and six of the victories have come against San Diego. When they weren't beating or losing to the Braves over the last 10 days, the Padres took two out of three from the Giants.

Elsewhere in the National League Sunday, New York Mets, the East Division champions, won their eighth straight, beating Philadelphia Phillies 2-0, St. Louis Cardinals blanked Montreal Expos 2-0, Cincinnati Reds slaug Houston Astros 4-1 and Chicago Cubs dropped Pittsburgh Pirates 3-1.

Saturday, St. Louis downed the Expos 2-1, New York beat Philadelphia 1-0, Pittsburgh whipped Chicago 4-1, the Braves took San Diego 4-2, Houston defeated Cincinnati 4-3 and Los Angeles lowered the Giants 2-1.

Hot-hitting Rico Carty led the Braves to the tie-clinching victory over the Padres. He smashed his 40th homer in the first inning and then doubled home another run in the eighth.

The hits raised Carty's batting average for the season to .342. He has batted .411 for the last 18 games.

Marichal kept the Giants' fading hopes alive with his 21st victory of the year. San Francisco broke the game open with a five-run sixth inning as Bill Singer fired for the fourth time to win his 20th game.

Willie McCovey brought Giants fans some small salvation by whacking his 45th homer of the year and taking over the National League lead from Hank Aaron. It is the only place the Braves trail the Giants in.

Three Met pitchers shared a four-hit shutout as New York's precocious young burling staff extended its scoreless streak to four games and 40 consecutive innings. Gary Gentry worked the first five innings and was credited with his 13th victory, while Nolan Ryan and Ron Taylor finished up.

Bob Gibson won his 19th game, shutting out the Expos, and starting St. Louis' winning rally with a ninth-inning single.

Billy Williams drilled a three-run homer to account for all the Chicago runs and Bill Hands won his 20th game, beating the Pirates.

Temeraire First Fiddle

Temeraire, which had been playing second fiddle to Varuna in Bay of Quinte Yacht Club course races this summer, earned the lead role and the spotlight Sunday in the second annual Corvette class race in the Bay of Quinte.

Taking a commanding lead on a windward start, Temeraire pulled away from the pack in the early going and widened her lead to ouddistance her competitors by a wide margin.

Skipper Freeman Burrows and his crew of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Blackbird, William Greeves, Ed Botteral and Doug Williamson had an easy time in defeating favored Varuna, skippered by Grant Rathbun, and winner of the Bay of Quinte Yacht Club championship.

Tridesd, skippered by El. wood Wickerson, placed second, while Varuna settled last in the field of five sloops.

Canada to Add $328 Million In 'Paper Gold' to Reserves

WASHINGTON (AP) — Canada stands to add more than $328,000,000 to its foreign exchange reserves in so-called "paper gold" as a result of this week's meeting of the International Monetary Fund.

The figure is learned for two reasons: other members of the 111-nation world monetary fund may not subscribe to the new plan to inject a new kind of inter-governmental currency into the world financial system, and Canada's quota in the IMF is likely to be raised next year.

Canada's current commitment to the IMF is $740,000,000 in U.S. dollars, of which one-quarter is subscribed in gold, and this commitment amounts to 3.49 per cent of the total funds.

If all members of the IMF took up their share of the new Special Drawing Rights, Canada's share would be approximately $328,000,000 created during the next three years.

But Canadian officials say all 111 countries are not likely to take up their full quotas, and this will have the affect of increasing the amount available to Canada. Moreover, the fund next year is to review the quotas, and Canada expects an increase. This also will result in an increase in special Drawing Rights, or SDRs, available to Canada.

Finance Minister Edgar Benson arrived in Washington Sunday from Barbados, where he led Canada's delegation to last week's conference of Commonwealth finance ministers.

Benson, scheduled to address this world congress of finance ministers Tuesday, is expected to endorse wholeheartedly the creation of the new drawing rights. They will add—in a book-keeping way—to the present store of gold, sterling, and U.S. dollars as a means of settling debts between nations.

The three things are on the agenda in descending order of urgency:

1. Immediately, activation of the Special Drawing Rights, approved by a substantial majority of IMF members and their legislative bodies, including the Canadian Parliament.

2. Study, in preparation for action next year, of plans to increase IMF quotas generally, with an extra increase for four fast-growing countries—Canada, France, Japan and Italy.

3. Consideration of some plan to make fixed exchange rates more flexible than those that now prevail.

Activation of the SDRs on Jan. 1, 1970, now seems to be a foregone conclusion.

The idea now being discussed by world bankers here is to raise all quotas by 30 per cent, plus or minus three per cent. This would increase Canada's $740,000,000 to between $885,000,000 and $890,000,000.

On the third topic, Canada has so far expressed no view.

The last formal statement made by Benson is that fixed exchange rates should be defended. The Canadian dollar now is pegged at 92½ cents in U.S. dollar terms.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 — Dec. 21): New friends might put you on to good things without even realizing it. Your open solution fills in the gaps. Attend or give a small party tonight.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 — Jan. 19): Care in travel and effort to lower your tensions will get you through the day in good form. Go about your work day quietly. Rest early.

The Little Bulbs

They are smaller than the bulbs of tulips, hyacinths or daffodils and are usually planted earlier in the Fall. The most popular probably is the crocus. Other equally appealing little bulbs you should get to know better are: Galanthus (Snowdrop), Chionodoxa (Glory - of - the - Snow), Scilla (Squill), Muscari (Grape Hyacinth), Eranthis (Winter Aconite). They have as many uses as their varied forms suggest. They grow to different heights, and bloom at different times, from the end of winter until the early warmth of summer. Often they are found tucked away in back pages of catalogues or odd corners of the store, under the heading of "miscellaneous bulbs." But these will amply reward anybody who takes them and tries them, especially as so many will multiply and spread without thought or care from the gardener, like lilies of the field.

West German Chancellor Kurt Georg Kiesinger talks with Foreign Minister Willy Brandt at cabinet meeting in Bonn Moday. It was the first time they met after Sunday's West German federal elections. Welch Points Way

Progress Is Judged By City's Life Style

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

Boom must breed more than economic values.

Bellevillians — celebrating a year of unprecedented civic expansion last night were given the moral caution from a top government source.

They were advised that a community's material and technical progress must not be realized at the expense of individual liberty.

The reminder came from Provincial Secretary Robert Welch as he addressed a festive civic reception at Moeller Auditorium — the Midnight Sensation of Belleville Week.

Mr. Welch brought this message to the feasting:

The quality of a community lies with its people. The way they are permitted to pursue and attain individual identity sets the community's "life style."

SAIGON (AP) — About 1,000 U.S. marines of the 3rd Division flew from Vietnam to Okinawa today and another 4,900 prepared to depart for the United States in the first big move in the 35,000-man withdrawal ordered by President Nixon.

STOCKHOLM (AP) — Sweden plans to give North Vietnam more than $40,000,000 in economic aid, Foreign Minister Torsten Nilson announced today at the Social Democratic party congress.

Floating Mark Climbs Sharply

FRANKFURT (Reuters) — Climbing steadily on its first day without a government-imposed ceiling, the West German mark today sold at a premium of more than four per cent.

Dealers were asking $26.08 U.S. for 100 marks—selling 3.833 marks for a dollar. The abandoned parity rate was $25 for 100 marks.

In Brussels, sources close to the West German Common Market delegation said the floating mark probably would last about three weeks before a parity rate was established again.

The usual government policy of keeping the international exchange value of the mark within narrow limits was abandoned Monday by the Bonn government.

The move followed a West German national election Saturday, which left a lame-duck coalition of Christian Democrats and Social Democrats in rule the country while the Social Democrats tried to win the support of the small Free Democratic party for a new coalition.

It was the Christian Democrats who solicited a Social Democrat plan to raise the international exchange value of the mark in May. Speculators have been betting that a Social Democratic government would give them a quick profit by revaluing the West German mark upwards. But no coalition stays in power till Oct. 20.

West German foreign exchange reserves have closed Thursday and Friday to head off a rush of speculative buying. Again Monday when no other mark been developed in a brief trading period.

Strong demand for marks was reported in the French, Italian and Swiss exchanges. But there did not appear to be a major stampede to buy marks in the expectation that a formal revaluation of the currency to an even higher level would follow.

Chancellor Kurt Georg Kiesinger's Christian Democrats and Foreign Minister Willy Brandt's Social Democrats—joined in an alliance that expires Oct. 19—began to open a series of talks with the Free Democrats today, both proposing coalition.

Brandt, who has announced he wants to be the next chancellor, hastily ruled out a continuation of the present "grand coalition" by informing President Gustave Heinemann he intends to negotiate with Free Democrat Leader Walter Scheel.

Scheel is armed with a recommendation from the powerful North Rhine—Westphalia wing of his party to accept the Social Democrats' proposal.

Civil Rights Laws Opposed At Belfast

BELFAST (CP) — Hundreds of singing, flag-waving demonstrators massed in the heart of the Northern Ireland Parliament today in protest at government proposals to meet Roman Catholic demands for civil rights reform.

The demonstrators waved Union Jacks, the symbol of their support for the country's Protestant-based government, and sang anti-Catholic songs.

"I heard there were earthquake but land no idea..."

Edmonton Court Is Bombed

EDMONTON (CP) — A dynamite explosion blasted a side wall of the municipal court building early today scattering broken glass and other debris for more than a block.

A police spokesman said about 16 sticks of dynamite apparently were placed against the wall of the building near a side entrance, across the street from city police headquarters. No injuries were reported.

Police said a suspect was arrested within 90 minutes of the blast.

The explosion caved-in heavy concrete blocks around the glass and steel ground-level side entrance, shattered ground-floor windows and blew out most second-storey windows in the half-block west wall.

Sandbags weighing about 20 pounds, piled along the curb to prevent flooding during sewer repairs were scattered like paper cups. Some were hurled 12 feet by the blast and left in shreds.

Only occupants of the building were believed to be duty police-men. Prisoners awaiting trial are usually confined to basement cells in the building but police would not say bether anyone was in custody when the explosion occurred.

Appeal Issued By B. C. Group

VANCOUVER (CP) — A planned blockade by university students of all U.S.-Canada border crossing points was announced today as protests mounted in British Columbia against Thursday's scheduled nuclear test blast by the United States in the Aleutian Islands.

Norman Wright, 47, student council president of the University of Victoria, called for the blockade and received quick support from the University of British Columbia Student Society.

Mr. Wright said telegrams were sent to student councils of another 70 Canadian universities and colleges urging them to organize blockades from noon to 1 p.m. local times Wednesday.

"We want the blockade to extend from British Columbia to Nova Scotia," Mr. Wright said. The protest would take the form of "just getting enough bodies in border points to make the point quite clear."

In a statement, issued early today, the UBC Student Society said the blockade must be accomplished through an orderly attempt on the Canadian side of the border on the northbound route.

Mr. Wright said in Victoria copies of his telegram were sent to top Canadian and U.S. government officials as well as to the universities.

Meanwhile, a Vancouver television station called Monday night for viewers to phone in if they wanted their names added to the blockade. A protest television station plans to send today to U.S. President Richard Nixon.

Strike To Close Airports

TORONTO (CP) — The regional director of air services for Ontario said today it will be impossible to maintain operations after midnight tonight if 180 key electronics technicians go through with their threat to stage an illegal walkout at 12:01 a.m. today.

David Glenn said in an interview that supervisory personnel could not maintain electronic navigation aids, communications equipment and radar at the 11 airports if air marches stations affected if the strike goes on.

"There isn't anything supervisory workers can do in this situation. It is all so technical—only the technicians can handle it. One thing we are not going to do is jeopardize safety."

Meanwhile, Gordon Dobbie, head of the Ontario unit, Local 2224, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, said his men were determined to leave their jobs at 1 p.m.

The most are federal government employees on care negotiating for higher salaries with the treasury department.

An emergency meeting between the union's chief government negotiator and the maverick unit Monday night failed to produce a last-minute agreement.

The men have full knowledge that the walkout will be illegal and are prepared to face the consequences before the courts," said Jim Wolfgang, the union's government employees' representative.

Mr. Dobbie met with the unit workers this morning and said they were unanimous in their decision to walk out.

CIA Won't Give Evidence

For Green Berets--A Party For Vietnamese Widow--Sobs

LONG BINH (CP) — The six Green Berets officers freed of murder charges celebrated today with a beer party and prepared to fly home, while the widow of their alleged victim sobbed: "The soul of my husband will follow those who killed him."

"The outcome we never doubted at any time," said Col. Robert Rheault, 43, of Vineyard Haven, Mass., after Army Secretary Stanley Resor announced in Washington Monday Rheault and five fellow officers would not be court martialed in the slaying of an alleged Vietnamese double agent because the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency would not furnish witnesses.

Resor, who less than two weeks ago said he would not yield to congressional pressure to halt courts martial of the Green Berets, said the CIA's action meant the defendants could not get a fair trial.

"Accordingly, I have directed that all charges be dismissed immediately," Resor said in a statement.

There were hints the CIA felt civilian lawyers hired to defend the Green Berets might talk to the press about classified spy operations in Vietnam during or after scheduled trials.

"You can hold a court martial behind closed doors, but that doesn't mean you can ensure secrecy with all the people involved in the proceedings," one officer commented.

Pentagon officials said it was up to Army and the CIA alone to decide whether intelligence personnel could testify in the trials without hurting the national interest.

"The only question was how and how difficult it would be to prove the point," Rheault added as his comrades drank the beer, loudly played the ballad of the Green Berets on a portable phonograph and got ready to fly home.

A few miles from this military post, Mrs. Pham Kim Lien, widow of the slain Vietnamese, screamed:

"The Americans are worse than the Viet Cong! I'm going to join the Viet Cong! I'm going to blow up the Americans! They took more cruel and savage than the Communists!"

From South of Border, Down Michigan Way Comes Best Lil' Ol' Frog Coach in World

By HARRY MULHALL
(Staff Reporter)

It began with a squirt.

The official starter pressed a water pistol, the crowd hooted, the coaches hollered — and the contestants flipped.

Out of the confusion on Belleville's Market Square Canada's first Olympic-style frog pentathlon hopped, skipped, jumped and swam into life.

The starting squirt sent four contestants petering down the track — Belleville's own champion bullfrog under challenge from three hefty U.S. entries.

The running of the bulls was a fanciful highlight of Belleville Week, adding offbeat fun to the seven-day program of civic celebrations.

While the four challengers were officially nameless they had prestige coaching — the mayors of North America's four municipalities named Belleville.

Mayor Russell Scott was defiantly challenged by a line up of mayoral managers who signed-in as Royce Smith, Belleville, Mich., Charles Nichols, Belleville, Ill., and Ken Smith, Belleville, N.J.

The managers' government experience stood the entire contest in good stead. Obviously old hands at political prodding, they coaxed their respective champions through the various contests in short order.

Included were a long-distance run, a high jump and swim — all staged on platform made-to-measure for the event.

The quartet of contestants displayed various styles at various times, ranging from energetic enthusiasm to just ordinary aimlessness.

But a victor finally emerged.

The champion North American bullfrog pentathlon, waterlily this year goes south of the border.

Visiting Mayors

They Love Our 'Belle Ville'

By LINDA GELDART
Staff Reporter

It was another first for the city of Belleville yesterday afternoon — and the happy blame rests completely on Belleville Week.

Mayors from three other cities reached Belleville—in the United States — Illinois, Michigan and New Jersey — were warmly welcomed by Mayor J. R. Scott at an afternoon reception in council chambers.

Past mayors from the city itself, plus many of the former aldermen were present to socialize in the relaxed informal atmosphere, with wives of the aldermen serving coffee and dessert to the guests.

Mayor Scott termed the afternoon "an event of great importance."

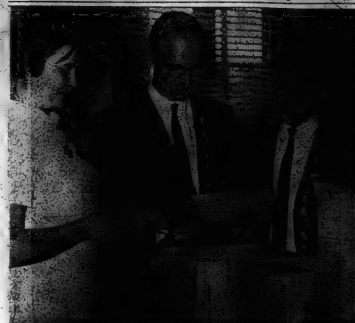
"Besides," he interjected, "this is the closest place to home for you and I know you have all brought your frogs". He was referring to the first international olympic frog pentathelon here later in the day.

Mayor Royce Smith of Belleville, Michigan, told the gathering he had visited the city three years ago, and was "glad to be back."

"I'm happy to be here," replied the mayor from Belleville, Illinois, Charles Nichols. "People are so friendly. You can be sure I'll never down it would have to be here."

"I have found the hospitality here to be fantastic, second to none. I have never driven so far and felt so much at home," he added.

Mayor Royce Smith and Mrs. Smith of Belleville, Michigan, thanked the guests about their good trip, but particularly about their reception in their invitation to come and be part of the Belleville Week celebrations.



"I was surprised at first — accepted a city mayor to do this type of thing. It was the first time I had heard of Belleville, Ontario, because I've always done much travelling in this country," said Mrs. Smith.

The couple were deeply impressed with the friendliness and hospitality of the city. "We definitely want to come back and see the people here," added Mrs. Smith.

After the reception the visiting guests were offered a bus tour of the city, with Ray Brown, the Industrial Commissioner, acting as guide.

Before embarking on the two-hour tour, Mayor Ken Smith of New Jersey, facetiously stated that all Bellevilles are wonderful."

"Yes," agreed Mayor Nicholas of Belleville, Illinois, "they are. You couldn't have conceived of a better idea than Belleville Week. Civic-minded is the only way to describe the population. We will have to try to talk the people of our city into getting involved; it something like this."

Assessment Notices in the Mail

City Assessment Commissioner Leighton Thompson (centre) with office workers Mrs. Dianne Ray and Frank Howard, check some of the 13,000 assessment notices being mailed out today.

Assessment Notices Out

What could be the last assessment notices to be sent out from Belleville City Hall are going into the mails today.

Plans of the Ontario government call for the assessment function to be taken over by the province on January 1 and, if these are carried out, future assessment notices will go out from an area office.

The notices being mailed from city hall today will go to approximately 13,000 property owners and tenants.

Assessment notices are sent to tenants for three reasons:
(1) to indicate school support (public or separate);
(2) to indicate tenants are eligible for the provincial basic shelter exemption;
(3) to indicate that tenants' names are on the municipal voters' list.

Belleville-A-Go-Go

Rock Concert Books Seven Bands

By BARRY GRILLS
Staff Reporter

"It's going to be something different that Belleville has never seen."

Those were the words of Gail McDermott, co-chairman of the Belleville Week Rock Concert at Bleecker Hall, younger Belleville's contribution to the week, to be held this Friday, Oct. 3.

She and the chairman of the event, Gordon Johnston, talked to the Intelligencer recently about the upcoming concert.

"Some of the problems we had are being cleared up," explained Gordon. "There were problems about time, about the capacity of the hall and about the entertainment."

Other problems such as security preparations have also been cleared up.

The talent lined up for the concert has been finalized after hocking discussions with a number of out-of-town groups became confused.

Two groups originally slated to play the concert, Vancouver's Mother Tucker's Yellow Duck and Toronto's Sherman and Peabody, informed the concert committee that they were booked elsewhere.

The final hours of the concert will be approximately 7 p.m. until 2 a.m. Only advance ticket holders will be able to obtain admittance. Advance tickets for the seven-hour, seven-band show are $2.

Entertainment includes the McKenna Mendelson Mainline, Liberty Record recording artists and former Rock Pile houseband. This group will play two sets during the evening.

Also slated is Milkwood, a recording group from the United States working from Toronto. Neon Rose is the third out-of-town group.

Locally, the concert will feature Bill the Lizard, The Westbury Union, the Sands of Time (offering their services for free) and the Chipperfield Clarkson Group.

CJBQ radio personality Peter Thompson, and CHUM-FM disc jockey Peter Griffin will share master of ceremonies responsibilities for the evening.

All local bands are offering their talents for cut-rate prices.

"We've never had a concert before," explained Gordon. "At least it's the first time since I've been here."

Gail explained that part of the reasoning for a lengthy concert was the fact that before, Belleville rock fans had to go to Toronto to take part and that was very expensive.

"If this one goes over well and we sell all our tickets, there will probably be bigger and better ones held," she said.

And ticket sales are going well. All tickets were supplied to the various second-day schools in the city and two or three of them have already sold out.

Already almost half of the advance tickets had been sold after two days of sale at the schools on Friday.

Part of the reason for the quick sale of tickets is the low price. "The price is extremely low considering that the ticket offers seven hours and seven bands of entertainment," said Gordon.

The concert stemmed from a belief by its supporters and committee members that younger Belleville could handle the responsibility of doing its share to boost Belleville by themselves.

"I think it'll show that the younger people of Belleville can handle responsibility," said Gail.

"The Belleville of the future will be ours," said Gordon.

Spectators are advised to bring plenty of cushions as the concert on chairs will not be supplied, adding to the informality of the event. Refreshments will be sold.

'Doing Her Thing'

To Troubled Teens She's 'Mom'

By MARG HATLOCK
Staff Reporter

PICTON — Prince Edward County's "mod mom" can be seen in provincial court in Picton almost every Wednesday morning.

It seems that one of her "children" is always in trouble - - - sometimes for the second or third time around.

While most mothers might grow discouraged, this unusual lady remarked, "I feel strongly about what I am doing and I feel the need of doing it without publicity."

Because she tries to avoid all publicity, the Wellington district woman who "adopts" teens in trouble refused to be named. Although she and her husband have children and grandchildren of their own, this woman has gradually expanded her family to include almost any young person in trouble.

Wielding young people placed on probation in court, this self-appointed "mom" sometimes offers them a place to stay if a change in environment promises to be beneficial. Similarly, youths on suspended sentence frequently are welcomed at her farm home if there is friction in their own residence.

Involved with youth work on a non-professional basis for about 14 years, she and her husband keep in touch with many of their one-time charges.

The couple do not confine their work entirely to Prince Edward County. Often they travel to Guelph Reformatory where they visit with local boys serving sentences. Letters go out to these youths between visits, written by the woman who said, "I guess you could call this 'our thing', for it has given us continued satisfaction."

Recently, the unofficial "mother" of several county teens became concerned over statements by Picton youth that there was nothing to do in town. An objective woman, she did her own research on this subject, using Prince Edward Collegiate as her base.

Following talks with students and a teacher at the school, she learned there are approximately 63 extra curricular activities ranging from curling to a gun club open to all interested teens.

According to her survey, about 90 per cent of the students belonging to school clubs and teams were from rural areas. Very few Picton teens were involved.

"It seems to me," she said, "that there is something for everyone to do in this program of extra-curricular activities."

She was eager for Picton young people to consider the numerous recreational outlets available in what they have called a "nothing to do" town.

Absent of all that interests teens and concerned with giving a helping hand to youth in trouble, she spoke of the maturity that eventually lifts many young people out of court and into main stream life.

"Sometimes when I get a letter from a boy in the reformatory," she commented, "he will add a 'please write soon' then follows up with 'but write to my friend first, because he never gets any mail'."

To "mom" this is a sign that the young man has learned to place someone else's feelings before his own.

Some housewives will devote next Wednesday morning to scattering or perhaps to baking. Probably Prince Edward's most unconventional hostess, "mom," will spend that day in court, drawn by her concern for youth.

Results of Police Study Remain A Mystery

PICTON (Staff) — Picton's three-man police commission has received no report to date from a recent survey of the adequacy of the town police made by special investigator from the Ontario Police Commission.

The survey was conducted after town council last month requested the police commission to contact the Attorney General's office seeking an investigation.

Council's request was prompted in part by a complaint placed before it by councillor Margaret Ackerman. Mrs. Ackerman was dissatisfied with police action on a complaint she had made concerning a local youth's attempt to force her daughter to accompany him to Picton Fairgrounds.

A 15-year-old youth was identified by her daughter in the same day in a police line-up.

Judge Wilfred S. Lane chairman of the Picton Police Commission, commented the investigation of the seven-man town police force by the OPC stemmed from the incident reported to council by Mrs. Ackerman.

His described the ensuing action as "understandable but unfortunate."

"Maybe the investigation was a good idea," added Judge Lane. He expressed his confidence in the Picton Police Force and mentioned the good job he feels they have done in meeting recent emergencies including a street fight and a near riot.

"I have little criticism of them." He said he expects to receive a report concerning the survey of the local police force shortly. The police commission will deal with this report and if it so desired, could withhold its results from town council.

Labor(ing) Wait

PICTON (Staff) — No news is the only news received so far by approximately 190 electrical union workers at the Picton plant of Provincial Paper concerning their application to the Ontario Labor Relations Board in Toronto for certification as bargaining agents.

A management spokesman commented this morning "the department of labor moves in wondrous ways, its miracles to perform."

REAL ESTATE

IS THIS A GOOD TIME TO BUY A HOUSE?

In a time when house prices and mortgage rates are high, what should a prudent person do?

Should you wait for the market to take a dip? Or go ahead and buy despite prices, and rates.

If you have your eye on a house that suits your family's needs, aesthetics and financial circumstances, then your best move is to buy now.

There is nothing within human view that will roll back wage rates or alter that cost of building materials or depress land values enough to make good homes cheaper than they are now.

There is a logical reason why real estate prices should decline while mortgage interest rates go up since the higher rate restricts the price range into which the buyer may venture. But inflation and demand are overriding factors.

While government efforts to halt inflation through the high cost of money may result in false hopes here and there, the general trend is almost universally forcast to go upwards.

One caution is to obtain a mortgage arrangement with little or no penalty for paying off ahead of time so that in the event of mortgage rates going down you can refinance with a minimum of expense.

A good realtor will recognize these pitfalls to avoid and can save you many times his fee. Seek his advice.

Pennant Design Contest Gaining Momentum

A design competition to produce a Belleville pennant "is going quite well" says chamber of commerce manager O. S. Bradley.

"It is open to every student in the school system in Belleville from kindergarten to Grade 13 and already we have had 20 or 30 designs submitted."

The contest was the idea of Keith Allison, owner of the Shopetia storey in Belleville, and has been undertaken as a joint project of Mr. Allison and the chamber. Eighteen prizes will be offered for the top designs.

Another project which has won some quick community recognition is the distribution of newspapers to train passengers going through the city. The newspapers, made available by The Intelligencer, are being distributed by members of the Kiwanis Club as their participation in Belleville Week.

"The reception was great yesterday," said one Kiwanian who distributed the special industrial edition to passengers on the Toronto-Montreal run. Club members will continue to meet all trains for the duration of Belleville Week.

A project which will also produce an impact will be the appearance on city streets of some 50,000 shopping bags boosting Belleville. "We might not be able to get them in the next few days," said Mr. Bradley, "but the idea has grown out of Belleville Week and is a project of those merchants who have expressed a willingness to participate."

Chamber Secretary Sorts Entries

Not Rented

Yesterday's report in The Intelligencer indicating that apartments in the new Bay of Quinte Towers were rented was incorrect.

Mr. T. E. Schwab, property manager and rental agent for the new 82-unit building now under construction on Bridge St. West, said today that the apartments had not yet been placed on the market although there had been numerous enquiries.

"It will be the end of the year before we are ready to show people leases," said Mr. Schwab. "We haven't even decided on prices."

Completion date for the new West Hill apartment structure is tentatively set for about May 1, 1970.

War on Pollution

The war against pollution has taken a significant turn with two government announcements that presage a considerable degree of success in reducing this problem.

First was Ontario Health Minister Thomas Wells' announcement that general use of the insecticide DDT will be prohibited in Ontario as from the beginning of next year.

The province is the first region in North America to impose an outright ban. There is temporary control of it in the United States pending study of its effects on human and animal life, but as yet no such stricture at the federal level of Canada.

Having taken this step Ontario will now have to keep a close check for its effects to establish the connection, if any, between the use of DDT and human and animal life. Such a study would be of value to every government concerned with this problem.

The second announcement was Ontario Energy Minister George Kerr's "revolutionary new process" for removing from sewage the phosphorous and nitrogen nutrients that threaten to destroy the Great Lakes.

Again, the discovery — a type of lime precipitation process resulting from research by the Ontario Water Resources Commission — will be invaluable to authorities in both Canada and the United States in the fight against pollution.

As a footnote we might mention a classic illustration of the effects of man-made pollution. U.S. border authorities have been cracking down heavily recently on the smuggling of marijuana from Mexico. Reports said cars were kept waiting in line for as much as six hours as the checks were made and some people became ill from auto exhaust fumes.

The crackdown was reported a success — but as may be seen it was achieved at a price. By bringing one problem under a measure of stricter control, another one was created. Which is worse — marijuana or carbon monoxide?

PM's Itinerary

The north and northwestern areas of Ontario which Prime Minister Trudeau has been visiting have a charm all their own.

Geraldton (where he analyzed his style of leadership and noted that his successors would likely be "very different" according to the mood of the times), is right up there in the northern bush where the loggers work and bears prowl and the sun sets in a great splash of panoramic light.

Lake Superior, seen from the train between Marathon and Terrace Bay, or from the Trans Canada, and at this time of year in particular as fall approaches its peak and the northern chill is felt, is one of the great scenic experiences of this continent.

The remoteness and grandeur of it all strikes home in a community like Hearst. Leaving this town with the atmosphere of the frontier drivers encounter a sign saying there is not another gas station for 100 miles — in Longlac. At least that was the case some years ago; perhaps it has changed since.

At Hearst the landlord residents look out on Thunder Bay which under amalgamation will be the new name of the twin cities of Port Arthur and Port William. Out in this blue or grey expanse, depending on Superior's fickle moods, Lakeheaders can see Sibley Peninsula, more commonly known as the "Sleeping Giant", and Silver Islet where nearly a century ago there was a busy mining operation. Beyond that again, on the horizon, is historic Isle Royale, a United States National park and wild life preserve where Indians mined copper 5,000 years ago.

Doubtless Mr. Trudeau will have noted the nip in the air up north. News film showed him with his hands thrust into his European-style raincoat. But you can still golf if you are lucky well into October. Overall a journey by train to the coast and a sharp snowstorm as it pulled into Nipigon. Seventy miles farther on, at the Lakehead, it was bright and sunny, just perfect for a stopover and that game of golf.

We Benefit Too

Perhaps those who have been worrying about U.S. threats to Canadian sovereignty will have noted a report from Ottawa that was eagerly awaited in the capital is the data picked up by scientists aboard the S. S. Manhattan as the giant U.S. tanker sailed through the Northwest Passage. In other words it must be acknowledged once again that without the United States this country would never have reached the stage of development it has today. Canada as well as the United States, which after all is our closest neighbor and friend, benefits from such explorations.

Another Trudeau Break with Tradition

Powerful 'Inner Cabinet' All from Ontario and Quebec

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — Suddenly coming to power 17 months ago, Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau, calling himself first of all a pragmatist, served public notice that he would break with tradition whenever the breaking made sense.

A new and different kind of prime minister, he would find new and different ways of doing things.

This would not be easy — few previous prime ministers had tried it, even experimentally, and fewer succeeded.

Tradition — the doing of things the old, tried and true ways — comes built-in on Parliament Hill.

The Commons itself, supposedly the seat of ultimate national power, operates essentially on procedures parliamentarians going back to the beginning, 102 years ago, in the record books to confirm long-established points of procedure.

Which very likely is the reason that the public so often regards the parliamentary process agonizingly slow and wastefully inefficient.

So what would a new, different, constitutionally impatient and pragmatic prime minister do but change the rules?

He did just that.

The Opposition, in the no-longer-sacred name of tradition is outraged.

But the opposition is a majority and the prime minister a pragmatist who does not hesitate to use his majority to work his will.

That was tradition-breaking enough.

But now the prime minister has gone on to break with the most hallowed parliament a ry tradition of them all — regional cabinet representation.

Not the power-chariots of having at least one representative of every province among the 30 ministers ringing the privy council table in the East Block and filling those two frontbench rows in the Commons.

But in the selection of the men who comprise his inner cabinet — the power elite — at the centre of it all on the special planning which exercises the supreme authority.

This special committee has the power to make final decisions on policy, on taxing and spending — the ultimate authority previously the preserve of the whole cabinet.

The key men on this committee are from the two central provinces . . . Trudeau, Marchand and Drury from Quebec; Benson, Macdonald and Sharp from Ontario.

Ministers from the other eight provinces are not members of this exclusive decision-making power club.

Actually, it is a geographical accident, this centralizing of the real power in the central provinces.

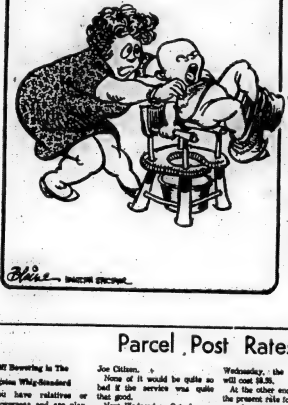
Names of the committees members theoretically are supposed to be secret, to avoid regional jealousies and friction, and protect its members from pressure.

But secrets are made to be broken.

Which could be the reason former Prime Minister Pearson wanted to try the inner cabinet operation, but did not dare for fear of wounding regional feelings.

This "Trudeaustring" of the cabinet system tells the ball for the free-wheeling days when a scene power giant like C. D. Howe, "minister of everything" or even lesser authorities like Paul Hellyer did "their thing," like it or not.

They could get an idea — like Howe's for crown corporations, creating Air Canada, Eldorado, Polymer, Atomic Energy and a dozen others — or Hellyer's for the misbegotten armed forces unification — draft the legislation and bulldoze it through Parliament no matter what.



The sudden loss of that kind of supreme power was what drove Paul Hellyer around the Commons bend — the prime minister just would not let him have his head.

Pearson tried to stop Hellyer on unification and backed off at the threat of the former defence minister's resignation.

Hellyer attempted the same resignation ploy on Trudeau who, unimpressed, let alone intimidated, coolly told him to go and get lost — which he did.

Now nobody — except, of course, "Potent Pierre" himself — outside the inner cabinet circle, makes any decisions.

To minimize any second-guessing of the inner cabinet, two of its wheelers, Benson w, finance and Drury of treasury board, have refined decision-making to the point of computerizing some of the information upon which ministerial minds are made.

Canada was elected to the United Nations Security Council 23 years ago today — in 1946 — for a two-year term to fill one of the three vacancies that would occur at the end of the year. The two-year terms of Australia, Poland and Brazil were due to expire. The council contained 11 nations — the permanent members, the United States, the Soviet Union, Britain, France and China, and six members elected for two-year terms.

1954 — USS Nautilus, first nuclear-powered submarine, was commissioned.

1963 — The Federal Republic of Nigeria was proclaimed.

Geraldton (where he analyzed his style of leadership and noted that his successors would likely be "very different" according to the mood of the times), is right up there in the northern bush where the loggers work and bears prowl and the sun sets in a great splash of panoramic light.

Lake Superior, seen from the train between Marathon and Terrace Bay, or from the Trans Canada, and at this time of year in particular as fall approaches its peak and the northern chill is felt, is one of the great scenic experiences of this continent.

The remoteness and grandeur of it all strikes home in a community like Hearst. Leaving this town with the atmosphere of the frontier drivers encounter a sign saying there is not another gas station for 100 miles — in Longlac. At least that was the case some years ago; perhaps it has changed since.

At Hearst the landlord residents look out on Thunder Bay which under amalgamation will be the new name of the twin cities of Port Arthur and Port William. Out in this blue or grey expanse, depending on Superior's fickle moods, Lakeheaders can see Sibley Peninsula, more commonly known as the "Sleeping Giant", and Silver Islet where nearly a century ago there was a busy mining operation. Beyond that again, on the horizon, is historic Isle Royale, a United States National park and wild life preserve where Indians mined copper 5,000 years ago.

Doubtless Mr. Trudeau will have noted the nip in the air up north. News film showed him with his hands thrust into his European-style raincoat. But you can still golf if you are lucky well into October. Overall a journey by train to the coast and a sharp snowstorm as it pulled into Nipigon. Seventy miles farther on, at the Lakehead, it was bright and sunny, just perfect for a stopover and that game of golf.

We Benefit Too

Perhaps those who have been worrying about U.S. threats to Canadian sovereignty will have noted a report from Ottawa that was eagerly awaited in the capital is the data picked up by scientists aboard the S. S. Manhattan as the giant U.S. tanker sailed through the Northwest Passage. In other words it must be acknowledged once again that without the United States this country would never have reached the stage of development it has today. Canada as well as the United States, which after all is our closest neighbor and friend, benefits from such explorations.

Parcel Post Rates Up Tomorrow

Cliff Bowering in The Kingston Whig-Standard

If you have relatives or friends overseas and are planning on sending them a Christmas parcel there are only a few days left to get it off — at today's rates.

I keep getting the disturbing idea that Eric Kierans and his postal advisers are doing everything in their power to discourage the use of the mails by Canadians.

None of it would be quite so bad if the service was quite that good.

Next Wednesday, Oct. 1, parcel post rates for destinations in Europe, Africa and Asia go up. In fact, the increases are considerable enough to wonder on what Mr. Kierans is at based them.

A 22-pound parcel (the maximum weight carried overseas by mail) costs $5.40 to send to England or France today. Next Wednesday, the same parcel will cost $6.35.

At the other end of the scale, the present rate for a two-pound parcel overseas is $1.18. On Oct. 1 it will rise to $1.58.

No friends or relations overseas? Don't worry, the postal boys have some price hikes in store for you too.

Within the province, starting bright and early in 1970, it will cost $2.15 to send a 25-pound parcel (a, say, Sudbury, Today it costs $1.90 to mail the same size parcel of goodies to your favorite nephew in the north.

Interprovincial rates are to go up on Jan. 1 as well.

So you might note how quietly the rate increases have been introduced. (Perhaps nobody would have known about them, locally at any rate, until after they had become effective if it hadn't been for a tip from a "Mr. Taylor". My thanks for the information.)

Recognizing Children's Gifts

Peter Swann in The Globe and Mail

The Hall-Dennis Report on the Aims and Objects of Education is a warm, human document. Even its serious tone and official language fail to hide its affection and involvement.

The whole thing makes inspiring reading, even for the layman. And that's a lot more than one can say for most other reports. Among many revealing observations is this one: "It must be recognized that there are many children who have special gifts in music or art or drama, but who have no particular interest in the sciences or mathematics or other academic disciplines. The curriculum must provide for their programs and for graduation with emphasis in their specialties. These children cannot be branded as failures by the fact that their talents lie in special areas rather than in the traditional disciplines."

How true! But how extraordinary that it should ever have been thought necessary even to say it, even to suggest that we live in a society where a child gifted in the arts might be in danger of being considered a failure.

Commonwealth Relations

Ottawa Journal

Prime Minister Holyoake of New Zealand, a visitor here, thought that the winds of change had blown Canada and his country a bit apart. There had been no loss of friendship, of course, but New Zealand had to look towards new alliances with the coming departure of Britain as a military force in the Pacific. New Zealanders find a good sense to be involved in collective defence with free neighbor countries.

Two Canadians have worried much about continued good relations with New Zealand and Australia — they have been taken for granted. But in time for us to become more interested in the affairs of the Commonwealth in the third continent — the Arctic has to be counted as well as the Atlantic and where we have responsibilities.

Holyoake said that Prime Minister Trudeau had agreed with him on the desirability of discussions being conducted by representatives of the two countries on a wide range of topics. New Zealanders were Canadians' comrades in two wars and anything that helps ensure they will be continued comrades in peace is welcome.

Middlesex South to NDP

Ottawa Journal

After 36 years in power, the Ontario Conservatives have to expect by-election defeats even in constituencies as faithful to their party as Middlesex South. The NDP candidate who won there built up a strong majority in the towns and did well enough in the rural areas. He capitalized on discontents, one of the most recent to develop being the protest over the level of premiums which have to be paid for Medicare.

The new Democrats, still buoyed up by their victory in Manitoba and ignoring their subsequent failure in British Columbia, now talk of winning power in Ontario. They should know, as the Tories do, that one by-election is never a promise of general election success. What the Tories should know, further, is that Middlesex South is a warning to moderate, polish and publicize their policies to prove they are in step with the times. They may not be successful, but if the electorate think they are it's just as bad.

Foes of Alaskan Nuclear Test Fear Bigger Bangs in Future

WASHINGTON (CP) — Opponents of the big nuclear test on Alaska's Amchitka Island not only object to Thursday's planned blast, but look with apprehension at bigger detonations that may follow.

Unofficial reports say tests in the five-megaton range—equivalent to 5,000,000 tons of TNT—are contemplated for the tiny Aleutian island located well into the Pacific from the mainland.

Nixon administration officials Monday said they would answer such questions specifically. In closed meetings of the Senate foreign relations committee today, questions why administration feels the tests are essential and why they should go ahead as scheduled.

The British Columbia government Monday urged Canada's External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp to seek cancellation, or at least postponement of the initial test, "until it can be firmly established that no danger to life or property will occur."

At least three tests of progressively stronger magnitude are scheduled.

An Ottawa government note to the U.S. Sept. 19 said an element of risk or injury or damage to persons or property in Canada "cannot be entirely eliminated."

The Canadian government, the note said, cannot be regarded as "acquiescing" in the holding of these tests and would have to hold the U.S. "responsible for any damages or injury to Canadians, to Canadian property or to Canadian interests resulting from the tests."

The largest tests to date by the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission at its Nevada testing grounds have been in the one megaton range—equal to 1,000,000 tons of TNT. Thursday's scheduled Alaskan blast is reported in the same range.

Congressmen from Alaska, Hawaii, California and non-government scientists joined Monday in testimony before the Senate foreign relations committee in the lower atmosphere in the Lop Nor area, the AEC said.

It was the first such atmospheric test reported since a three-megaton explosion Dec. 27, 1968. The one before that was June 17, 1967. Six earlier atmospheric tests were of small-er yield.

Three megatons is equivalent to the explosive forces of 3,-000,000 tons of TNT.

China Explodes Three-megaton Device

WASHINGTON (AP) — China set off its third three-megaton nuclear test in the air early Monday, the United States Atomic Energy Commission said.

The detonation was detected shock of the same size at detonation.

The 1964 Good Friday quake in tremor-prone Alaska registered 8.4, killed 113 and sent a 12-foot tidal wave as far south as Crescent City, Calif.

The tidal wave caused $1,-800,000 damage to Port Alberni, on the west coast of Vancouver Island.

Port Alberni residents fear the nuclear tests will set off another destructive wave.

George McKnight, acting mayor of Port Alberni, sent a personal letter to President Nixon saying "it is time to call a halt to this madness."

"I appeal to you on behalf of all who live on the Pacific Ocean rim, be they Canadians, Americans, Japanese, Russians or any others . . . to put a stop to this plan."

About a dozen government specialists testified Monday there was little chance of radioactive leakage at Amchitka, little effect on the island's ecology and any test shock would probably be felt at populated centres 300 miles distant. Any wave reaction would be about three feet high at the site and dissipate rapidly.

Among the anti-testers was Dr. Kenneth S. Pitzer, president of Stanford University and chairman of a presidential commission that studied the safety of underground testing.

The commission completed its report in 1964 but it was not released until Monday after prodding by Senator Gravel.

Pitzer, after reviewing the report which urged greater caution in conducting such tests, said:

". . . Both the long-range safety of all mankind as well as the immediate safety of those in central Nevada, in Alaska and on the coast of the North Pacific would be better served by postponing m ag at on nuclear tests at this time and by initiating an open, broad-based review of all aspects of this situation."

"In the Aleutians, the situation is different (than Nevada) and potentially more harmful. Our testing experience there is limited to one rather small shot. The area is well known for large earthquakes and high seismic activity."

The demonstration came as a group of Vancouver clergymen denounced it in a letter as "a horrifying example of ecological vandalism."

"From careful study of the information available to us, we have concluded that the dangers of these tests clearly outweigh any possible benefits," the letter said.

It said the test is an example of the kind of action which is leading to the destruction of natural environment and may ultimately make human life impossible.

In Saanich, B.C., Dr. W. G. Milne, earthquake specialist for the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory, said the probability of an earthquake is small and that of a tidal wave even smaller.

Dr. Milne said the test might be beneficial in that it can relieve pressure built up in the area, by releasing the pressure before it becomes a full-scale earthquake.

Future Policy in Balance

Science Council Report Is Hot Potato for PM

OTTAWA (CP) — In the well-carpeted comfort of the Science Council offices lies a document which could have an explosive effect on yearly spending of nearly $800,000,000 and the lives of many of the country's top researchers.

Some time in the next six weeks the 36- or 40-page report will be placed gingerly before Prime Minister Trudeau, trailing with it echoes of discord that have split the scientific community for nine months.

Officially, the report is Mr. Trudeau will be the considered judgment of the 29-member Science Council of Canada on the future financing of research.

In reality, informants say, it will be the delicately-struck balance between those who favor and those who oppose radical changes in the National Research Council and the Canada Council.

On the side of radical change is the report of a group of nine scholars, headed by Principal B. Macdonald, dean of graduate studies at the University of Toronto.

Nine months ago they proposed that the $126,800,000-a-year operations of the National Research Council be shorn of the expensive and highly-regarded NRC world-class co-operated research laboratories, shunting government research and making funds available to research efforts centred in the universities and in industry.

Turning to the Canada Council, which dispenses largesse of nearly $34,000,000 a year, the Macdonald committee proposed that the council limit itself to financing the fine arts and the performing arts.

The millions spent in grants for research in the social sciences and humanities would become the responsibility of a new council specifically created for that purpose, the Macdonald committee proposed.

So bitter was this pill that the Canada Council, which had jointly sponsored the Macdonald study with the Science Council, boycotted the news conference where Dr. Macdonald, former president of the University of British Columbia, outlined his group's findings.

The only visible sponsor support for Dr. Macdonald was Dr. Roger Gaudry, rector of the University of Montreal and vice-chairman of the Science Council, who appeared at the news conference beside him, although he made it plain his presence did not imply council endorsation of the Macdonald recommendations.

Dr. Gaudry ultimately was handed the tough job of striking a compromise which the Science Council could recommend to Mr. Trudeau without provoking a major explosion from Dr. W. G. Schneider, N R C president and a Science Council member, and his supporters among university scientists or from the Canada Council and its following.

Bell Can Charge Increased Rates For Long Distance

OTTAWA (CP) — Bell Canada's bid to raise monthly telephone rental charges has been denied, but the company has authority to charge more for some long-distance calls and other services in Ontario and Quebec.

A ruling Monday by the Canadian transport commission awarded the Montreal - based company just under one-third of what it wanted in money terms.

The decision means charges that Ontario-Quebec users must pay for local and most dial-it-yourself long-distance telephone calls will stay as they are.

The commission, federal regulatory body for communications and transport, confined by creases largely to services requiring personal service—person-to-person long-distance calls, requested work on telephone apparatus, calls requiring special operator assistance and keeping a telephone number unlisted.

One exception is the commission's approval of a five-cent increase on the basic, three-minute charge for customer-dialed calls rated as long distance but within a range of 35 miles.

Value of the increases authorized is estimated on the basis of 1968 conditions at $27,500,000 in extra operating revenue or $12,300,000 in after-tax net income for the year.

The package of increases sought by Bell would have raised annual operating revenue by $57,650,000 and net income by $26,900,000.

Projected total net income after the commission's award is rated at $126,600,000, or $3.36 a share, in 1969 terms.

Mao and His Heir Will Appear At Red China Birthday Party

TOKYO (AP) — China, celebrating its forthcoming 20th anniversary with nuclear fireworks, has made an unprecedented announcement that Mao Tse-tung and his heir-designate, Lin Piao, will attend Wednesday's festivities in Peking.

In an apparent attempt to scotch rumors that Mao and Lin are seriously ill, New China news agency announced Monday both leaders would preside at ceremonies in Peking's Tien An Men Square.

In the past, China never has made such advance announcements concerning Mao or Lin.

Speculation about their health was fanned by their absence last May from public functions. There have been persistent rumors that Mao is dead, and anti-Communist newspapers in Hong Kong carried reports Monday that Lin was dying of cancer.

The New China news agency reported the arrival in Peking of 1,000 representatives of the People's Liberation Army and of 10,000 "outstanding representatives of workers, poor and lower-middle peasants, Red Guards, revolutionary intellectuals and revolutionary cadres."

The agency said Nguyen Huu Tho, president of South Vietnam's National Liberation Front, was guest of honor at a dinner given in Peking Monday by Premier Chou En-lai.

Kremlin Asks China to Agree To Border Troop Pullbacks

MOSCOW (Reuters) — The Kremlin wants China to consider mutual troop withdrawals along the disputed Far Eastern border in a five-point series of proposals that appear to be a major move toward reconciliation, it was learned Monday.

Informed sources said Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin submitted the five-point package to Chinese Premier Chou En-lai two weeks ago. Chou is reported to have promised to pass them on to Chairman Mao Tse-tung when he returns to Peking.

The sources also said Kosygin wants the Chinese to agree that border troops of both nations should be given strict instructions to avoid any repetition of bloody border clashes that occurred earlier this year.

- —Withdrawal of Chinese and Russian troops to a fixed point several miles behind the troubled 4,500-mile border.
- —An end to political attacks by each other in newspapers and radio broadcasts.
- —Resumption of border talks.

Father Threw Child

TORONTO (CP) — A Metropolitan Toronto policeman testified Monday that an Etobicoke father charged with manslaughter in the death of his three-year-old daughter admitted throwing the child across a room the day she died.

Detective James Majury read a statement which Ronald Palmer, 37, allegedly made to police investigating the death of his daughter, Janet. The child died of a ruptured liver.

Detective Majury said Palmer told police he threw the child across the room in a fit of anger.

Euromart's Farm Policy in Danger

BRUSSELS (AP) — Higher rates for the West German mark threaten to punch a new hole in the European Common Market's unified farm policy, one of the market's proudest accomplishments.

This could improve, indirectly, Britain's chances of joining, since farm policy has been one of the major obstacles. A revised Common Market policy, with lower prices, also would be welcomed by North American farmers because the high prices and Common Market rules encourage domestic production rather than imports from the Western Hemisphere.

Both farm policy and Britain's candidacy for membership in the six-nation group are to be considered at a Common Market summit conference in November.

One breach was opened in the market's farm system last August when the franc was devalued. France was allowed two years to readjust. In the meantime, French prices are allowed to be different.

It had taken almost a decade for a common farm policy on most products to be worked out by France, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg. The policy was based on a uniform set of high prices, designed to keep up the income level of Western Europe's politically potent farmers.

The uniform prices depended on a fixed relationship between each country's currency and the U.S. dollar—e.g., a French farmer got roughly five francs for a dollar's worth of wheat and the West German farmer about four marks.

Now a reverse situation seems to be threatening in West Germany. As the value of the mark is allowed to rise on the world exchanges, the West German farmer stands to get less than four marks for his dollar's worth of wheat.

Autopsy Hangs In Balance

WILKES-BARRE, Pa. (AP) — A Pennsylvania judge ruled under advisement Monday a new effort by the parents of Mary Jo Kopechne to prevent an autopsy on their daughter's body.

Judge Bernard C. Brominski of Common Pleas Court announced the action after a lawyer for the Kopechnes argued that the public's curiosity about how the young woman died in Senator Edward Kennedy's car should not justify an autopsy.

MR. AND MRS. JON ANDRES

Andres – Brenton

St. Mark's Anglican Church was the scene of the recent wedding when Carolyn Frances Brenton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas C. Brenton, of Corbyville became the bride of Jon Gary Andres, son of Mr. and Mrs. Truman A. Andres, of Port Huron, Mich. Officiating at the ceremony was Rev. J. Hobbs, assisted by Dr. W. K. Foster, of Toronto. Rendering appropriate nuptial selections was organist David Gast. Soloist was David Gast, accompanied by Mrs. David Gast.

The bride, given in marriage by her cousin, Gerald H. Brenton, wore a full-length gown of Chantilly lace over taffeta, featuring three-quarter sleeves edged with Alencon lace. The detachable train fell from below the shoulder line, and was edged with asta-pesu in four bands forming a square at the bottom. Her headdress was a satin finished floral headpiece secured to a floor-length veil of silk illusion. She carried a bouquet of pink roses and white carnations and stephanotis.

Matron of honor, Mrs. Bruce Gelsthorpe, sister of the bride, was attired in a floor-length gown of pastel pink corded silk, trimmed with white floral lace in an Empire style, featuring a lace hemmed square train at the back. Her floral headdress matched the shade of the gown. She carried a bouquet of pink tinted carnations and mums.

Bridesmaids, the Misses Marion Brenton, cousin of the bride, and Betty Maxwell, Port Huron, Michigan, wore matching floor-length gowns identical in style to that of the matron of honor, but in hot pink. Each carried similar bouquets of pink tinted carnations and mums.

Best man for the ceremony was Bruce Gelsthorpe. Ushers were Rod Bartlett, of Toronto and Carl Kelly of Port Huron, Michigan. For the wedding reception held at the church hall, the mother of the bride received the guests wearing a street-length dress of brown flowered sheer over taffeta, complemented by bone-colored accessories and a corsage of yellow roses. Assisting her, the mother of the bridegroom chose a street-length dress of beige lace over taffeta, tan accessories and a corsage of flame-colored talisman roses.

For the wedding trip to Missouri, U.S.A., the bride donned a dress and coat ensemble in hot pink, of ribbed fortrel, completed by black patent leather accessories and a corsage of pink roses and white carnations. Upon their return, the couple will reside in Toronto.

Ann Landers

No Way Determining Physical Characteristics

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Is there any way a person can tell in advance whose physical characteristics will dominate in an offspring.

I've hear it said that girls most often look like their fathers and boys like their mothers. Both my sister and I resemble Daddy. Our brother looks like Mom, so in our family the theory is borne out.

I am going with a very fine fellow. I'd like to marry Jim but I am worried about something. If we should have daughters that look like Jim they would be in plenty of trouble. He has very nice features and is 6'2". His nickname is Gorilla.

Is there anything a couple can do in advance to make sure their children will inherit the physical characteristics of the best looking parent? This might sound like a stupid question but if science can put a man on the moon it can do anything. — GORILLA'S GIRL.

* * *

DEAR GIRL: Sorry but at this writing no scientific formula has been developed to produce a child with the physical characteristics of the best-looking parent. Maybe next year.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: The other day I wore another woman's raincoat home from the beauty shop. I didn't realize the error until I put my hand in the pocket and discovered her year book. Five minutes I reached sound I phoned the beauty shop and told them of my mistake. They said the lady had already picked up the coat. The coat had been "stolen". I returned her coat to the beauty shop lame-duck.

Two weeks later I was back in the beauty shop. A woman came in, seated herself next to me and started to speak. I had my dryer on and couldn't hear what she was saying. When I turned the dryer off I was embarrassed to death. She was shouting in a voice that could be heard in the next county, "Aren't you the person who took my coat and ran away?" I replied, "Yes, I'm sorry."

Instead of thanking me she hollered, "You owe me a dollar. I had to take a taxi home on account of you." I reached in my purse and handed her a dollar. She then shouted, "You owe me another dollar. I had to take a taxi back to the shop to get my coat." I gave her another dollar. By that time everyone in the shop was staring at us. I felt like a fool and left the shop reflected and humiliated. Don't you agree she owes me an apology? — S.GFLD.

* * *

DEAR S.: Yes, but don't stand on one foot waiting. The woman is obviously a clod. True, you inadvertantly inconvenienced her but you went out of your way to rectify the mistake and she should have been gracious and thanked you.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My mother died when I was ten years old. That was 13 years ago. You have been like a second mother to me. I have grown up on your advice. And now I need it more than ever.

Seven weeks ago my husband was killed in an accident. Nicky was 25. We had been married only a year, Nicky and I started to go together in high school. He was a fine person and our brief marriage was a very happy one.

The problem is my mother-in-law. She feels that since Nicky and I were married for such a short time I am not entitled to his insurance money. She brought this up the day after the funeral, and has been harping on it ever since. She says Nicky was her favorite son, that she was much closer to him than I was, and since I am young and will probably marry again, I should turn the money over to her. She keeps saying, "I'm sure Nicky would have wanted me to have the insurance money if he had known he was going to die so young."

I want to do the right thing, Ann, but I don't know what it is. Please guide me. — A WIDOW AT 25.

DEAR FRIEND: If Nicky had wanted his mother to have the insurance money we would have named her as the beneficiary. If she doesn't understand this, perhaps her clergyman can explain it to her.

EMPLOYMENT HER BUSINESS — Edna Kokio Solomon examines reading material in the women's bureau of the federal labor department in Ottawa. Ghanaian Woman Tours Canada

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian women who complain about a lack of employment opportunities should meet Edna Kokoi Solomon.

She has just completed a tour of Canada to assess job possibilities for women with a view to gathering ideas for Ghana, her home country.

A staff inspector with the Ghanaian public service, Miss Solomon, 49, is responsible, along with 19 male supervisors, for the classification and grading of men and women seeking government careers.

The young people she meets in her work in Ghana have special training and often are university graduates. This contrasts with the situation 30 years ago when Miss Solomon finished secondary school.

There were no universities in her country then, and she estimates that only 10 per cent of Ghanaians in her age group received any formal educational training.

It is the other 90 per cent who need the most help now, and Miss Solomon is especially concerned with the women among them.

"Ghana is becoming industrialized," she said in an interview, "and we need these people to help with the industrial program."

It was not essential that they have formal classroom education, but any kind of vocational training would help women understand their role in building a nation.

To find ways to provide Ghanaian women with job opportunities, Miss Solomon arranged one-month visits to Canada and the United States and a longer stay in Britain on a United Nations fellowship.

In Canada, she visited Vancouver, Edmonton, Regina and Ottawa, examining recruiting procedures and employment practices in government and business.

Training facilities for mature women are greatly lacking in this country, and she was particularly interested in the one-year practical nursing program she studied in Vancouver. Women with such training would be valuable in Ghana, working in health clinics and with needy children.

Career counselling is another Canadian practice she would like to see adopted in Ghana. Vocational schools and polytechnical institutes have been set up, but there is a shortage of qualified staff to help students plan careers.

Teaching, secretarial and dressmaking are the most popular occupations for women in her country, but the most profitable is selling, and the majority of working women are involved in it, she says.

They buy textiles, cooking utensils, foodstuffs and toys in large quantities from importing firms and sell them in the marketplaces. These women often cannot read or write, but speak enough English to make themselves understood by British, European and American business representatives.

Despite their success, Miss Solomon says, these women also need education to make them aware of their rights as citizens in a country which has moved from colonialism to independent status in the last 20 years.

Centres have been set up across the country to teach civic rights and responsibilities and the government has established classes for illiterates.

Miss Solomon hopes to see more women active in the future development of her country.

"Many dropouts from formal education can still be of use to the community," she says.

A Quick Ham and Beans Dinner

By MARY MOORE

You know that I am in Fort Leavenworth, Kansas visiting my daughter and son-in-law and their family.

"Everything's Up-to-date In Kansas City" so we drove the 50 miles to Swope Park's Starlite Theatre to see Gretchen Wyler in "Mame". The outdoor theatre seats about 2,000 and it was filled nearly to capacity with visitors in summer dress from all over this and other countries. There was an eerie halfmoon in the sky and fireflies and the atmosphere and show were enchanting.

But dinner at home had to be at 5:30 sharp so the cooks planned ahead. It was a simple but filling meal that any one of you can make when you have to make a quick getaway. We left with the dishwasher merrily doing the cleanup.

HAM AND BEANS DINNER
(Serves 7)

7 thick (¾") slices smoked boneless ham roll (approx. 2 lbs.)
2 tsps. margarine
Two 20-oz. cans pork and beans
1 cup chopped onions
½ cup chili sauce or catsup
1 tbsp. brown sugar
2 tbsps. sweet pickle relish (optional)

Lightly brown ham slices on both sides in large frypan (preferably electric). Remove from pan. Add onions and saute gently in fat remaining in pan until just limp. Add chili sauce or catsup, brown sugar and relish (if used) and mix. Add beans. Cover with prepared ham slices, overlapping, put on lid and simmer 30 min. (Note: If your frypan is not big enough this may be baked covered for 40 min. at 325 deg. Fahr.)

With the above we served a large tossed salad and chilled cantaloupe wedges covered with sliced ripe peaches.

While the adults located the theatre tickets and loaded the car the children loaded the dishwasher and our carefree crowd of seven took off for Kansas City, Missouri.

Sentimental Note: Some of you may remember that I attended school in Missouri for two of my earlier years and to catch the sight of the road signs pointing to Lupin and St. Joseph and Kirksville made the trip a sentimental journey.

If You Drop In--Make It Brief

By DORIS CLARE

We were just passing the finishing touches on the centrepiece bouquet, picked from our own garden. Savory smells issued from the oven. The phone rang: "Hello, Doris. Can you hold everything for a bit? We have got some drop-in company here and we'll be on our way just as soon as we can get rid of them."

I said it was o.k., turned off the stove, and sat down to read the paper. Our guests were an hour late.

Grand guests, too. Some of our favorite people. And just as unhungry as we were over what seemed an unavoidable situation.

Nobody wants to make drop-ins feel unwelcome. But isn't it an obligation of those unexpected persons to ask whether their surprised hosts are busy, or going somewhere?

Especially when they call at an hour when a couple might well be on their way out to dinner. One victim advises that such a time one should hustle into coat and hat before answering the doorbell!

I dunno. Seems to me one might at least work it into the conversation that one is on one's way to keep a dinner date.

Dear Doris: I am interested in your article on retired people about the inspiration of Christ Churchman.

I have no time and am willing to dedicate my efforts toward a similar club in this Canadian town. I have always found older folks to have much more energy and talent than young people give them credit for. — Looking For a Second Career.

Dear Looking: It all depends on where you sit. At 20, the 50's look like the living end. At 30 the men of 50 looks all washed up. When a lady reaches 60 the 50's suspect she has had it; and the 40's are quite sure of it.

Then she lists her hair, shortens her skirts, gets fitted for contact lenses, and starts out to fool them all by getting a retirement-type job. A job that uses what she has stored up in the way of knowledge, ways of handling people, patience and a certain steadiness hard to find in she (all too often) cocky young workers.

Good luck in getting a senior-job-finding effort going where you are, Looking.

Dear Doris: May I share with you my

MINUTES OF GOLD

Two or three minutes, two or three hours,
What do they mean in this life of ours?
Not very much, if but counted as time.
They are minutes of gold and hours sublime,
If only we'll use them once in a while.
To make someone happy, make someone smile.
A minute may dry a little lad's tears,
An hour sweep aside the trouble of years.
Minutes of time may bring to an end
Hopelessness, somewhere, and bring me a friend.

Mrs. A. W.

Dear Mrs. A. W.: Lovely! And from the sound of the letter which came to me with your verse, I'd say you care a good deal about taking those odd minutes to make somebody else just a bit happier.

New Office Addition for Stephens-Adamson

Stephens-Adamson Putting on New Face

After more than 40 years in the city and in the wake of plant extensions made necessary by business expansion, a "new look" is planned for the office department at Stephens - Adamson Mfg. Co. Belleville.

Planned is a program of renovation for existing office accommodation together with the construction of 9,000 square feet of additional office space. The entirely new facade across the office front will give Stephens-Adamson a completely new appearance.

Hugh Murray Ltd. of Belleville has the contract for the office addition which will feature brick facing, aluminum windows and air conditioning. The Belleville architectural firm of Watson and Wiegand drew the plans.

Cost of the renovations and new addition, including air conditioning is approximately $200,000.

Quite A Feat!

City Is Judged by Its Life Style

"After all, the most important veriable in all civic development is people," emphasized Mr. Welch.

"Although we exalt scientific progress . . . and recognize the importance of economic progress, through government grants and financial incentives the true test of our accomplishments will be in the way that we treat other people.

A community may expand its services and public adornments but "we're really doing all these things for the benefit of the people."

Quality of a community can't be gauged scientifically, said Mr. Welch.

But tolerance and freedom of the individual are key contributions to building a community's life style.

". . . The most important goal for all people . . . is a feeling of self-fulfilment, of individual identity, of human dignity," declared Mr. Welch. "People want, above all else, to see themselves as worthwhile individuals . . ."

The provincial secretary's speech rounded out an event that drew more than 250 people to the auditorium — with the emphasis on civic service in the guest list.

At the banquet were former aldermen and mayors of the city whose municipal ties dated back to the 1920s.

A trio of three visiting U.S. mayors — all heads of municipalities named Belleville — received their first mass official introduction to the city.

They are Royce Smith, Belleville, Mich., Charles Nichols, Belleville, Ill., and Ken Smith, Belleville, N.J.

Among mementos they received were district cheddar cheeses — presented by Dianne Gunning, the Tweed girl who was runner-up for the Ontario Dairy Princess title.

A highlight of the evening was formal presentation of the city's first cultural award — won by Mrs. Marian Wilson.

The award was specially designed by Corbyville artist Ronald Vanderveldo and unveiled for the first time by Ald. Robin Jeffrey, awards committee chairman.

The teenager found a total of 88 backers to contribute $50 for his 30-mile effort — and win National Hockey League tickets from the Belleville Week committee.

They'll Know First

A special co-ordinating committee composed of city manager J. R. Reynolds and representatives of the federal and provincial governments will be the first to learn what Belleville received for its $46,000 "partial" urban renewal study.

The preliminary report from Proctor and Redfern, Toronto town planners, was received at city hall last week and will be considered by the co-ordinating committee before it goes to city council.

Mr. Reynolds said his committee might meet later this week.

Last week city council voted to discontinue its $46,000 urban renewal study after it was learned that the final report would not be received in time for the Ontario Municipal Board re-hearing into the north-end plaza question scheduled for Oct. 27.

The cost of the urban renewal study to date was given as $45,000.

The fact that the senior governments have temporarily withdrawn financial support to urban renewal projects also had a bearing on the city's action to discontinue the study.

But the "partial" urban renewal study will not be wasted.

Council was told last week that the statistical information contained in the preliminary report would be of value to the city planning department in completing the city's official plan.

200 Register for Classes

Approximately 200 interested Belleville citizens registered for night school courses at Moira Secondary School last evening for classes that will begin Wednesday, Oct. 2 at 7 p.m.

Total enrollment is down from last year, but school officials believe late registrations will enlarge nearly all classes.

As in past years, interest is almost evenly divided between courses taken for credit towards high school graduation, and interest courses which become more and more important in an age of increased leisure time.

The following courses are being offered due to sufficient enrolment: mathematics A (grade 13), typing, welding, conversational French, elementary sewing, ladies' fitness, art and psychology.

According to a night school official, there is still room for additional students in these classes.

Classes will also begin Wednesday in certain courses which, while having a lower enrollment, are expected to reach sufficient numbers through further registration at the opening class.

Those courses include: basic electronics, mathematics (grade 13), advanced auto mechanics, accounting, art and data processing.

Opportunities to register in courses that will begin next week will be available Wednesday: defensive driving, snowmobiling, English refresher, contemporary problems, public speaking, fashion co-ordination and machine technology.

Inquiries about courses may be made by telephoning the principal's office at Moira Secondary School at 962-6608. Registration at BCVS begins tonight at seven p.m.

Populus Increase 'Healthy'

No current population figures for the city are available yet but city assessment Commissioner Leighton Thompson says 1959 has been a "healthy" year with indications of a considerable population increase.

"We are picking up 20 to 30 houses per month and in addition there have been a number of new apartment houses erected," he said.

The reason that no new population figures are available is that tabulation is done by computer and it will still be a week or so before the figures are received.

But Mr. Thompson says the city's assessment will take a healthy jump as a result of industrial and housing construction.

"We expect a good increase in assessment — something in the order of two-and-a-half to three million dollars," he said.

Last year's assessment on which this year's taxes are based was given as $132,606,000.

Who Pulled The Plug?

How much water at city tap pressure will a three-quarter-inch pipe deliver in the course of a year?

The answer to that question, plus the number of years which the condition has existed, would indicate how much water had gone down the drain through an open pipe discovered when excavating for a new office addition at Stephens-Adamson Company.

The open water service lead at one time apparently led to an old house on the property which was demolished. Residents in the area say the house was torn down about 40 years ago.

Hamilton Not as Desperate

Playoff Pressure on Ticats, Eskimos

HAMILTON (CP) — The battle for playoff positions in both divisions of the Canadian Football League puts extra pressure on Edmonton Eskimos and Hamilton Tiger-Cats in their interlocking contest tonight.

With only five games remaining in each club's schedule after tonight, a victory could be crucial to Edmonton's third-place hopes in the Western Conference or in the Ticats' first-place ambitions in the Eastern Conference.

With a victory in the non-televised game over Hamilton, the Eskimos could move one point ahead of Winnipeg Blue Bombers into the third and final playoff spot in the WC.

Hamilton, on the other hand, could move to within one point of Ottawa Rough Riders, the EFC leaders. The Ticats now have 13 points, one more than Toronto Argonauts, but the Ticats face Ottawa and Toronto twice each and Montreal Alouettes once before the season ends.

First place means a bye into the two-game, total-point EFC final while second and third place clubs battle in the sudden-death semi-final.

Eskimos coach Neill Armstrong hopes history will repeat itself to give his club the edge. Armstrong, whose club was beaten 17-9 by Ottawa Saturday, recalls a similar schedule in 1965 when Eskimos went into Ottawa and were whipped 40-1. Edmonton went on to Hamilton the following Tuesday to beat the Ticats 9-3.

Armstrong said he intends to start quarterback Charlie Fulton who had six passes intercepted Saturday by Ottawa. Corey Colehour may also see some action at quarterback.

Hamilton quarterback Joe Zuger had a cast removed from his left hand Monday, but Ticats coach Joe Restic said he was still not counting on using Zuger for a couple of weeks.

Zuger had the skin and flesh torn from his little finger in a game against Saskatchewan Roughriders two weeks ago.

Rookie John Eckman, who handled quarterback duties in Ticats' last encounter against Montreal, will start again. Restic would not say whether Zuger would again handle punting chores as he did against the Als.

John Williams will return to his old spot in the Ticats' defensive backfield after sitting out for three weeks with a knee injury. The Ticats will also introduce middle linebacker Mike Strofolino who has played the last three years with St. Louis Cardinals in the National Football League.

Once upon a time, there were a couple of young hockey players who played like they didn't know they were only 15.

You know, they were always doing things like scoring the game - winning goal, or dishing out bodychecks that made fellow minor - leaguers think they had just been in collision with the 5:20 in Belleville.

Their mothers spent countless hours trying to keep the cream from coming out of the closet, while their fathers were slowly going broke filling the Ford with gas to drive the boys to all the OMHA championship games they played in.

Then one day, the boys discovered their shaggy proportions had earned them a choice: they could either advance to the next age group classification of their city's minor hockey system, or bid final farewell to the little leagues and make the jump to a local Junior B club.

So, on the first night of Junior B training camp, the two youngsters hustled their duffel bags down to the rink.

This struck some supporters of the city's minor hockey organization with a trifle less impact than a ton of bricks.

Junior B hockey, it must be explained, had come to be the equivalent of purgatory for many of the community's armchair coaches, primarily because city junior teams had never been big winners.

And wasn't that what hockey was all about?

"Goodness knows what will happen to these two poor little guys" (one 15-year-old went around 170 pounds), the distraught minor-leaguers wailed.

"Baloney, it'll make men of the kids," snapped the Junior organizers, which immediately conjured up images of fast convertibles, foot-long cigars, and buxom trainers for the dilemma-stricken parents.

"If we keep them in minor hockey their team is a lead-pipe cinch to win an Ontario title," argued the minors.

"They won't remember what the crest was for in five years," rebutted the Juniors.

"Playing junior will hurt their school work," the minors clamored.

"No more than your all-star practices, tournaments, and games," chimed the Juniors.

And on and on it went, until a showdown just had to come.

The minor leaguers and the junior backers decided the only fair way to decide the two aspiring hockey players' future would be to have a leg-of-war at centre ice in the local arena, using the two boys as rope.

As fate would have it, both sides were so adamant in their positions that they pulled the two 15-year-olds into asunder's yard, and, rather than going on to professional hockey careers, they spent the rest of their natural lives in Toronto 864-23 at the Ontario Home for Potential Hockey Players.

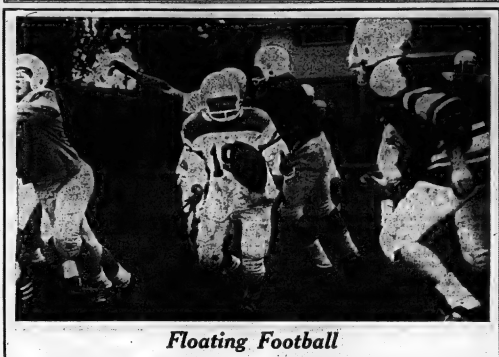
The foregoing, sponsored by the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children was, as we said at the outset, a hypothetical case.

But the ingredients for the recipe are all brewing in Belleville right now. Whether or not they come to a boil depends on the people who are responsible for looking after our children's recreational interests.



A blowup has already occurred this fall in Kingston, where the Rotary-Kiwanis Minor Hockey Association even tried to contravene the Ontario Minor Hockey Association code to discourage promising youngsters from jumping into junior B ranks.

At that time, Fast OHA president Lorne Cook said "I don't think you should ever hold a boy back from playing a better class of hockey."

Amend that to read: "We don't think you should ever prevent a boy from playing hockey at ANY level — junior, minor, or house league.

Floating Football

This football isn't suspended in mid-air, it's a lateral floating from Moira Junior Trojan quarterback Dale Parmelee (centre) to halfback Peter Fralick (right foreground). The unbeaten Moira Juniors scrimmages Monday afternoon in preparation for Thursday's initial home game of the season against Trenton High School.

Next Jackson TD Toss Will Set CFL Record

TORONTO (CP) — The next time quarterback Russ Jackson of Ottawa Rough Riders throws a touchdown pass, he will smash a record that has stood for nine seasons in the Canadian Football League.

Jackson completed his 174th touchdown pass during Saturday's 17-9 victory over Edmonton Eskimos in Ottawa to tie the record established by Sam Etcheverry of Montreal Alouettes in 1960.

It is the 12th season for Jackson, however, and Etcheverry set his record in only seven seasons. Statistical records were not kept before 1954, so Etcheverry's spectacular passing years of 1952 and 1953 are lost to posterity.

Etcheverry's record 25,562 yards on passing is in little danger from Jackson, who is third with 22,324 behind Ernie Pinkney, and plans to retire after this season.

Jackson leads all this season's passers in the Eastern Football Conference according to statistics released Monday. The Ottawa quarterback has 132 completions from 245 attempts for 2,562 yards and a completion percentage of .539.

Tommy Joe Coffey of Hamilton Tiger-Cats continues to lead individual point-getters with eight touchdowns, 21 converts, eight field goals and five singles for 98 points.

Halfback Dave Ralmey of Toronto Argonauts is the top rusher in the East with 617 yards gained on 85 carries for a 6.5-yards-a-carry average. The Toronto power runner has scored five touchdowns.

Ottawa's Margene Adkins leads the conference with 1,612 yards on passes. He has caught 61 for a 24.7-yard average and has scored five touchdowns.

Joe Zuger of Hamilton Tiger-Cats is the top punter with a 46.1-yard average after 72 kicks.

Toronto's Mike Eben has gained the most yards on punt returns. Eben has returned 46 for 357 yards and has gained an average 7.8 yards on each carry.

Ottawa's Don Sutherin, in second place in EFC scoring with 52 points, leads the conference with 16 field goals and 36 converts.

The leaders:

More Kicks Coming?

TORONTO (CP) — "My leg kept talking to me," said Dave Mann. "And what it said was: 'No way, baby, no way'."

The 27-year-old all-purpose kicker was retired to a coaching job Saturday after his thigh muscles failed to put the general impression in Toronto Argonauts camp is that he still has a kick coming.

"It is conceivable that Mann could come back, Coach Leo Cahill admitted to reporters after Argos traveled to Montreal Sunday for a 36-33 victory over the Alouettes in a Canadian Football League game.

It may be more than a possibility. Doctors told Mann to rest his leg and it would be all right, so Cahill did not put him on the 30-day injury list. From retirement he can join the club any time his leg loosens up.

Thus Argos have put him in cold storage without using up a spot on their 31-man roster. He could be available for Toronto's Oct. 25 game against Ottawa Rough Riders if his leg heals.

Argonauts made arrangements for booter Tom Johansen to fly to Montreal after playing for Brunalea Satellites in the senior Ontario Rugby Football Union Saturday night. Johansen missed two field goals but converted all five touchdowns against the Als.

"I think I can show Johansen a lot," Mann said. "But it will require at least a year of intensive coaching to make a kicker out of him."

How do you spell the word for that stingy swing of automatic transmission action?

$55.00, that's how!

They're normally $55.00 more, but summer's over, time to put away the pool toys and prepare a trailer ready ski boat.

Shrunken Strike Zone Hasn't Appeared to Harm Pitchers

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

This was supposed to be baseball's Year of the Hitter but the pitchers, faced with lowered mounds and a smaller strike zone, haven't fared badly.

There are a dozen 20-game winners around the major leagues, the most since 12 pitchers reached the 20-victory plateau in 1951.

And four hurlers with 19 victories each could reach 20 as the season swings into its final week.

Phil Niekro, one of the 20-game winners, goes for Atlanta Braves tonight against Cincinnati Reds as the Braves try to clinch the National League West Division title. One Atlanta victory or San Francisco Giants loss, ends the race.

Mike Cuellar, another member of the 20-victory club, was beaten 4-1, by Detroit Tigers Monday night, only the second loss in 15 decisions since the all-star game for the Baltimore Orioles left-hander.

Bill Freehan, whose run-scoring second-inning triple was the only hit off Cuellar through the first eight innings, drilled a two-run single as the Tigers rallied for three runs to break a tie in the 11th.

In the only other game played in the majors Monday night, Boston Red Sox whipped Washington Senators 8-5 as Rico Petrocelli set a record by hitting his 40th homer of the year, most ever by an American League shortstop. Petrocelli broke the mark of 39 set by Vern Stephens, who also played for the Red Sox.

Frank Howard ripped his 48th homer of the year for the Senators, tying Harmon Killebrew for the major league home run lead.

Besides Cuellar (23-11) and Niekro (22-13), the 20-game winners this season are Minnesota Twins' Jim Perry (20-6) and Dave Boswell (20-11), Tom Seaver of New York Mets (25-7), Detroit's Denny McLain (24-9), Dave McNally of Baltimore (20-6), Mel Stottlemyre of New York Yankees (20-14), San Francisco's Juan Marichal (21-11) Houston Astros' Larry Dierker (20-12), Canadian Ferguson Jenkins, (21-13) and Bill Hands (20-14),-both of Chicago Cubs.

McNally and Perry both get a chance to add to their totals today. The Baltimore left-hander faces Detroit while the Twins' right-hander takes on Chicago White Sox.

Bob Gibson of St. Louis Cardinals, Mickey Lolich of Detroit, and Claude Osteen and Bill Singer, both of Los Angeles Dodgers, each have 19 victories.

OTTAWA (CP) — Red O'Quinn, general manager of Ottawa Rough Riders, says he will leave the Eastern Football Conference club if cablevision coverage of Ottawa home games it not stopped. O'Quinn made the statement after 16,975 fans turned out at Lansdowne Park to watch Ottawa defeat Edmonton Eskimos 27-6. It was the lowest attendance this season for the league-leading Ottawa team. Capacity at the park is just over 27,000. Riders have threatened to ban all home game telecasts next year, maintaining that the cable company pickups of the games hurt the gate. Much of Saturday's contest was played in heavy rain. Only one section of the stands at Lansdowne is covered.

Donut King Horton May Fill Holes In Arena for Tonight's Tulsa Game

Donut King Tim Horton may be leaving a hole in the Maple Leafs lineup by his training camp absence, but he hopes to fill some tonight.

Horton's guest appearance at the Memorial Arena tonight may help fill the Arena when the Maple Leafs' Central Pro-League farm team, the Tulsa Oilers, take on the Kansas City Blues of the Central League in an 8:30 exhibition hockey game.

"The exhibition game and Horton's guest appearance are part of the special Belleville Week activities which started Saturday night.

Tutoring the Oilers will be Horton's former Maple Leaf teammate Marcel Pronovost who recently accepted the dual role of playing-coach with the Tulsa Club.

Jaroslav Jirik, the former Czechoslovakian National center left winger who is the first foreign hockey player to sign an NHL contract, played in a pair of weekend games with the St. Louis Blues — Kansas City's parent club — but is expected to suit up with the Kansas City team tonight.

Belleville fans — who once possessed a World amateur the Belleville McFarlands — hockey championship team, will get an opportunity to see the style of hockey which their team overcame in winning the 1959 global title.

Actually the Macs didn't quite master the Czechoslovakian style — the Czechs handed the Macs their only defeat in the World Hockey Tournament 10 years ago.

In addition Jean Payette, the nephew of former McFarland standout Jean Paul Payette, will be playing for the Oilers — the Central League's Northern Division utilists last season.

Game time is 8.30 p.m. and the front three rows are priced at $1 a seat. The remainder of the seats are $1.50 each.

Mo-Hawks Sign Blueline Star

STEVE REXE

Just like clockwork. That's how plans for this year's city senior hockey entry seem to be moving along.

Just Monday, playing coach Davey Jones was saying the 1969-70 Mo-Hawks needed some defensive shoring up.

Then, voila! After Monday night's training camp workout, the club announced the signing of Lou Kasowski, a rearguard with a liking for the heavy going.

The 28-year-old Winnipeg native now living in Peterborough — earned first team all-star recognition last winter for his blueline prowess with the International League's Toledo Blades.

Kasowski has some pretty high-calibre hockey under his belt-around with stints with Seattle Totems in the Western League Cleveland Barons, Providence Reds, and Quebec Aces in the American League, and a half - season with the Central Pro League's Memphis South Stars.

Area hockey buffs may have seen him play with the Peterborough Junior A team that won the Eastern Canadian championships in 1958.

Last week it was the Mo-Hawk offence that got the attention of coach Jones and general manager Robert Temple, who signed six-year Eastern League veteran Billy Armour and three-year Mo-Hawk centre Ice regular George Gosson, to name but two.

And speaking may be next on the agenda, as the Mo - Hawk management appears determined to improve upon last year's seventh-place finish in the Ontario Hockey Association's Senior A series.

Former Mo-Hawk netminder Steve Rexe, last year with the Canadian Nationals and who this year has been attending Pittsburgh Penguins' camp is negotiating with the local owners. Mr. Temple announced.

Workouts continue until Friday night's 8 p.m. Memorial Arena exhibition game with the Kingston Aces.

Flyers Have Hopes

'Flamboyant Fleming' Could Be Philly Leader

By AL McNEIL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

He was known as "rambunctious Reggie". In his heyday as a New York Ranger, and Philadelphia Flyers management hopes he'll become "flamboyant Fleming" in his new National Hockey League environs.

That's left winger Reggie Fleming, a one-time defenceman the Flyers hope will inject some punch into the club's pathetic offence of the last two seasons.

The Flyers had first- and third-place finishes in the last two seasons, largely on the strength of two 30-year-old goaltenders—Bernie Parent and Doug Favell—and a strong defence.

"Ed Van Impe was the leader on defence—the guy that did the bullering and there," Bud Poile, Philadelphia general manager, said. "But we never had one guy like that up front and we're hoping Fleming is the guy who will do the same for the forwards."

Vic Stasiuk, who took over from Keith Allen as coach of the Flyers this season, says the Flyers' style of play is in for a big change this year.

"We'll stress hustle and fundamentals and the wins will come."

Fleming, an eight-goal scorer with Rangers last season, is expected to do bigger things with the Flyers this year on a line with Gary Dornhoefer and Jim Johnson.

"Fleming had a good year with New York and he should have a better one here," Stasiuk said. "Dornhoefer should be better this year and possibly good for 20 goals and Johnson was leading all rookies mid-way through last season when he got hurt and it set him back."

Fleming, determined to make the best of things with the Flyers, led the NHL in penalties —98 minutes—in 1965-66 when he split his time between the Rangers and Boston Bruins.

"I'm not worried about penalties here," Fleming said. "I'll just make sure that if I get one I'll take a man from the other team along with me."

In their two previous seasons the Flyers scored fewer total goals than their opponents. In 1967-68 it was 175 goals for and 179 against; while last season the gap stretched to 174 goals for and 224 against.

"Gendron scored 20 goals last season he could have 25 or 30 this year. Lacroix had 24 . . . while Sarrazin had 15 in 54 games and should do better. These three got goals against tuff old, established teams."

Poile and Stasiuk are also counting on forward Mike Byers, Bill Sutherland and Gerry Meehan, along with Gary Peters, Simon Nolet and perhaps centre Bob Clarke, an amateur drafted from Flin Flon, Man., of the Western Canada Junior Hockey League.

Bruins' Ship Needs A Hull

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — General manager Milt Schmidt of the Boston Bruins Monday derided published reports that a four-player National Hockey League trade with Chicago Black Hawks was in the making.

Schmidt confirmed, however, he was dealing with Toronto Maple Leafs and "several other teams" for a defenceman and a left winger.

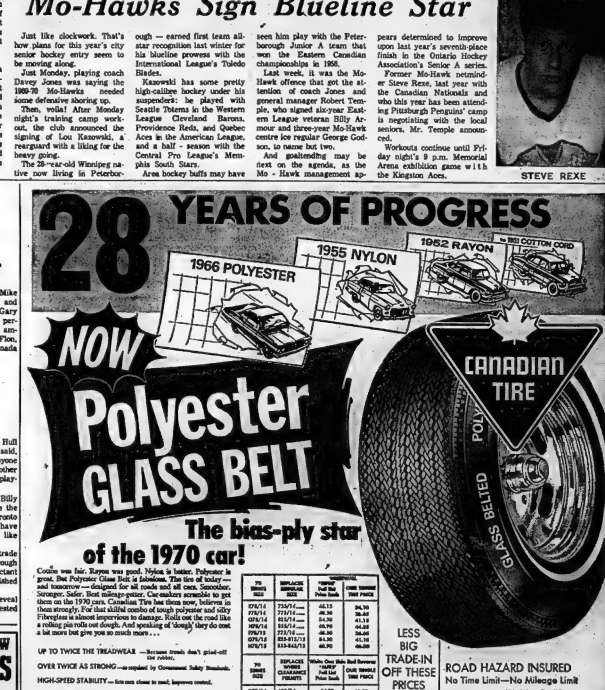
Schmidt denied a report in the Montreal Star that the Bruins were negotiating a trade with Chicago—dealing goaltie Ed Johnston and forward Johnny McKenzie of the Hawks for goalie Tony Esposito and forward Dennis Hull.

Esposito's brother, Phil, led the NHL in points last season with a record-shattering 126.

Weak at Knees

BOSTON (AP) — Boston Bruins of the National Hockey League announced Monday that veterans Don Awrey and Derek Sanderson will be sidelined at least a week because of knee injuries.

Awrey, a defenseman, injured his right knee in Boston's 8-6 exhibition game tie with Toronto Maple Leafs. The injury was diagnosed as "slightly pulled ligamentis."



Sanderson has been hobbled by a knee injury suffered in an exhibition game with Montreal Canadiens Sept. 20. If the condition does not improve during a week's rest, he may have to undergo surgery.

On a brighter note, veteran right winger Ken Hodge, who underwent an emergency appendectomy earlier this month, received medical clearance to play. He hopes to be ready for the NHL opener against New York Rangers in Boston Oct. 12.

Farmers Union Assails Cost Of Ontario's Medicare Scheme

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Delegates to the Ontario Farmers Union convention lashed out Monday at their favorite enemies—corporations, Queen's Park and the Ontario Federation of Agriculture.

The 500 delegates had to be restrained at the last minute from approving a resolution calling for one more march against the provincial government—this time to protest the high cost of medical health insurance premiums.

Other protests were directed against the "agri-business complex"—the giant food processing and retailing corporations who buy from the farmer.

The delegates also endorsed three resolutions opposing financial support given to the rival OFA by Ontario's farm product marketing board.

The two-day convention, which ends today, is the last in the OFU's 11-year-history. Members have voted to join the newly-formed National Farmers Union.

Walter Miller, now vice-president of the national organization, noted in his final report as OFU president that medical care and hospital insurance premiums together will cost farm families more than $300 a year compared to $72 annually for a family in Saskatchewan.

Delegates quickly picked up Mr. Miller's criticism of the province's decision not to apply the federal contribution of more than $170,000,000 directly to the cost of the plan.

But their tempers were cooled by Mr. Miller himself, who suggested the government may make favourable changes in the plan within the next few days.

He added that a demonstration would cost the union money at a time when finances are critical.

The convention passed on for consideration by national headquarters a resolution calling for creation of national grain and meat authorities.

The proposed national grain authority would have power to bargain collectively for farmers on prices for wheat, corn, soybeans, barley, oats and other crops.

Its goal, the resolution stated, would be prices in keeping with the Canadian standard of living and "not the price established by the Chicago exchange."

Both Liberals and NDP Want Medicare Debate

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario legislature reopens today with a Liberal motion for an emergency debate on the medical care insurance plan, which goes into effect Wednesday.

The Liberals put aside regular business to discuss the administration and application of the Ontario health care insurance plan before it becomes effective.

The motion will have to be accepted by the Speaker, with Allan Reuter of Waterloo South sitting in the chair in place of Speaker Fred Cass, absent on personal business.

The New Democrats also plan a motion for emergency debate during which they will demand major changes in the plan. The Liberals, however, take precedence as the official Opposition.

Mr. Nixon said Ontario residents now are being asked to pay twice for medical insurance —once through a federal income tax surcharge of two per cent and again through "an extra high premium."

"All of the $176,000,000 which is returned to Ontario from the federal surcharge should be used to reduce premiums and expand medicare services," he said.

This reduction "will be of some assistance but it will still leave the premium higher than it should be for many families."

Money paid "out of pocket" as an employee's contribution to a medical care premium should be an income tax deduction, and an income tax surcharge should be imposed on "considered the payment of a premium."

Mr. Nixon said his proposal probably could not be made effective for some time, except for the reduction of the $176,000,000 now earmarked for health services not connected with the Ontario Health Services Insurance Plan.

Mr. Nixon said his proposal probably could not be made effective for some time, except for the reduction of the $176,000,000 now earmarked for health services not connected with the Ontario Health Services Insurance Plan.

The Liberal leader also criticized the Oct. 1 deadline by enrolling in the new plan. Many families applying as individuals would be cut off because they listened to government advertising which advised them "don't worry" and did not make a decision on joining in time.

He also assailed the government's failure to make payment of 100 per cent of the Ontario Medical Association fees schedule, instead of only 90 per cent of a doctor's fee.

NDP proposals on medical care include demands that premiums be reduced, that private carriers be replaced by a single government agency and that 90 per cent of the OMA fee schedule be legally considered full payment of doctor bills.

Attorney-General Arthur Wishart will also come under fire when his departmental estimates are presented early in the resumed session. The Liberals will demand abolition of the Ontario Police Commission, improved conditions in provincial jails and courts, 24-hour bail system and immediate prosecution of new landlord-tenant legislation.

Debate on estimates will occupy most of the legislature's time between now and Christmas.

Your Car

Offbeat Noises' Cause Difficult to Discover

By RAY STAPLEY

The following are but two of many letters I have received from readers on offbeat noises.

"My car is a '63 Ford, six cylinder, with automatic transmission. What would cause a loud whistling noise when I decelerate and gradually slow down? So far we have replaced the waterpump, the fan and put new bearings in the generator.

The car starts and runs well but each time I take my foot off the gas pedal (without using the brakes), there is a noise like a whistling kettle." — Mrs. L. D., Marion Bridge, Cape Breton.

Years ago I ran into th e same problem. With the combined efforts of myself and every other mechanic in the shop, plus countless roadtests we finally located the culprit. It was a dry rear transmission seal. Apparently during deceleration components in the driveline shifted and trigered the whistle. A squirt of lubricant turned out to be the cure. A dry rear pinion seal can react in the same manner.

Lubricating, or if worn, replacing the offending seal will likely silence your mysterious whistle.

Another reader writes:

"I drive a Ford V8 which has gone 31,963 miles. There is an annoying clicking sound that compares with something rolling around inside the tires. However, the tires have been checked repeatedly and they seem O.K. The noise started at 18,000 miles, the car has since been in for three 6,000 mile inspections, but nothing could be found to overcome this problem.

Repairs to date are: Rear end overhaul, new exhaust system, new waterpump, n e w left rear axle bearing and ex anine bearings in the other three wheels. Can you suggest something that would resolve this problem?" — K. F., Trenton, Ont.

I have encountered the odd road wheel that tends to flex slightly with each revolution resulting in a noise between the mating areas of the wheel cover and wheel. This is more apt to occur with a heavily loaded vehicle travelling at low speed. To prove whether or not this is the culprit, and to pin-point the exact wheel, remove the wheel covers one at a time and roadtest the car.

If it is discovered that one or more of the wheels a re causing the noise, they should be carefully examined for minute fatigue cracks. Defective road wheels have been known to split and cause sudden tire failure.

Other possible causes of mysterious noises that seem to tie in with the movement of the wheels are: Stones trapped inside the wheel covers, foreign matter, such as pebbles or metal particles, inside the brake drums, wheels not properly tightened to the mounting bubs, improperly adjusted or worn front or rear wheel bearings, brake shoes dragging against the drums.

The wheels may appear to be firmly attached to the hub, when in fact, they are not. Excessive load or abuse such as savage high speed cornering, or operating with slightly loose wheels can strain and chafe the wheel's mounting holes.

If the metal is worn in this area the nuts or bolts may be torqued down to the recommended pressure, but the wheels will not necessarily be solidly attached to the hub.

Harsh Laws Defeat Selves

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

One of the new paperbacks I enjoyed reading this summer was the latest Travis McGee adventure, "Dress Her in Indigo," by John D. MacDonald, who can put more sense and sensibility into a pulp novel than any writer I can recall since I go back to the days of H. Bedford-Jones in the old "Argosy."

At any rate, in this new adventure MacDonald pauses for a few paragraphs to take a potent swipe at our current narcotics laws — especially the one declaring possession of marihuana to be a felony. As he wisely says, "Savage and uncompromising law is bad law, and the good and humane judge will jump at any technicality that will keep him from imposing a penalty so barbaric and cruel."

People who imagine t h at making possession a felony will "stamp out the drug traffic," he points out, are as ignorant of the roots of the drug traffic as they are of the law.

"Let's say a kid 18 years old is picked up with a bottle of joints on him," Macdonald illustrates. "He is convicted of possession, which is an automatic felony, and given a suspended sentence. What has he lost?

"The judge who imposes sentence knows that he has lost the right to vote, the right to own a gun, the right to run for public office. He can never become a doctor, dentist, CPA, engineer, lawyer, architect, realtor, osteopath, physi c a l therapist, private detective, p h a r macist, schoolteacher, barber, funeral director, masseur or stockbroker.

"He can never get any job where he has to be bonded or licensed. He can't work for the city, county, or federal governments. He can't get into West Point, Annapolis, or the Air Force Academy.

"It is too severe. It stams too many doors. It effectively destroys the kid's life. It is too harsh a penalty for a little faddist experimentation. The judge knows it. So he looks for any out, and then nothing at all happens to the kid. Too many times, the law ends up being, in effect, no law at all.

And this last, of course, is the best and least sentimental argument against all automatic felony laws — they defeat the very purposes they are designed to serve. They fail to take individual differences into account ; they remove the delicate scale of justice from the hands of the judge and replace it with a dagger that strikes blindly at whatever is set before it.
